Senate Secrets Furnished to Lobby

'TIPS' WIRED ON TARRIFF DUTIES

Eyanson Says He "Can't Remember," but Walsh Produces Bosses' Minutes

Washington, Oct. 21—An office memorandum of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association showing information of the secret tariff rate-making sessions of the Senate finance committee was produced today at the Senate lobby investigating committee hearing.

The memorandum was written by J. E. Wuichet, an official of the association, to Charles L. Eyanson, assistant to the association president, who aided Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, a member of the finance committee, during its deliberations on the tariff measure.

The paper was produced by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, as Eyanson was recalled by the committee. It related the opposition of Chairman Smoot and Senators Edge and Reed, Republican members of the finance committee, in the secret sessions of the committee, to the 10 per cent duty on rough bored shotgun barrels.

Evanson, on being shown a photostatic copy of the memorandum, said he did not remember it.

"Dou you suppose," Walsh asked, "that Mr. Wuichet, a subordinate of yours, had such familiarity with the majority members of the finance committee as to obtain this information?"

"No, sir," Evanson replied.

"I suppose we will have to ask Mr. Wuichet about it," Walsh observed.

Big Dry Lobby Escapes Probe; After Selfish Ones

Washington, Oct. 21—The giant civic lobbies, maintained by religious and political organizations for moulding public opinion on the prihibition, World Court and League of Nations issues, probably will escape the spotlight in the Senate's investigation into "backstage" influence in congressional circles, it was learned today.

Members of the Senate 'lobby' committee indicated they would support the attitude of Senator Caraway (D) Arkansas, chairman, who declared the inquiry would be directed only into activities of "selfish" lobbies, the kind that have sought legislative favors for personal profit.

"[illegible] trying to [illegible] light on those lobbies which try to influence Congress or the executive for their own selfish purpose and not those trying to influence public opinion on great national policies," said Caraway. "I see no need to investigate the latter type, because they are not conducted for personal profit but rather for great moral issues."

This will mean that tariff lobbies apparently must bear the brunt of the inquiry.

Colder Tomorrow, Rain Forecast

Bostonians enjoyed another fine Indian summer day today, making three in a row, but the official weather forecaster says this period of delightful weather will come to an end tomorrow.

He predicts cooler weather and rain for tomorrow, due to a low pressure area centered in the South Atlantic and Gulf states today, which he says will probably move northeastward.

Hub Girl Is Bride of Marquis

Rome, Oct. 21 (AP)—Jocelyn Bush, daughter of Mrs. Henry Sturgis Bush of Boston and Philadelphia, was married to Don Fabrizio Gonzaga, Duke of Corella, this morning in the church of San Camilio.

Monsignor Burke, rector of the American College in Rome, performed the ceremony.

After a honeymoon trip the couple will live in Rome.

The wedding of Miss Bush to Don Fabrizio Catalano Gonzaga results from one of the most unusual international romances in many years, with the bridegroom renouncing his diplomatic career and high position in order that he might wed the girl of his choice.

He was the son of a duke and a graduate of the Italian government college of diplomacy, already launched on a career under Mussolini, when he met Jocelyne Bush two years ago.

It was love on first sight on the part of both, and last spring the engagement was announced, only to be suddenly broken off with no apparent reason.

Then followed the announcement that the Marquis had left the diplomatic service, which in turn resulted in the second heralding of his engagement to the American debutante.

It was then learned that Mussolini frowned on marriages between the nobles of his service and foreigners, and the Marquis cut the

HATCH TELLS OF DRINKING PARTIES

Brought Back From South Faces Court on Charge of $113,000 Larceny

Drinking parties at Nahant played a part in the downfall of J. Philip Hatch of Brookline, charged with larceny of $113,518, it was learned today.

Although protesting his innocence of any criminal intent, Hatch is understood to have talked freely to police.

The former member of a fruit and produce firm, who was brought back from New Orleans after having fled to Honduras, was to be arraigned in municipal court today.

It was learned the police have information concerning parties held at a house in Nahant either owned or leased by the broker prior to his second marriage about two years ago.

These parties were attended by a number of prominent Melrose people, and frequently unique invitations, specially engraved, were out.

He left Boston before his alleged criminal acts were discovered, going to Spanish Honduras and from there to Havana. In the meantime police had taken up the case, but Hatch returned voluntarily to New Orleans where Inspector Warren

Hoover at Dearborn to Glorify Edison

Detroit, Oct 21 (AP)—Coming to join in the tribute to Thomas A. Edison on the 50th anniversary of the perfection of the incandescent light, President Hoover arrived at Dearborn, the Henry Ford estate near here, today.

The drizzle of rain that began before dawn continued.

At Dearborn the presidential party was transferred from the Capital special to a train of the style of 1879, drawn by a wood-burning locomotive. Aboard this train the President and his party were taken to the historical village, to be greeted at a quaint old railroad station by Henry Ford and Mr. Edison and their parties.

BIG HOOKUP TONIGHT.

In a setting that contrasted early American life with the present, a group of the nation's notables were assembled to pay tribute to Edison.

Most of the ceremonies were held in the early American village reconstruced by Henry Ford at Dearborn, but throughout the city the picture of Edison featured the decorations in honor of the inventor.

Heading the group of notables was President Hoover, who will be the principal speaker at a dinner tonight formally dedicating the new Edison Institute of Technology in the historical village.

The President's address, as well as the remarks of several others will be broadcast over the largest radio hookup ever attempted.

600 INVITED GUESTS

About 600 guests have been invited to the dinner tonight. As an added feature of the ceremonies tonight, Mr. Edison, after returning from the laboratory, where he will re-enact the perfection of the lamp, will touch a button that

STOCKS TUMBLE IN WILD MARKET

New York, Oct 21 (AP)—Stock prices gyrated wildly, with a general tendency toward lower levels, in feverish trading on the New York and Curb exchanges today. Powerful support was thrown into the market at the opening, and many leading shares were sent up about $3 to $13 above the low levels reached in Saturday's drastic decline, but support was quickly withdrawn before another huge wave of selling which cancelled most of the early gains and sent prices sharply lower.

The dizzy decline in prices late last week brought a flood of margin calls over the week-end, and discouraged traders dumped their holdings overboard at the market. At the same time "bearish" pressure was renewed in earnest. Rumors that powerful bankers had formed a pool to support the market drove many shorts to cover their commitments. The trading facilities were overwhelmed, and the ticker was about half an hour late.

United States Steel common, after opening at $212, up $3 from Saturday's close, tumbled to $205.50, but then headed upward once more. Packard and General Motors dropped $2 or more to new lows for the year.

Such shares as American Telephone, Standard of New Jersey and American Can lost $2 or so.

"FLYING" BOAT CARRIES 169

Altenrhein, Switzerland, Oct 21 (AP)—DO-X, huge 12-engined flying boat which was launched last July, today made an amazing one-hour flight with a human load of 169, the first time in the history of aviation that so many persons have been carried into the air on any conveyance.

The giant Dornier plane took off at 11:15 a. m. and landed just one hour later. The machine flew over Lake Constance, her motors working faultlessly, and landed with her 51-ton load at 12:15 p. m. without a hitch.

The DO-X carried 159 passengers and a crew of 10. She had made previous test flights, but this was the first time that so great a load was taken up.

BUILT IN SECRECY

The flying boat, which may be used for a transatlantic crossing for the purpose of trying out her capacities, was built in the greatest secrecy. She was designed to carry 40 passengers normally, but has accommodation for 100 if necessary. Her 12 engines can develop a total of 6000-horsepower, and each engine can be treated individually without affecting its neighbors.

The Do-X measures 150 feet from

Uncover Plot to Kill Queen Marie

Bucharest, Oct. 21 (INS)—A daring attempt on the life of the Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania was uncovered today.

Would-be assassins had placed blocks on the railroad tracks near Temesvar, where the Queen's special train was to pass shortly. The plot was discovered, however, and the track cleared for the royal train. Several men were arrested charged with conspiracy in the plot.

Poincare Goes Under Knife; 'Tiger' Is Ill

Paris, Oct. 21—Former Premier Poincare was operated upon today for the second time since he became ill some time ago.

It was revealed also today that former Premier Georges Clemenceau is fighting off a severe heart attack. Dr. Laubry, a specialist, found it necessary to administer oxygen and camphor to the aged statesman five times during the night at his apartment in Rue Franklin.

A medical bulletin issued by physicians attending Poincare soon after his operation said:

"The second operation on M. Poincare was performed this morning under good conditions by Dr. Marion, assisted by Drs. Gosset, Foulin and Perard. The patient is resting comfortably."

The operation was performed at

11 ABSOLVED IN AIR BY PRIEST

London, Oct. 21 (AP)—A dispatch to the Daily Express from Brussels today said a Roman Catholic priest, flying from Antwerp to Ghent, pronounced absolution for the dying on behalf of his 11 fellow passengers.

The plane's carburetor took fire and the 11, believing they were doomed, besought absolution of the priest; he readily complied.

While he recited the solemn words the pilot carried on in growing peril and finally landed his plane safely. The passengers were scarcely clear of it when the gasoline tanks exploded and the machine was destroyed.

15 Drug-Crazed Men Break for Liberty

Spadra, Cal., Oct. 21 (INS)—Fifteen drug-crazed inmates of the state narcotic hospital were roaming the terrorized countryside today following a mad break late last night, the second in three months.

Two of the addicts were recaptured by guards.

The addicts slugged and trampled their keepers and fled yelling crazily into the night. Posses of wardens and deputy sheriffs were pursuing the fleeing men.

LOSS SET AT $200,000 IN WORCESTER FLAMES

Four Rescued by Taxi Drivers; Firemen Buried by Falling Wall

Worcester, Oct. 21—A fire lieutenant was killed and 12 firemen seriously injured by an explosion during a fire in the four-story brick warehouse of the Higgins Wall Paper Company in the rear of 274 Main st., today.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Malbouef, their daughter Lillian, 10, and Miss Clara Conklin were rescued from apartments over 274 Main st. when smoke filled the building.

They were led to safety by taxi drivers who have a stand across the street, and who also saved a hope chest, the property of Miss Conklin, who is engaged to be married.

Four alarms were sounded and several buildings in the heart of the city were threatened. The loss will reach $200,000, Chief Charles L. McCarthy of the Worcester fire department said.

FOUR ALARMS RUNG

The first alarm was sent in shortly after 2:30 o'clock when a man passing saw smoke coming out of the basement of the big four story brick plant. Upon the arrival of apparatus Chief McCarthy ordered a second alarm, quickly followed by a third and fourth, bringing out nearly all apparatus in the city.

Several big business blocks were showered by flying sparks, and with the flames still raging it appeared that the business section was doomed.

At the height of the blaze, with the smoke pouring from all four floors, the explosion occurred.

The entire top of the east wall of the building was blown out. Scores of firemen fighting the blaze from the ground did not have a chance to flee and were buried to the ground under a shower of bricks.

Lieut. Swenson, was instantly killed by a brick which fractured his skull. The injured firemen were buried in a pile of debris. Other firemen went to their aid to dig them out.

Ambulances and volunteered automobiles were pressed into service to take the injured to the Worcester City Hospital.

The first five named on the injured list are in a serious condition.

FIRE CAUSE A MYSTERY

The cause of the fire is a mystery to Worcester police and fire authorities. One theory is that the fire started in the basement, where police say, several hundred gallons of paint was kept. The cause of the explosion is also a mystery.

Every available fireman and policeman in the city was ordered on duty.

When word was received at the Worcester City Hospital that 14 firemen were injured, Dr. Ernest L. Hunt, surgical director at the hospital, sent out an emergency call for every doctor on the staff and every nurse. Within a few minutes every member of the staff had put in an appearance. It was a wonderful response, and every fireman received individual attention. Dr Hunt complimented the members of the staff for their splendid response and their diligent work after they arrived.

Store and Dwelling Destroyed by Fire

Leominster, Oct. 21—A store and a two-story and a half dwelling house was destroyed, a dance hall and other amusement places were threatened as a result of a two alarm fire in Whalom park early today.

The grocery store owned by Michael Tarkus, of Main st., was damaged. Tarkus and his family occupy the second floor. Sparks from the house landed on several amusement places in Whalom park nearby.

The fire was discovered shortly after one o'clock by an automobilist who sounded an alarm. No one was

The beacon is to stand as a perpetual monument to himself on the original site of his laboratory where the incandescent lamp was born. The beacon is a tribute to Edison by the Edison Pioneers who worked with him in the early days.

The beacon is an enormous bulb 17 feet high, inside of which are 600 incandescent lamps.

Among the noted guests who have accepted invitations to the ceremonies are Mme. Marie Curie, co-discoverer of radium; Orville Wright, Owen D. Young, who will be toastmaster at the dinner; Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to Great Britain; Charles M. Schwab, ironmaster; John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Dr. William Mayo, James W. Good, Secretary of War; Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times; P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central; Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio.

LUNCHEON AT FORD HOME

After the parade through downtown Detroit, President Hoover will return to the Ford home for luncheon and will be present at the return this afternoon of the airplanes completing the national air tour at the Ford airport.

The train on which the chief executive and the first lady made the journey to Dearborn probably is the most palatial ever made up for a president. The private car they are using was especially designed for the use of the President and distinguished visitors to the United States.

Besides a luxurious lounge in the rear and a commodious writing room in the front just off the private kitchen with its chefs and waiters there are four staterooms with real beds and shower baths connecting. Barber service is also available but Mr. Hoover shaves himself.

STATEROOM PULLMAN

Just forward of the President's coach is a stateroom pullman for the members of his immediate party with three coaches two of staterooms and one of berths for newspaper correspondents, photographers, railroad men and others.

Then there are two club cars, one of the usual type and the other especially designed and fitted with great easy chairs, overstuffed divans, reading lamps and small tables. There also is the celebrated Martha Washington dining car.

The President's car is named the Maryland and the locomotive which hauled the train from Washington over the Alleghenys was the George Washington, one of the fastest and most powerful locomotives in America.

The President's car, the lounge car and the dining car literally are bowers of red roses, ferns and autumn flowers and leaves.

Japan Celebrates Edison Jubilee

Tokio, Oct. 21 (AP)—Far-off Japan, where Thomas Edison's electric light bulbs did not arrive until 1885, tonight began its celebrations on a nation-wide scale of the jubilee of the invention of the incandescent light. Japan is today one of the world's largest users of electric light.

Senate Pays Tribute to Thomas A. Edison

Washington, Oct. 21 (INS)—The Senate today laid aside its tariff bill long enough to pay tribute to Thomas A. Edison, wizard of electricity.

A resolution of Senator Vandenberg (R) of Mich., praising Edison's invention of the incandescent electric lamp 50 years ago, was adopted.

Senators Vandenberg, Edge (R) and Kean (R) of New Jersey, Robinson (D) of Arkansas, and Fess (R) of Ohio, all made speeches of tribute.

Tipsy Man Found in the Wrong Bed

Worcester, Oct. 21—In response to frantic telephone calls that thieves were breaking into the home of Alderman Francis S. Southgate, recently defeated candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination, police rushed a flying squadron to the house.

Arriving there the police found Alderman Thorcat, 29, of Merrick st., snuggled esconced between the downy coverlets of Alderman Southgate's bed.

Although Thorcat had made his entrance to Alderman Southgate's home by kicking down the door, he maintained that he was in his own home. He was arrested on a charge of drunkenness.

Doctor Warns Girls on Removing Tan

Universal Service

Washington, Oct. 21—Debutantes and flappers who sun-tanned to a rich brown last summer had best let nature restore that lily-white complexion for the indoor-winter season, according to Dr. Charles Frederick Pabst, dermatologist.

Dr. Pabst, chief dermatologist of the Greenport Hospital of New York, admitted that milady who, last July and August, is now in a quandary.

"To remove the tan quickly, she is apt to try chemical preparations which are extremely harmful," Dr. Pabst said.

A pigment known as "melanin" causes tan, Dr. Pabst explained. It lies in the deepest cell layers of the epidermis, and that is why it cannot be rubbed or scrubbed off.

"In order to remove tan, these skin cells must be removed," Dr. Pabst said. "Sun-tan removers may contain bichloride of mercury designed to destroy the skin cells. It peels off the skin and destroys the pigment.

"Result—the user may suffer from dermatitis and eczema. The skin is cracked and germs can cause serious trouble."

following the fashion, tanned to the shade of a South Sea Islander the Velpeau nursing home on the Rue de la Chaise.

Mme. Poincare, who accompanied her husband to the nursing home, was present at the operation.

Poincare's illness forced him to resign from the premiership late in July. Soon after that he underwent a preliminary operation.

The former Premier was in the best of spirits when he was taken to the operating room. He laughed as he told his doctors he did not want all the bedside details of illness broadcast.

"I don't want the newspapers discussing the color of my pajamas, or the form of my bedsocks," he told them.

BRIAND IS CALLER.

The first visitor to inquire the result of the operation and inscribe his name in the new visitors' book was Aristide Briand, who followed M. Poincare as head of the French government. Other members of the government and notables came after him.

Today's was of a more serious kind and greatly disturbed the French populace. The former Premier is suffering from prostitis. He is in his 70th year.

News of Clemenceau's illness was received gravely throughout France, owing to his advanced age. He observed his 88th birthday anniversary on September 28.

At that time, he scoffed at reports that his constitution had been weakened by overwork, and declared he felt "as good as new."

"But I do not expect to live beyond another year," he said.

"TIGER" IGNORES WARNING

A month ago he suffered a slight indisposition and was told to rest more than he did, but he scoffed at the doctors and continued to spend every available moment laboring on his memoirs.

"The Tiger," as he is affectionately called, summoned his valet last night and complained of a choking feeling.

He was able to breathe only by strained intermittent gasps. The valet summoned Dr. Laubry, who declared Clemenceau was suffering from a heart attack induced by overwork.

That an injection of camphor was administered in addition to oxygen emphasized the seriousness of his condition as French physicians do not use camphor except in critical cases.

Dr. Jacquemair, Clemenceau's grandson, his daughter and a nurse, Sister Thonneste, remained at the aged French idol's bedside throughout the night with his wife.

FORMER RUM BARON SHOT BY GANG

Frank Lonardo Killed in Reprisal for Slaying of "Bootleg Czar"

Cleveland, O., Oct. 21 (AP)—Frank Lonardo, one-time corn sugar baron who got out of the racket when his brother, Big Joe and John, were killed two years ago in a gangland battle for supremacy, was dead today, the victim of a fusillade of revolver shots which roared out as he hunched over a card table in the back room of a downtown barbershop last night.

The police worked on the theory today that his death was in reprisal for the slaying of Sam "Black-jack" Todaro, rival bootleg czar, credited with having plotted the death of the Lonardos.

The slaying left only Dominic, last reported in San Francisco, alive of the four Lonardo brothers. Dominic was indicted here in the Sly-Fanner payroll robbery and murders, but evaded extradition and trial.

RETIRED HUB EDITOR DIES

Arthur A. Fowle, 81, who retired three years ago from the position of managing editor of the Boston Globe, died at his home on Mishawun rd., Woburn. He suffered a fall on Oct. 10 and last Tuesday pneumonia developed.

Funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow at 3 p. m. The Rev. William S. Packer of Winchester will officiate. Burial will be in Woodbrook Cemetery.

Arthur A. Fowle for more than 50 years had been one of the best known newspapermen in New England to the profession. On the staff of the Boston Globe he filled most of the positions at one time or another, from local reporter to managing editor. He held the latter position for more than 40 years.

Practically all his newspaper work was done on the Globe. He grew up with it under Gen. Chas. H. Taylor.

He was married to Kate Wallace Munn, June 12, 1877. She died Oct. 28, 1917. They had two sons, both living, Leonard M. Fowle, the Globe's yachting editor, and Donald A., a Boston architect.

Even the Jersey Clay Ford Has at Dearborn

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 21 (INS)—Back among the familiar places of his youth, Thomas Edison walked through the buildings that once belonged to Menlo Park. Even Smith's Creek Station is here and as he strode through it, Tom Edison was amazed, then he became critical, for he remembered the building as being not quite so clean.

"I wouldn't have believed it," he said, awed by the grandeur of the celebration and the pains with which it has been arranged. "It's amazing."

Poking the earth and turning to Harvey Firestone, his friend, he said:

"Henry's even got the damn New Jersey clay here."

Ford had shipped seven carloads of the soils of Menlo Park to Dearborn so even the dirt underfoot might be a reminder of those days of years ago.

'POLS' FAIL TO SWAY HOOVER

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP)—President Hoover, in reply to a protest from Florida over the appointment of a federal attorney, has announced it is the duty of the chief executive to make selections on the basis of public service, and not for political reasons.

The letter, made public at the White House today, was in reply to a communication from Fred E. Britten, secretary of the Republican party in Florida, on the appointment of Federal District Attorney Hughes.

It asserted the Florida secretary and other Republican leaders in that state had overlooked the "primary responsibility" incumbent on the chief executive "to appoint men to public office who will execute the laws of the United States with integrity and without fear, favor or political collusion."

"I note your demand," the Hoover letter said, "that the organization shall dictate appointments in Florida irrespective of merit or my responsibility and that you appealed to the opponents of the administration to attack me. The success of the Republican party rest upon good government, not on patronage."

HATCH BLAMES GAY PARTIES

Leise and Special Officer Robert Mayer were awaiting him.

Hatch denied he ran away, pointing to the fact that he returned voluntarily to New Orleans and that he had purchased return tickets as evidence of his intention of returning. He said he had left Boston in order that he might think things out.

He stated he waived extradition and will try and help the authorities traighten out the tangle in the books of the Hatch-Stevens Co. and the Hatch Distributing Co., of which he was a member.

At the time of his arrest the broken, whose home is in Brookline, had but $40 in his possession, and declared he would have to depend on friends for counsel and other aid.

His wife, who was taken home to Dallas, Tex., by her father, following Hatch's disappearance, is said to be on her way to Boston to aid her husband.

Ohio Flotilla Nears Cincinnati

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 21 (AP)—Steaming proudly down the Ohio amid the jubilation of cities counting on a rejuvenation of river traffic, the flotilla cruising from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill., to dedicate officially the stream's $110,000,000 improvement projects, drew toward Cincinnati today.

The City of Cincinnati, Queen City, Greater Pittsburgh and Tom Greene are expected to arrive here tonight in time for a rousing reception. Tomorrow President Hoover, coming here from the Edison celebration at Detroit, will dedicate the monument erected in Eden Park in celebration of years of work which have assured a nine-foot stage in the Ohio the year around.

Caught in Stolen Auto After Chase

Providence, Oct. 21 (AP)—Edgar Hunt, 20, giving a Queens Village, N. Y., address, was arrested after a chasing by a motor patrolman early today and, according to the police, confessed the car he was driving was stolen at Old Saybrook, Ct. The registration of Edward A. Bowes, Old Saybrook, was found in the car.

Mary, Doug Guests of Lord Mountbatten

London, Oct. 21 (INS)—Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks were here today for a week's stay. They are the guests of Lord and Lady Louis Mountbatten during their sojourn here.

COMPARE CAREY RING WITH MRS. SANCTUARY'S

Alleged Engagement Token Examined by Jury in $200,000 Love Suit

Providence, Oct. 21—The ring Mrs. Grace L. Sanctuary asserts Edwin F. Cary, wealthy realtor, gave her as an engagement token, was examined today by the jury hearing her $200,000 breach of promise suit against her former employer.

At the same time, by request of Mrs. Sanctuary's counsel, the jurors examined a ring that Mr. Cary removed from his hand while on the witness stand. Mrs. Sanctuary's lawyer asked the jurors to notice the similarity of the two. Each contained two diamonds and a saphire. Mr. Cary's was slightly larger than that of Mrs. Sanctuary's.

CARY REPEATS DENIAL.

Mrs. Sanctuary had testified one of the rings was made over at her request to correspond with the other.

Mr. Cary today again denied he had ever seen the "engagement" ring Mrs. Sanctuary wore and which she testified he gave her. "I never saw that ring until I saw it durinf the first trial of this case in court two years ago," he reiterated, on cross-examination.

It was after this repeated denial that counsel for Mrs. Sanctuary asked him to remove a ring he was wearing, in order that the jury might minutely observe it. He also passed Mrs. Sanctuary's "engagement" ring to the jurors at the same time for comparison.

CASE NEAR JURY.

Mr. Cary said the coolness between his housekeeper, Mrs. Harriet Sheldon, toward Mrs. Sanctuary was marked, but he denied building a "love nest" at Georgiaville pond as a trysting place because of that coolness on the part of his housekeeper when he visited his camp, "The Port of Missing Men," with his former stenographer.

"I had that building erected as a boathouse," he explained.

This is the third week of the case. It is expected to reach the jury Thursday.

tip to tail. Its wings are 10 feet thick and 150 feet from wing tip to wing tip. Six great turrets protect from each wing and each turret is equipped with two engines of 500 horsepower. The turrets are manned by mechanics who can walk along a passage on the inside of the wings from one turret to another.

When the Do-X was launched in July she carried 34 tons of weight and was able to get into the air with the greatest ease after a take-off run of only 500 yards. Other trials were similarly successful.

One of the features of the plane is her three decks. Another is that the machine can fly with only eight motors in use.

Mr. Dornier built the plane at Altenrhein, which is on the Swiss side of the German-Swiss frontier because of the limitations on German aircraft imposed by the treaty of Versailles.

While the ship was being built, many skeptics who maintained it would never fly owing to its enormous weight. Aviation experts, however, were enthusiastic about her ability to take the air.

Germans Riot in Young Plan Protest

Berlin, Oct. 21 (AP)—An attempt of German Nationalists yesterday to stage street demonstrations protesting adoption of the Young reparation plan culminated in a series of clashes between demonstrators and police in various parts of the city.

Police who had forbidden the demonstrations arrested more than 100 persons. There were a number of minor injuries inflicted when the constabulary used clubs to disperse manifestants.

Flies Glider Nearly 15 Hours for Record

Berlin, Oct. 21—What was claimed as a new world's glider duration flight record has been made by Lieut. Dinort of Rossitten, East Prussia.

Lieut. Dinort kept his glider in the air 14 hours 45 minutes, which was half and hour longer than the time made by the late Ferdinand Schulz in 1927.

DIVORCEE'S DEATH PLUNGE FINDS ECHO IN BOSTON LOVE TRIP

HUB LOVE TRIP ECHO IN DEATH OF DIVORCEE

Washington Police Hold Wooer of Mrs. Dreyfus After She Is Killed in Fall

A "honeymoon" at the Copley-Plaza Hotel five years ago cost Mrs. Aurelia Fisher Dreyfus the love of her artist-husband, Herbert M. Dreyfus of New York.

A dance on the pier of the Potomac Boat Club in Washington on Saturday night cost the beautiful divorcee her life and gave the police there their latest death mystery.

She was injured fatally in a 20-foot plunge from the pier and her dance escort, Edmund J. McBrian, for love of whom she left her husband, is held pending an inquest.

McBrian was named during the divorce trial as the man who spent a New Year's honeymoon with her in Boston.

According to Washington police, Mrs. Dreyfus and McBrian went to the dance Saturday night with her sister, Frieda Fisher of Cleveland, and her brother, William Fisher of Washington. The brother is secretary of the Colonial Canoe Club which gave the dance.

At 1 a. m. Sunday the four went out on the boat club balcony. Shortly after, Fisher and his sister returned to the club room to dance, leaving McBrian and Mrs. Dreyfus together.

When the orchestra began to play the last dance tune, "Home, Sweet Home," McBrian walked on to the dance floor and told the Fishers he was going for the wraps, police said.

JEWELS ARE MISSING.

While he was descending the steps from the cloakroom, the unconscious form of Mrs. Dreyfus was found on the pier landing below the balcony. She was rushed to the Emergency hospital, but died six hours later from a fractured skull. McBrian voluntarily gave himself up to police.

At the hospital it was discovered that a diamond bracelet, valued at $3500, and a jeweled watch, valued at $1000, which Mrs. Dreyfus had worn at the dance, were missing.

During the Dreyfus divorce trial in 1924, Mrs. Dreyfus confessed her love for McBrian in these words: "I fell in love with another man on the eve of my marriage and this love culminated following my marriage."

Teasing Problem Will Be Discussed

What effects teasing has and wah problems of personality and social control it produces will be discussed in Ford hall Wednesday at 4 p. m. by Dr. E. A. Kirkpatrick of Fitchburg, under auspices of Judge Baker foundation. He also will discuss whether educators should try to prevent teasing, or to direct or refine it. Herbert C. Parsons will preside and conduct the question period following the lecture.

Mount Rainier in Washington Photographed From Airplane in Oregon

Here's the photograph with which Capt. Stevens established a new record. Mt. Rainier is in the State of Washington and the picture was taken from the south-center of Oregon. In the picture Mt. Rainier appears smaller than surrounding mountains of less height. This is because of the earth's curvature. Capt. Stevens believes he can make another picture of the mountain from a greater distance as soon as the forest fire lifts. (International Newsreel photo.)

SEE MURDER IN BODY FOUND ON WOMAN'S TIP

Skowhegan, Me., Oct 21—Following a "tip" by a woman that Alfred Comeau, 38, a woodsman, missing since April, 1928, had been murdered, Sheriff Elton L. Markham, with a party of deputies, dug up Comeau's body in Thompson's Wood, Starks, about six miles from here.

The skull was found to crushed over the left ear, which caused the sheriff to believe that the man had been murdered for the purpose of robbery. Comeau is known to always have carried between $100 and $150 on his person.

Comeau was a traveling woodsman, but when in the vicinity of this town he made his home at the residence of Andrew Edgar and Frank Reynolds. He was last seen in the company of these two men, starting on a fishing trip in April, 1928.

Because of his habit of traveling about little was thought of his disappearance until Mrs. Reynolds, wife of Frank Reynolds, came here last week and told friends that she suspected that Comeau had been murdered.

The month after Comeau's disappearance Reynolds was committed to the Insane Hospital at Bangor. Edgar is at the Auburn jail in Androscoggin County, awaiting trial for disposing of mortgaged property.

The body was found buried under the stump of a tree that had been blown over by the wind. All that was left of the body was bones and a few pieces of clothing.

Open American Bar Convention

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 21—Lawyers and jurists from all sections of the world jammed hotel lobbies here prepared for the meetings of the nine sections of the American Bar Association.

The association's convention, which is only a ratifying body, meets Wednesday, but the sections, committees and sub-committees of the efficiently organized association began their deliberations today.

Hingham Woods Fire Is Under Control

The fire, which started on Mt. Blue, at Hingham, last Friday and which, according to Fire Chief Albert Brown, has destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of pine and oak trees, has been brought under control. Firemen expect that it will burn for three or four days more in the layers of pine needles which thickly carpet the ground.

Navy Chief Makes Official Visit

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 21—Assistant Secretary of Navy Ernest L. Jahncke paid an official visit to the Portsmouth navy yard, where he was received by Rear William W. Phelps and given the customary salute.

A tour of the yard was made, including the various shops, the naval prison and naval hospital and the submarine V-5, which is to be launched Dec. 17.

TRUNK ROADS ISSUE IN N. E. RAIL MERGER

The New Haven railroad favors the inclusion of the terminal lines of the Canadian railroads and the Boston and Albany in the proposed merger of New England railroads, E. G. Buckland, chairman of the board of the New Haven states.

This plan is opposed in the report of the Storrow committee which fears such a railroad power would be to the disadvantage of New England shippers.

Governor Norman S. Case of Rhode Island said that the New England governors in their present conferences on the subject have had under consideration the report of the Storrow committee of 1923.

That committee argued that, whereas it would be of advantage to shippers in New England to have a strong New England consolidated road, able to negotiate successfully with all trunk lines, it would be dangerous to create a railroad power in New England so all-inclusive that shippers here could find no other gateway or differential routes in case of need.

The New Haven wants exactly the sort of consolidation that the Storrow committee warned against, Mr. Buckland made it clear in his statement.

MILLIONS MORE FOR LIVERMORE

New York, Oct. 21—Wall Street buzzed today with stories of huge fortunes at stake in the present run of spectacular markets on the New York Stock Exchange.

Jesse Livermore of New York, multimillionaire plunging speculator, and credited with being the "biggest bear" in the market, is reported to have made millions of dollars in the last few weeks on the downward trend of prices. This man, who years ago was known as "the boy plunger," is one of the most colorful personalities who ever invaded "the street."

He is perhaps the most discussed "man of the hour" in Wall Street today. He is certain, however, to meet with vigorous opposition from the big "bulls," Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago, William C. Durant of New York, the Fisher Brothers of Detroit, and other members of the so-called coterie of "big ten" bulls.

Powerful banking interests are also said to be oposed to further drops in the market because of the possible effect such "breaks" would have on business.

Quake in Trinidad

Port of Spain, Island of Trinidad, Oct. 21—A severe earthquake was felt in Port of Spain. The quake lasted for several seconds, and caused considerable alarm. No serious damage was reported.

Murder or Mutiny Sensed in Message

Mutiny on the high seas or murder was believed to be confronting federal officers here today as a result of the receipt of a brief radio message from the freighter Unicoi of the Roosevelt line that "a serious crime" had been committed aboard ship.

The Unicoi is due in Boston today from Calcutta. A deputy United States marshal and a shipping board representative will board the ship on its arrival in the outer harbor.

A Boston police boat will "stand by" prepared to be of service if needed.

The message carried no information of conditions on the ship beyond the statement that "a serious crime" had been committed. The very terseness of the message was taken to indicate that something of an extremely serious nature had occurred.

The Unicoi is bringing a cargo of assorted freight from Calcutta and other ports in India.

BORAH WON'T GO TO LONDON

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP)—Secretary Stimson announced today on behalf of President Hoover that Senators Reed of Pennsylvania and Robinson of Arkansas have accepted posts as members of the American delegation to the London arms parley in January.

The secretary said Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee, asked by President Hoover to serve on the commission, had found it impossible to accept.

Commenting on the forthcoming arrival here of the Japanese delegates, Stimson said he had informed Tokyo he would be glad to confer with them in Washington.

The secretary explained the reason for their trip to London by way of America was due to delays on the Transsiberian Railway on account of the Chinese-Soviet difficulties.

Cars Crush Man

Fitchburg, Oct. 21—Alexander Ducharme, 49, of Lowell, a construction worker for the Boston & Maine railroad, is on the danger list in a local hospital as the result of being crushed between two cars while working in the local yards. He suffered several broken ribs.

Offer Prizes for Best Meal Served

Clubs, lodges, granges, parent-teacher organizations, church groups, or any other county or community organization will have an opportunity to compete for $50 in prizes which is offered by the Middlesex County Extension Service for the "Best Community Meal" served in the county before February 28. The contest opens Nov. 1.

This contest is planned to stimulate interest in better community meals, with special attention given to a balanced menu, emphasis being placed on the use of vegetables.

Find Woman Dead, Gas Jet Turned On

Methuen, Oct. 21—Alice S. Tattersall, 69, was found dead in the kitchen of the apartment of Mrs. Addie S. Rowell an Ingalls st. here. She was seated near the gas range.

Dr. H. L. Cushman thought it was a case of suicide, but called the medical examiner. Mrs. Rowell had been in Maine for some time and had been in communication with Miss Tattersall on several occasions. She returned to her home and found the body.

FALL STRONGER, ABLE TO WALK INTO COURT

Washington, Oct 21 (AP)—Final arguments in the bribery trial of Albert B. Fall were started today when Atlee Pomerene, special government counsel, told the jury which will determine Fall's guilt or innocence that they must determine whether the $100,000 obtained by the defendant from Edward L. Doheny was a loan or not.

Fall, who arrived a few minutes before court opened, walked into the room and to his chair. For the last week he had been wheeled to his place in an invalid chair. He was supported by attendants, but appeared stronger than at the start of the trial in which the government charges he received $100,000 from Doheny for awarding the latter company a lease to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California.

The former Interior Secretary conferred for 10 minutes with William Leahy of his counsel while waiting for Justice William Hitz to mount the bench.

The closing arguments were delayed about an hour while counsel conferred with Justice Hitz on disputed prayers each side wanted included in his charge to the jury.

Two Trapped as U. S. Steamer Sinks Tug

Dunkirk, France, Oct. 21—The American steamer Liberty, which left New York Oct. 3, collided with and sunk the tug Dogue while docking. The engineer and fireman were trapped in the engine room of the tug. The remainder of the crew were saved.

WRITES WILL, KILLS WOMAN AND SELF

A crude will, in which he said "she is the cause of all this," was written just before John Marja, 36, killed his landlady, Mrs. Ida Toivari, 32, of Englewood rd., Peabody, and committed suicide in the presence of the woman's husband.

In a dying statement to police at Thomas Hospital, Mrs. Toivari insisted that she could not ascribe any motive for Marja's act. Her husband, Matti Toivari, a witness of the shooting, was unable to explain what impelled Marja to kill the former's wife.

The police found an envelope in Marja's room upon which he had written what he intended as his will. It bore these words:

"This is my will. She is the cause of all this. I owe my boarding boss $15; I owe Moses Beres $10 and I owe my cousin, George Laakso, $2.

The attack upon Mrs. Toivari was made in the kitchen of her home, as she was following her husband to the rear door, about to enter their automobile, to gather ferns with which to decorate the grave of her only child, Paul, who was killed by an automobile five years ago.

Marja who had been drinking heavily over the week-end was pacing the kitchen as Toivari and his wife, in street attire, walked by him.

Without uttering a word he drew a 25-calibre automatic pistol and fired one bullett into the back of Mrs. Toivari. The report caused Toivari to look around. According to police, when he saw the weapon in Marja's hand he ran out of the house. His wife followed, screaming, and collapsed on the doorstep.

HUNT KAUFMAN IN NEW YORK

The search for George J. Kaufman, Bromfield st. jeweler who vanished a week ago, resulting in his two shops being closed, turned today to New York.

From information obtained at two of Kaufman's alleged addresses, one in Memorial drive, Cambridge, and the other in Belmont, representatives of Friedman, Atherton, King & Turner, State st. counsel for the protective companies, began a hunt for the missing jeweler in a street just off Broadway.

Kaufman's disappearance and the probable absence of $200,000 worth of gems became known last Friday when a meeting of 35 creditors was held.

$5,301.26 Brink Loot Found; Woman Held

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 21 (AP)—With $5301.26 of the loot recovered and his sister-in-law under arrest, police today renewed their search for Raymond H. Gallagher, who drove off in New York with an armored truck containing $63,000 in payroll funds.

Mrs. Julia Corcoran, 33 years old, a sister of Gallagher's wife, was arrested when New Jersey and New York detectives found the money in a trunk in her home, 116 Sherman ave.

Sex Appeal Films Wear y Elinor Glyn!

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE,
Universal Service staff Correspondent.
Copyright, 1929, Universal Service, Inc.

LONDON, OCT. 21.

"I am sick of all this quest for sex appeal. When everybody has learned good manners and a sense of the fitness of things and a knowledge of values, they will know life a great deal better than my generation learned it by precept.

"The greatest possible gift you can get from the gods is a sense of balance, and to make use of your critical faculties."

Thus spoke Elinor Glyn, the perpetually youthful grandmother, for many years supposed to have been Hollywood's chief exponent of "sex appeal" on the shadowed screen.

Mrs. Glyn received me in her luxurious suite in a West End London hotel. It was at 10 o'clock in the morning. She had arisen at eight, and had put in an hour, she said, dancing all by herself to the records on a gramophone. She said:

ELINOR GLYN

"Dancing keeps you lissom and young. But I do not dance for that reason alone. Mornings are the best hours of the day, and when I have had my sharp, cold shower, dancing—even all by myself—is merely an expression of the joy I find in life."

Mrs. Glyn sat near a window. The sunlight played upon her head and sent shots of copper gold from her hair. Many women of 35 would have appeared to be many years her senior. No matter how keenly one looks at Elinor Glyn, it is difficult to believe that she has five grandchildren.

I made bold to ask her what might be her recipe for keeping young. She replied:

"For years in California I have slept under the stars with not even a mosquito net to hide me, and in so sleeping outdoors I have let the strong winds from the Pacific play over my body.

"One simply absorbs vitality from those refreshing Pacific winds, as a sponge sucks up water. I have worked there. I have danced there. I do not drink and I do not smoke. I find life so joyous a thing that it is worth living decently for."

So much for Elinor Glyn's philosophy of living.

Havana, Oct. 21—Drenched by torrential rains, this city has not seen the sun for 15 days.

PANTAGES GOES ON STAND IN GIRL TRIAL

Defense to Rest After Theater Millionaire Testifies; Jury May Get Case Thursday

Los Angeles, Oct. 21.—Alexander Pantages, wealthy theater man, is to take the witness stand late today in his trial on a statutory charge brought by Eunice Pringle, 17, dancer.

Defense attorneys said Pantages' testimony will be the most vital link in their chain of evidence combating the girl's attack story. Pantages is expected to contradict her testimony in every detail and build up the defense contention of a "Frame-up" conspiracy.

Several other defense witnesses remain to be heard, but it was said their testimony would be brief. Pantages is expected to be the last witness for the defense, after which the state will produce rebuttal witnesses. The case in all probability will go to the jury Thursday or Friday.

Mrs. Rose Fowler, Pantages' secretary, whose testimony was interrupted when court adjourned Friday, resumed her story today. She gave an entirely new version of the alleged attack. She said she saw Pantages immediately after Miss Pringle's screams raised an alarm, and he did not show signs of a struggle. State witnesses had testified his clothing was torn.

Mrs. Fowler also contradicted the testimony of Roy Keene, assistant manager of the Pantages Theater, who said he was in Pantages' office soon after the incident.

Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of the theater magnate, recently found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of a Japanese gardener in an automobile accident, is suffering from a badly injured knee. Her physician said an operation may be necessary.

Mrs. Pantages is to appear in Superior Judge Hardy's court October 25 for hearing on her plea for probation.

Thore Tells Value of His Pension Plan

Wendell P. Thore of Squantum, champion of aged men and women and also of dumb animals, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Senate at tomorrow's primaries in Quincy, Braintree, Milton and Randolph. On his cards asking voters to cast their ballots for him Mr. Thore calls attention to the fact that his noncontributory pension bill, endorsed by the American Federation of Labor, came within three votes of passing in the last Legislature.

In Double Slaying

Mrs. Ida Toivari

John Marja

Mrs. Ida Toivari of Englewood rd., Peabody, was killed by her boarder, John Marja, as she was leaving her home with her husband to visit the grave of her baby. Marja then killed himself. His will said "she is the cause of all this."

Lobby Expose Shows Interests Rule the Tariff, Editors Say

Action of Connecticut Officials Arouses Intense Far-Reaching Comment

STARTLING disclosures by Hearst Newspapers of the widespread activity of Washington lobbyists inimical to public policy precipitated the Senate investigation into the use of paid propagandists. These revelations by the Hearst Newspapers, fully borne out by the official inquiry, stirred the press of the country and evoked wide comment. Herewith are excerpts from editorial comment on a Senator's use of a paid manufacturers' agent in secret tariff hearings:

New York Times

"It is pretty clear that both sides are getting heartily sick of the whole muddle into which the tariff has fallen. This seems to be made worse every day. The parliamentary situation, instead of growing better, is getting worse. Still more disastrous is the effect upon public sentiment made by disclosures of the way in which the higher tariff rates have been [illegible]. Senator Bingham admits now that it was probably a mistake to employ as a clerk to work with the Senate finance committee an agent of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut.

"It was the kind of a mistake that is worse than a crime, politically speaking. To let people know of the secret and underground methods by which tariff favors are sought and granted is not to enamor them of the protective system, or make them wish to exert themselves in its behalf.

"All observers agree that the tariff bill has been steadily sinking in favor, both at Washington and throughout the country. Its demise, ignominious though it might be from the standpoint of the Republican party, would not cause a single tear to be shed. First the proposed tariff was received with a good deal of indifference; then it began to be disliked; now it comes near to being positively hated. A few more revelations of the selfish and sinister influences behind it should seal its fate."

N. Y. Herald Tribune

"When Senator Hiram Bingham hired C. L. Evanson of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association to assist him in preparing the tariff bill his motives were unquestionably right. He felt ignorant of tariff matters—as who, indeed, does not?—and he wished to have authoritative information on Connecticut industries at his elbow. Yet it seems clear that the fashion in which he secured advice was unsound and dangerous.

"Any man has a right to hire a special secretary if he pleases. * * *

"Senator Bingham's action, however, went beyond this frank securing of expert advice. In the first place, Mr. Evanson continued drawing his pay as an agent of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association after he entered Senator Bingham's service. His whole service as secretary involved a subterfuge that seems to us indefensible. In the second place, Mr. Evanson not only conferred with senators individually; he conferred with them when they were in committee, and received the privilege of the Senate floor. * * *

"This entrance of an outside expert, the representative of a special interest, to official committee sessions seems to us the central wrong involved."

New York Telegram

"He (Bingham) could see nothing wrong in putting an active executive of a manufacturers' association on the government payroll, because, so far as he is concerned, the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut is, in effect, the State of Connecticut.

"Apparently he does not consider himself a representative of the 120,000,000 people of the United States, who would have to pay the $76,000,000—multiplied several times by inevitable pyramiding—of benefits he got for the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association.

"Apparently he gave no thought even to the larger interests of the 1,500,000 people of Connecticut, who sent him to the Senate. He represents the 1000 or so leading manufacturers of that state."

Bingham Got Just Deserts in Lobby Case, Says Post

"We cannot recall an instance in which a United States Senator received at the hands of his colleagues a more seathing castigation than that administered yesterday to Senator Bingham by the Senate Committee investigating lobbying.

"'If there is any fault in this it is entirely mine,' said the Connecticut Senator. 'This matter came up suddenly and probably I made a mistake.'

"Not probably, but certainly, he made a mistake, and a bad one. We do not at all consider Senator Bingham capable of the corruptness or intent which the committee tried to ascribe to him . . . But he surely sinned against good taste, sound practice and official proprieties. We fear that in the 'rolling' he received at the hands of the committee he got just about what was coming to him.'"—New York Post.

N. Y. Morning World

"The people of the United States ought to be grateful to Senator Bingham. He has given them a perfect picture of the minds which made the Tariff Bill, the methods by which it was made and the intolerable burdens which it would impose upon them, to increase the profits of a single class.

"Senator Bingham confesses that he made a 'mistake' in arranging to have Evanson sworn in as a clerk so that he might attend the secret sessions of the Senate Finance Committee when it was drafting the tariff bill. Mr. Evanson draws a salary of $10,000 a year from the Manufacturers' Association. The Manufacturers' Association represents the Connecticut industrialists who sought and obtained higher tariff duties.

"Thus, thanks to Senator Bingham, the interests seeking tariff favors had their own paid representative present, ostensibly as a clerk to a Senator, when their case was being decided.

"In view of all these facts and in view also of the fact that Mr. Evanson's status was somewhat concealed in the earlier stages, the anger of the other Senators is easily understood."

Washington Daily News

"Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut brought a $10,000-a-year executive of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association to Washington and put him on the U. S. payroll while he continued to draw his salary from the manufacturers' association.

"Bingham introduced him into secret meetings of the Senate finance committee while that body was fixing rate sections of the tariff bill.

"Bingham by his own admission received most of his tariff information from this lobbyist and apparently voiced the wishes of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association in every vote he cast for higher industrial rates.

"To all purposes C. L. Evanson was the Senator from Connecticut in framing the bill.

"Bingham personally is neither better nor worse than some other members of the Senate who cooperate with the tariff lobby.

"The only way that he differs with them is that, in his simplicity, to call it by no harsher name, he has given the whole tariff show away. That is why the Senate Old Guard is even more angry with him than are his political opponents."

Baltimore Sun

"'In the past,' wrote E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association to Charles Evanson, the secretary he loaned to Senator Bingham, 'we had to depend in tariff matters on Senator McLean. Now we will be able to handle these matters in our own office.'

"It is not surprising that the president of an organization which stands to profit from high protection should do his best to handle the tariff in his own office. That is what his clients pay him for.

"The surprising aspect of the situation is Senator Bingham's unblushing acquiescence in this estimate of his office as the mouth of a large pipe line direct from the tariff barons to the Senate."

Richmond Times-Dispatch

"It is difficult to discuss with any degree of temperateness the action of Senator Bingham in bringing to Washington as his assistant in tariff matters Charles L. Evanson, an officer of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association.

"Senator Bingham's attitude in this matter insults the intelligence of the American people.

"The senator's moral sensibilities either are obtuse, or he thinks everyone but himself is a plain fool."

LEAPS FROM CAR IN TIME TO SAVE LIFE

Gloucester, Oct. 21. By a scant few inches Roy L. Parsons, 25, of Myrtle st., newspaper reporter, escaped death today when he leaped from his coupe at the Maplewood crossing of the Boston & Maine railroad.

A split second after he leaped Parsons' automobile was struck by the Rockport-to-Boston express, was carried several hundred feet down the track and crashed against a telegraph pole.

Trainmen, believing the coupe driver to have been killed, rushed to the wreck scene only to be greeted by the reporter when he came limping up.

The reporter was on his way to work in Gloucester when the coupe crashed through the lowering gates.

SLAYS BROTHER OF DEAD BOY

Chicago, Oct. 21. When Sammy Fiore, 14, who was killed in an automobile accident, was buried here, his brother, John, 16, a high school student, acted as one of the pallbearers.

Melancholy after the funeral, John informed his parents he intended to stroll about the neighborhood. Fifteen minutes later he was dead.

Police learned young Fiore encountered Joseph Moretti, a school rival, their mutual resentment flaring into fisticuffs. Moretti obtained a pistol and killed Fiore.

Mme. Curie, Tired, Speeds to Dearborn

New York, Oct. 21 (INS). Speeding westward in a private car, with a physician by her side, Mme. Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, today was struggling to overcome the exhaustion that New York's strenuous welcome brought on.

Mme. Curie is on her way to Dearborn to greet and felicitate her old friend and fellow scientist, Thomas Edison, on occasion of the golden jubilee celebration of the invention of the incandescent lamp.

Dearest Anne:

about your fur coat, Anne! You can have it cleansed and glazed for only $3 at the Gay Shoppe. They do splendid work, and will improve its appearance about 100%. They also do relining and remodeling of fur and cloth coats very reasonably. Cleansing a cloth coat is $1.00. Now let me tell you about the lovely dresses that you are acquainted with at the Gay Shoppe. This week there is a wonderful sale on all their dresses. $16.50 frocks reduced to $9.95. $22.50 evening gowns to $14.95, and afternoon gowns reduced to half price. All the latest lines at the Gay Shoppe, 58 Winter St., second floor.

Wherever Girls Gather

and permanent waves are discussed, you'll hear favorable comments on the skill and ability of Strati's operators. Strati protects you by using only genuine sachets, and his price for a while longer is but $8 for the Eugene Method, and the new marvelous Frederics Vita Tonic Compound process. This price includes shampoo, cut and setting wave. So, my dear, if you would make certain of satisfaction 'phone Lib. 9443 for appointment. Special departments for marcels, bobbing, facials, finger waving. Strati, 41 Winter St., Rm. 73-74.

A "Price-less" Dress!

It won't cost you a penny for the dress of your choice if you can find it duplicated anywhere else at a lower price than the New York Dress Mfg. Co. charges. That's their motto, Anne—and their prices are $3.75 and $6.75. Every day new shipments arrive in glorious colors and long lines—Canton, satins, prints, georgettes, jersey, and wool tweed. Winter coats at $8.75. Their enlarged shop with its gay show windows now greets you when you step from the elevator. The New York Dress Mfg. Co., 515 Washington St., 2nd floor (Opp. R. H. White).

It Is Truly Ideal

that popular shop of Mrs. Morse's, where there is a price to fit every purse—a style to suit every fancy—and a size to fit every figure! Swagger travel coats of tweed, luxurious fur-trimmed broadcloth coats in the most desirable colors—princess lines and furred borders, range from $22.50 to $190. Dresses of silk, transparent velvet, tweed and print, with clever little touches that stamp them with swank and distinction, are priced from $10 to $55 at Mrs. Morse's Ideal Shop, 59 Temple Place, Rm. 808.

Shampoo and Marcel $1

Houghton & Dutton's Beauty Parlor has put on a gay new make-up, Anne—and looks so bright and attractive in its new decorations that we are all invited to come and admire. For a celebration they offer a shampoo and marcel special at $1 for 3 days only—either long or short hair. If the last wave of your permanent is sadly vanishing, one of their tickets purchased between Oct. 25th and Nov. 2nd will entitle you to a Frederics Vita Tonic Permanent for only $7.75—anytime before April 1st. Windblown bobs 75 cents; regular cuts, 50 cents.

"If You'll Clean My Hat

I'll buy a can," said a wary gentleman watching the demonstrator of Annette's Perfect Cleanser in Gilchrist's. So she got to work—and the gentleman bought the cleanser! This magic powder removes all stains caused by food, fruit, ice cream automobile grease—leaves no ring—and no odor. It can be used on anything from a chiffon dress to a felt hat and it even cleans fur. Annette's Perfect Cleanser now comes in a convenient new shaker can, and is sold at Gilchrist's Notion Goods Dept. 50 cents.

Correct Corsetry!

A good foundation garment is not a luxury. It is a necessity! Straight line dresses cover a multitute of defects, but the present trend of fashion reveals the fact that beautiful figures are rare. Why? Since elastic webbing entered the field of corsetry, figures have spread out of shape, and faulty posture predominates. Here are some of Caporn's artistry MADE WITHOUT ELASTIC. The satisfaction which is experienced from being "well set up" underneath comes with wearing No. 1 garment. By means of adjustable lacings on each side the figure is molded into slender lines. It gives one the "Princess effect." A side laced corset with a flat back, and no steel to protrude provokingly in front is No. 2. It reduces large hips and thighs. Does not raise bust or ride up. Some figures, especially after abdominal operations or prolapsed organs, need the support No. 3 gives. It is easy to put on as the lacings are not to be touched. These models sketched at Mrs. Caporn's Correct Corsetry Studio are only three of many she has invented. Why not call and see models, or arrange by phone for a demonstration in your home (without obligation). You may also have fittings in your home. Caporn, 234 Boylston St., Thorndike Bldg., Ken. 4230.

Compacts Have Gone Silhouette, Too!

Compared to their new slim, slinky lines your old favorite is a bustle gown, Anne! Now, I don't want to be an old meanie, but that compact which has held the roses for your cheeks, and the powder for your nose so faithfully and so long, should be relegated to a place of honor in the family what-not. AND if you find a sleek new one in the toe of your Christmas stocking, you'll know I couldn't resist those stunning new enameled compacts, which Frances Denney has just put out—and which Filene's is introducing today. They are in green enamel with silver-like steps on one side that give a modernistic air. No matter what your preference in "make-up containers" may be, you'll find your favorite model in these new Frances Denney compacts. There is a single powder compact, for $1.00. Single dry rouge, in new youthful shades, $1. A single cream rouge, which is quite unusual, $1.00. A double compact for $2. And a new loose powder container that will hold all the powder you require as securely as can be. This is $1.50, and is sure to be a most popular Christmas gift. Be sure you see these compacts before making up your list, Anne. You'll find them in Filene's Toilet Goods Section, street floor.

Good News for Fur Coat Hunters

Scott Furriers have made a special purchase of 483 dependable fur coats and cloth coats. This is not a sale, but an unusual event—an extraordinary purchase just at the time when most of us are thinking of our new winter coats. The skins, the styles, and tailoring all qualify the Scott standard—the best. This group includes lavishly fur-trimmed cloth coats $39.50 and $79.50. Natural Muskrat with Fox, $135; Seal Dyed Coney, Fox trimmed, $135. Hudson Seal (Dyed Muskrat), squirrel collar and cuffs $185, and Raccoon of deep furred dark skins, $195. Besides these unparalleled values, you may enjoy their exclusive payment plan for purchasing. You may pay cash, if you wish; open an extended charge account; or make small weekly or monthly payments while wearing your coat by joining the Scott Unique Fur Club—the only one in New England. There are no extra or carrying charges. They do not refer to your family, friends, or employer when opening an account. Your transactions are confidentially arranged in one of their twenty private offices. Scott Furriers, 69 Summer St., Boston; 369 Westminster St., Providence (entire building opposite Grace Church), and 51 Pratt St., Hartford. For your convenience all Scott stores open every evening until 9 o'clock.

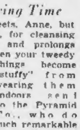
"Just Look at This Dress, Priscilla" and Jean held up a smart frock, in one of the newest shades, as fresh and bright, and trimly pressed as though it had come out of the smartest salon. "It has just been dyed by the Greater Boston Cleaners & Dyers, and looks just like new." Their prices for dyeing are very agreeable. They also do cleansing by that remarkable restoring process which brings back all the life and smartness that your togs had when they first attracted you to buy them. And they charge but $1 for any kind of wearing apparel. Dresses of the most delicate fabrics, negligees, 3-piece ensembles, trench coats, all cost but $1 at the Greater Boston. Pleats, flares and tricky tuckings do not increase the price. Sweaters, felt hats, blouses are cleansed for only 50 cents. Ties and gloves for 15 cents, and fur coats for $3. They give prompt, reliable service, and you may send your things in by Parcel Post, if you can't get in town yourself. The Greater Boston Cleansers & Dyers are at 8 Winter St., Rm. 815. Tel. By Special Request the Silvers have promised to extend for 3 days more their marvelous coat special for Priscilla friends, alone. The rush was so great last week that the Silvers have secured another lot of magnificent fur trimmed winter coats at $47, originally $59 to $65 values. Other coats in black and colors, kit fox trimmed, wolf, or caracul. If you do not wish to pay for your coat now, you may pay a small deposit, and they will hold it until the first of the month for you. Silver's Specialty Shop, 59 Temple Place, 5th floor.

When Varicose Veins

forced Jeanette to enlist in the "elastic stocking brigade," she went to Dr. Saul, a Podiatrist, who gives his personal attention in fitting correctly elastic stockings. He has just introduced the new Paristocking, of thinnest rubber, absolutely invisible under silk stockings, $6.75 each. His new French elastic stocking with soft knitted top that fastens to your garter gives wonderful support. No wrinkles, and no bulges. Seamless, flesh-color, with knitted-in heel, it is the lightest weight, $7.50 each. You may order by mail. Dr. Saul's fitted-to-measure arch support shoes, $8.50. Dr. Saul, 110 Tremont St., Rm. 312.

It's Preserving Time

Oh, not for sweets, Anne, but for your clothes, for cleansing preserves them, and prolongs their life. So when your tweedy things become "stuffy" from wearing them indoors send to the Pyramid Co., who do such remarkable work cleansing, pressing and restoring for $1. Dresses of the most fragile material, fur-trimmed coats, ensembles—everything—is cleaned for $1 at Pyramid Co. You may send your things Parcel Post. Pyramid Co., Fabyan Bldg., 26 West St., Rm. 602.



Silver Threads

certainly give birthdays away—and add a few for good measure. So when your hair begins to streak or fade, drop in and consult L. Max—a master craftsman, with over fifty years experience in hair coloring. In his daylight booths he can match your hair perfectly, and restore its color, with his corrective dyes. He is having unusual success "retouching" waning permanents, and his staff of thoroughly trained operators specialize in finger and marcel waving. L. Max occupies the entire third floor, 154 Boylston St., Cap. 5831. His prices are very moderate.

50 TO QUIT U. S. DIPLOMACY FOR BETTER JOBS

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP)—Recent resignations of several high officials of the foreign service have severely depleted the upper ranks of American diplomacy.

While the State Department usually declines to comment on resignations, it was estimated by well informed persons in the department today that more than 50 members of the diplomatic personnel will have been dropped from the lists for one reason or another before December 31.

Outstanding in recent resignations were those of six high officials of the foreign service to enter the banking or oil business.

The reason generally assigned for the resignations is the dissatisfaction of the diplomatic personnel with the promotion system. Since most members of the foreign service enter the department at the age of 25, it is estimated that under the present system a diplomat would reach the age of 55 or 60 before attaining the ranks of consul-general in the consular service or counsellor of embassy in the diplomatic service.

The most outstanding case at present is the status of the so-called "class of 1922," and those following it, whose members within seven years have not been promoted beyond the rank of third secretary with a salary of $4000 annually.

A recent resignation which stirred considerable speculation was that of Stokley Morgan of Arkansas, formerly chief of the important Latin American division of the department.

Others were those of Thomas L. Daniels of St. Paul, first secretary at Rome; John F. Martin of Florida, formerly charge d'affaires at La Paz, Bolivia, and Myron A. Hofer, of Cincinnati, assigned to the department.

U. S. RUM FINES $7,476,300

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP) An increase of prohibition cases in federal courts and a decrease in convictions for the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1929, as compared with the year previous, are shown in statistics compiled by the Justice department.

Cases instituted totaled 110,555, of which 86,348 were criminal, an increase of 1000. There were 47,100 convictions, 1700 less than in 1928. The department, however, pointed out that $7,476,300 was collected in fines in 1929, an increase of $173,000.

Liquor cases, the report said, made up two-thirds of the criminal dockets.

The southern district of New York showed the largest number of prohibition cases, 7816, while the eastern district of Kentucky was second with 2945, the northern district of New York with 2293 and the District of Columbia fourth with 1661.

Queen Marie Plans to Live in Switzerland

Budapest, Oct. 21 (INS)—Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania intends to retire to Switzerland to devote herself to literary work, news dispatches published here today stated.

The dispatches implied that the Queen had come to her decision to retire because of chagrin over the fact that she was not appointed to the regency now guiding the affairs of Rumania.

"Strange Interlude" Praised by Pastor

Springfield, Oct. 21—"Strange Interlude" is the best object lesson the drama has produced in years and is a better sermon than any man in this city could preach," said Rev. O. W. Eames in Church of the Unity after he attacked censorship in Boston. "No person can see the play without being better for having done so," he said.

Air Ambulance Service

New York, Oct. 21 (INS)—The aerial ambulance became a realty today when officials of the Colonial Flying Service and the Scully Walton Ambulance Company announced that they would fly hospital planes from New York to "any point having an adequate landing field."

HUMBERT GOING TO BRUSSELS

Brussels, Belgium, Oct. 21 (AP)—Crown Prince Humbert of Italy is expected in Brussels on Wednesday with the object of obtaining the consent of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth to marry Princess Marie Jose.

A great reception has been planned to celebrate the betrothal, which probably will be formally announced on Thursday, anniversary of the wedding of the King and Queen of Italy.

The Prince, who is 25, and the Princess, 23, met first in Venice in 1917, when Marie Jose was a pupil at the Villa de Poggio, near Florence.

The only obstacle to the wedding was the excommunication of the royal family of Italy after the annexation of Rome by the House of Savoy, but the recent arrangement between Vatican and state cleared the way for the matrimonial union.

Father and Six Children Die by Gas

New York, Oct. 21—A pan of water which boiled over and extinguished a gas jet of a kitchen stove caused the deaths of a father and six children, three daughters and three sons, as they slept in their West Forth-sixth st. apartment.

Walter Cavanagh, 42, a private chauffeur, had failed to report for work and the garage where he kept his employer's automobile called the apartment house to see if he had overslept.

CHINESE FORM BATTLE LINES

London, Oct. 21 (INS) The Chinese nationalist government today started an offensive against the Kuominchun rebels, said a Central news dispatch received from Shanghai.

Gen. Chiang Kai Shek, president of the national government, plans to use 120,000 troops in a drive between Cheng-Chow and Hankow, the dispatch said. All available airplanes will be used for bombing attacks.

"My Skin Nearly Drove Me Mad"

"I had pimples and blackheads so badly, and used to squeeze them so much that my face looked red and raw. On the advice of a nurse friend I got a jar of Rowles Mentho Sulphur and used it faithfully for ten days. In 3 days' time there was a big difference in my skin and today it is as soft and clear as my ten year old sister's.

The sulphur in Rowles Mentho Sulphur clears the skin while the Menthol heals the sore, broken tissue. That's the twofold action you want for skin troubles. Try Rowles Mentho Sulphur not only for pimples and blackheads, but for dry, scaly skin, rash, and itching eczema. IT WORKS! All druggists sell it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Rowles.

FIVE KILLED IN AIRPLANE ACCIDENTS

Pottstown, Pa., Oct. 21 (AP)—Luther M. Bush, 54, president of the Bush Planing Mill, Roversford, and his son, Guy Franklin Bush, 21, student pilot, were killed when their new monoplane crashed 300 feet shortly after taking off.

Bellingham, Wash., Oct. 21 (AP)—Ed Mills, a contractor, was killed when he jumped from a plane with a parachute which failed to open. It was Mills' first attempt at parachute jumping.

Shreveport, La., Oct. 21 (AP)—John Broussard, 26, pilot of Oak Ridge, La., and T. M. "Red" Cook, a mechanic of Pittsburgh, Texas, were killed in an airplane crash at the Shreveport airways.

Their plane went into a tail spin 900 feet in the air and plunged to the ground, where it burst into flames.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 21 (AP)—Tucking his mail bag under his arm, Harry Sievers, pilot of the Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail route, leaped in his parachute 1000 feet to safety as his plane crashed in a field near Beaver Falls, early today. Sievers was flying from Bettis Field, here, to Cleveland, when his motors stopped. Seizing the lone bag of mail, he leaped. The plane was demolished. Sievers took the mail to the postoffice in Beaver Falls.

First Woman Bags Her Deer in Maine

Bangor, Me., Oct. 21—The week-end receipts of game by mail brought the tally of the season for the Bangor station to 20 deer and a bear.

The first non-resident licensed woman hunter to check a deer here was Mrs. Alfred Bishop of Southport, Ct. The other game was for Maine hunters, including a big deer which ex-Gov. Percival P. Baxter brought down from Fish River hunting grounds.

3 Killed as Fast Freight Hits Auto

Penn Yan, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—Two boys and a girl were killed instantly in a Pennsylvania grade crossing accident in East Elm st., this village, today.

The crossing, with gates up, was temporarily unprotected when the light sedan carrying the three ran on the tracks in the path of a fast freight train, according to the coroner.

John Hayes, who is 10, went to bed at 5 a. m. today after arriving home under police escort and after car-riding in several cities.

Somehow, John, who lives in Park st., Cambridge, got himself lost yesterday when he went for a walk. It became very late and the boy, tired and weary, finally appealed to an Elevated starter in Adams sq.

Through a misunderstanding, John was placed on a Revere car and Revere police were asked to meet him at the end of the line.

The policemen learned the right address from the boy and he was conducted home in a police car.

Ask Malden Rubber Factory to Stay

An effort to retain the factory of the Boston Rubber Shoe Co. in Edgeworth section of Malden has been announced by the Malden chamber of commerce.

The directors of the chamber asked the officials of the United States Rubber Co., owners of the plant, to rescind their action or at least keep the plant in operation until the first of next year.

URGES COURTS TO RESEIZE LOST POWER

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 21 (AP)—A lost power to the judiciary—the right to promulgate rules governing pleading, practice and procedure—was up for discussion today before the conference of American bar delegation in session here, preparatory to the opening session of the American Bar Association Wednesday.

The committee on judicial councils is of the opinion the courts should rise in their might and retrieve laurels lost to state legislatures. Creation of a judicial council in each state, giving their courts the full rule making power, is enthusiastically advocated by the committee, headed by Josiah Marvel, Wilmington, Delaware.

Rule making power once was considered within the inherent powers of the court and was exercised without question, then legislatures began the practice of passing statutes prescribing methods of pleading, practice and procedure to govern the bench and the bar.

A report of the committee states that for 75 years there has been a "drifting toward usurpation of power" by the legislature. The judiciary in many states has a judicial council which makes rules. The committee advocates that each court be allowed to make its own rules and that the judicial councils recommend to the legislatures changes in present statutes regulating legal procedure.

SUNDAY REST IS OF CATHOLIC ORIGIN

Observance of Sunday as a day of rest is due primarily to the sentiment created by the Catholic Church, declared David Goldstein, prominent Jewish convert and Knights of Columbus lecturer, in the weekly Catholic Truth Period broadcast over WNAC.

Discussing "The Catholic Church and the Labor Movement," Goldstein said: "Perhaps no single piece of legislation more plainly gives evidence of the friendship of the Catholic Church for those who toil than making the Lord's Day a legal rest day.

"So deeply did the Catholic Church implant into the minds and hearts of men that work should stop for one day in seven for the honor and glory of God that when the French Revolutionists, prompted by their hatred of religion in general and of the Catholic Church in particular, attempted by constitutional enactment to force the people to accept one day's rest in every 10 days, in place of one day in seven, they failed.

"And unless religion has lost its grip upon the people of Russia, the Bolshevists shall no doubt fail in their present-day attempt to do away with the Sunday rest day in the land of the Soviets."

GUILD SYSTEM

The speaker then turned to the guild system in vogue in the Middle Ages, terming it the forerunner of the modern labor union.

"It is in the Middle Ages, during those days when all Christians were Catholics, that we see the love of the Catholic Church for those who toil manifested in those glorious humane organizations known as guilds.

"Those societies were the medieval trade unions wherein the interests of both master and man were safeguarded. The religious and moral as well as the economic welfare of the men were maintained and advanced in those guilds, for they were based upon Catholic principles of justice and charity," he said.

Goldstein pointed out the opposition of the Catholic church to individualism in industry stating that the principles of brotherhood and stewardship for the common good should hold in business relations.

"The Catholic church holds that the laborer is entitled to a sufficient wage, to a full return for the part he plays in industry. He is entitled to what Pope Leo XIII called a family wage, enough to live upon becomingly.

ENCYCLICALS OF LEO

Referring to the encyclicals of Pope Leo XIII, he said, "therein neither the socialist nor the capitalist-extortionist will find comfort, for they stand against the monopoly of land and capital by the state or by any group of industrial magnates.

"Therein will be found the principle. Let the law favor ownership (of property) and let its policy be to induce as many as possible of the laboring class to become owners.

"The Catholic stands for Christian regard for the rights of the toilers. It wants the toilers to share equitably in the fruits of modern industry. It wants the toilers and their families to be given educational, religious, moral, social as well as economic opportunities."

BOY, SHOT WITH OWN GUN, DIES

Bellingham, Oct. 21—Anastasis Ceptolini, 13-year-old son of Angelo Ceptolini and a pupil in the Woonsocket high school, died in five minutes after he had struck the butt of a 22-calibre rifle his father had given him on the ground and the gun was accidentally discharged, sending a bullet into his side.

The Ceptolini boy, who lived with his parents in South Bellingham, had been practicing with his new rifle in a field. He had started back to the house, trotting down hill on the road, when the butt of the gun struck the ground.

Two boys heard the shot and looking up saw young Ceptolini throw the gun away and run a distance of about 60 feet before he fell. They called the chief of police, who found the youngster dead when he reached the scene.

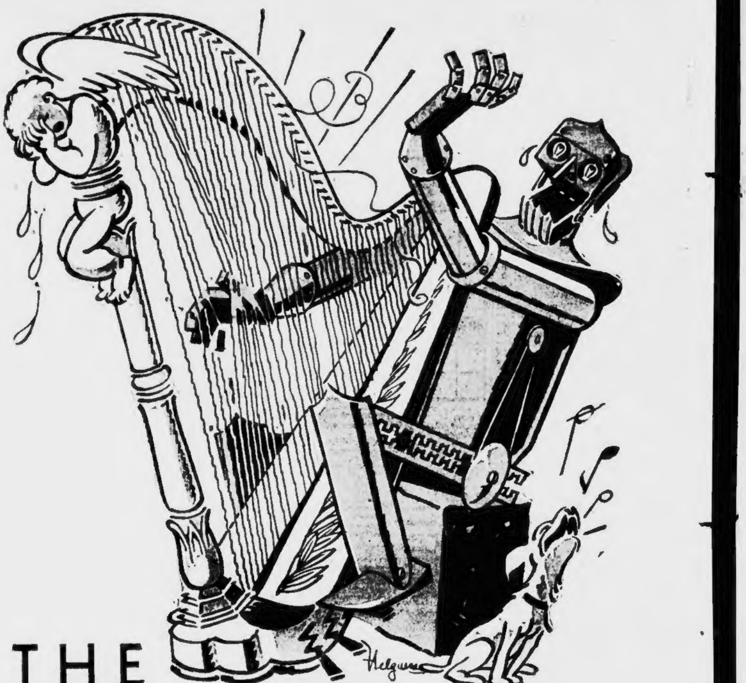
WATCH TOMORROW'S BOSTON AMERICAN FOR FURTHER DETAILS



THE ROBOT AS AN ENTERTAINER

Is his substitution for real music a success?

IF a Mechanical Man played a harp folk would flock to see the curiosity. But few would expect an artistic treat.

And yet, powerful theatrical interests have undertaken to present to the theatre-going public Mechanical Music as a "superior" form of art. The purpose of this advertisement is to invite attention to this attempt and to point out the harm to American culture that may result.

Synchronization of sound with motion pictures has impressed many as a great advance in the cinema field because it has made dialog pictures possible. Taking advantage of this new interest in movies, theatrical powers have sought to go further and introduce a highly profitable economy by substituting Mechanically Synchronized Music for Real Music in theatres.

Mechanical Music takes on no added merit by being synchronized, so it seems fair to say that the "synchronization" exploitation is largely humbug. Nevertheless it is upon the synchronization idea that the attempt to "sell" Mechanical Music is based. Amplified phonograph records could have been used just as effectively years before the synchronization devices were perfected. But a "smoke screen," such as synchronization, was required to lend some sort of scientific color to the substitution.

The cultural menace of this movement to supplant Real Music with the flat, savourless monotony of Mechanical Music becomes apparent upon a moment's thought.

In the first place, success in eliminating flesh and blood artists from the theatre means the eventual corruption of public appreciation of good music, which would be a cultural calamity.

In the second place, reduction of professional musicians to a handful of studio workers would deprive the young of all incentive to develop their talent and to make music their life work.

Machinery is performing great service for Mankind. But a Machine is not an artist. The high purpose of Machinery is to save Men and Women from ignoble and soulless labor, not to perform tasks that are only well done by the hands and hearts of gifted humans.

However perfect reproduced music may be made, it must always fall short of establishing a spiritual contact between performer and listener.

America stands today in the front rank of the Musical World. Our great symphony orchestras excel those of Europe in quality of performance as well as in numbers. And the vast majority of these players are American-born, whereas twenty years ago a native American was rare among them. A large share of credit for this condition is due the American Federation of Musicians, which has served to protect and elevate the living standards of working musicians. Our Grand Opera and concert stage lure the world's greatest artists. In the popular music field we have no rivals the world around. America buys each year more musical instruments than all the nations of Europe, demonstrating that our love of music is an active, not a passive, thing.

Against the excellent reasons for preserving and fostering the Art of Music, the destructive advocates of Canned Music can only advance the proposal that there is greater profit for the theatre in eliminating paid musicians.

The dehumanizing of the theatre is scarcely true progress.

$200,000 LOSS IN VERMONT HOTEL FIRE

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 21—Fire swept LaFrance Hotel on Main st. here and spread to two restaurants adjoining the four-story brick structure before it was brought under control, with a loss estimated at $200,000.

Guests of the hotel, in fleeing, were forced to leave many of their possessions behind.

The fire had gained great headway before it was first noticed. Guests were notified just in time for them to escape.

By the time firemen arrived the interior was a furnace, with the fire roaring through partitions and eating up the old wooden floors. For five hours the fire department of Burlington and Winooski fought the blaze, aided by men from Fort Ethan Allen and Essex Junction.

Dinner guests at the Park Cafe and Acadia restaurants were forced to abandon their tables for the street, although the damage there was caused largely by smoke and water, the flames gaining little headway.

The hotel was left a shell. A barber shop, a drug store, an automobile salesroom and a business office in the same building shared the damage.

Several firemen were overcome by heavy smoke and another, Everett H. Lafayette, suffered an injured leg.

Constable Wounds 2 in Battle With Cops

Cincinnati, Oct. 21—Constable Wesley Williams, 36, of Fairfax, Ohio, wounded two policemen and was himself wounded, probably fatally, in a gun battle with the police of several places.

Resisting arrest by Patrolman John Bierman on charges of drinking and creating a disturbance, the constable barricaded himself in his home, and with two shotguns and a revolver poured down a fire from upper windows and the roof on the attacking police.

3 Hurled Through Auto Windshield

North Adams, Oct. 21—Thomas F. Mulcahy, 22, was instantly killed and Charles Buchanan, 20, and Paul Gilmore, were seriously injured when the automobile, owned and driven by Gilmore, left the west road near Valley Park.

The car rolled completely over and landed in an upright position headed in the opposite direction. All three men were thrown through the windshield. Mulcahy's neck was broken.

COX WILL HEAD MEDICAL UNIT CAMPAIGNERS

Former Governor Channing H. Cox is to be general chairman of the committee which hopes to raise $1,500,000 necessary to carry out the building plans for the proposed New England Medical Center in this city, it was announced by Arthur G. Rotch, chairman of the permanent administrative board of the medical center.

The proposed medical center will combine dispensary care of the sick, hospital care for babies and small children, research and the training of medical students and nurses. Included in the center will be the present Boston Dispensary, the Boston Floating Hospital and Tufts Medical School.

An organized appeal will be made to the public to secure the necessary funds within the next few months. Committees are now being formed and dates for the actual start of the campaign will be determined shortly. The executive committee will be comprised of 20 members, including the permanent administrative board of the center, already formed.

Several general committees will be organized, including the men's and women's committee of 10 each to carry the appeal to the general public, the doctors' committee to crystallize the interest of the medical profession, and a committee composed wholly of the Tufts College Medical School to secure the united backing of the school's alumni.

BODY POISONS MENACE HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Rid Your System of Them

By neglecting constipation, body poisons get in their deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, cloudy complexions, which are the first signs, soon are followed by factors that wreck health, ruin ambitions and steal beauty.

You can guard against constipation with a simple remedy—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is a delicious cereal—100% bran—that brings sure, natural relief from this widespread evil. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is a bulk food. It sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes and stimulates normal action.

Results are guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Serve it with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Use it in cooking—recipes are on the package.

Don't neglect constipation. Begin eating ALL-BRAN today. Sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, dining-cars and restaurants. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Women Unfit to Boss But Do, Says Count

Universal Service

New York, Oct. 21.—"Women rule this country, but they are not fit for leadership."

At least in the opinion of Viscount Alain De [illegible], philosopher and writer, who has just arrived from France. He will be in this city for two weeks after which he will leave for Hollywood. There he will write scenarios for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Speaking in this vein, the handsome young nobleman, who is not yet thirty and unmarried, went on:

"American women are beautiful, lively and intelligent. They display a keen interest in public questions. But they should stop there and not aspire to become leaders. Women are not fit for leadership because they are not adaptable for acquiring versatility, a characteristic which is of fundamental importance for good understanding and sound leadership. The basic principle which motivates women is morals."

THREE DEACONS SLASHED IN CHURCH RIOT

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 21 (AP).—The internal troubles of the Mount Zion Baptist Church (colored) reached the razor stage when three deacons were seriously injured. One, Samuel Sanders, was slashed across the neck and may die. Twenty members of the congregation were cut and bruised.

Three persons were arrested, including the pastor, the Rev. G. A. Long, and Simon Matthews and Alex Cobin, deacons. Should the wounded Sanders die, police said charges of murder would be made against the three.

For a year there has been trouble between a faction of the church and the pastor. A meeting was held under a court order that called upon the church to hold an election before November 1 to determine whether Long should continue as pastor.

G. W. Gibson, a deacon expelled a year ago, began heckling the pastor and demanding reinstatement. Deacon Matthews pushed forward and told Gibson to sit down. Blows were exchanged and soon the meeting had divided into two sides, one backing Gibson, the other supporting Matthews and the pastor. Chairs were used as clubs and projectiles. Razors flashed.

Five squads of policemen were required to break up the battle which spread to the churchyard and blocked traffic as motorists stopped to watch the fight.

FEDERATION TO HOLD MEETING IN BROCKTON

The fall meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs opens in Brockton Friday, October 25, with the Brockton Women's Club a hostess. A novel and effective presentation of the biennial council meeting arranged by Mrs. Arthur Devens Potter, General Federation director and chairman of the executive committee on the Council, will feature the day's program.

Club delegates and visitors from all over the state will gather to discuss club problems that they may take home better plans and more efficient club procedure and greater inspiration to make possible greater realizations of Massachusetts clubwomen.

"Colorful chapters told by chairmen," Mrs. Potter has named her dramatic brain child. It will be carefully guided through scenes and acts by Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, who represented the General Federation on the executive committee; Mrs. Edward H. Rugg, depot reception committee; Mrs. Frank H. Stewart, state dinners; Mrs. Charles L. Fuller, local representative on credentials; Mrs. [illegible] Bowles, time keeper; Mrs. George A. Mellen, information bureau; Mrs. Charles H. Tuckett, flower service; Mrs. Nathaniel E. Smith, department luncheons; and Mrs. Arthur J. Crockett, exhibits.

An illustration of Play Day will be offered by the three chairmen in charge of this activity, Mrs. David A. Wescott, Mrs. William J. McDonald and Mrs. J. Norma Jeffers. Mrs. William C. Dwight will sum up the story of the council, giving her impression.

Under the head of business at the morning session, Mrs. George H. Lung, chairman of the committee on Federation pins, will speak and the transportation chairman, Mrs. Ernest B. Brackett, will describe the proposed trip to the biennial at Denver next June.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole will present the Foundation Fund, a pertinent proposition with the club women of the state at the present time and Mrs. Leon D. Perry will give her impression of the New England Conference at Watch Hill, R. I., last September.

"The New Culture and the Changing Education" will be the principal address at the afternoon session by Dr. Robert D. Leigh, president of Bennington College.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

Miss Anna H. Manion, department president of the legion auxiliary, who was installed in office October 12, has appointed the following committees to serve for the coming year:

Child welfare, Mrs. Helen M. Gormley, Roslindale; rehabilitation, Mrs. Emma F. Loveday, Melrose; Mrs. Merle D. Graves, Pittsfield; Mrs. W. E. May, Bridgewater, finance; Miss Anna M. Maleady, Taunton, unit co-operation with disabled ex-service men's exchange; Mrs. Lillian M. Burnham, Gloucester, Americanism; Dr. Mary [illegible] of Springfield, Constitution; Mrs. E. L. McNamara, Cambridge, unit activities and community service; Mrs. Katharine H. Jobes, New Bedford.

Music, Miss Genevieve [illegible], Brockton, national defense; Mrs. John Osborn, Norwell, legislation; Mrs. Marie Fitch, Wellesley, Poppies; Mrs. Gertrude Nettle, Haverhill, parliamentarianism; Mrs. Franklin L. Bishop, Leicester, trophies and awards; Miss Adelaide Fitzgerald, Hopkinton.

As department secretary of the auxiliary, Miss Mary T. Whittaker of Roxbury, will serve as chairman of publicity and also as editor of the monthly paper, "The Massachusetts Auxiliary."

Miss Manion was appointed by national headquarters as chairman of Child Welfare for the Area A Division comprising the New England and Middle Atlantic states. Mrs. Franklin L. Bishop of Leicester, past national president of the auxiliary, was appointed chairman of the 1930 national convention committee. Mrs. W. W. Wade of Woburn is chairman of the department convention committee which will be held in Swampscott next June.

Vacation Good Cure for Divorce

Editor Boston American:

Lately I have been listening to divorce cases in court. Much can be learned from the different types of evidence submitted, and at times I have wondered whether judges are farsighted enough to see through many of the causes that lead up to divorce.

This is the result of my impressions of divorce cases in the probate court where some of these divorce trials are held.

Marriage is a too close corporation. More friendly separations of husband and wife are essential. People who see each other day after day and year after year, will have their grievances festered if they continue in each other's company. Breaking away from each other's fellowship is the leading cure for some types of divorce. Go off for a week. Leave husband alone for that time. When wife comes back he will be glad to welcome her. The late Bishop Littlejohn of Brooklyn once said: "A divorce usually represents a marriage that has been smothered to death."

Ban On Kissing "Shall Not Pass"

Editor Boston American:

Any ban on kissing would be the most practical way of taking the joy out of life. While not a fan on kissing, I would sincerely oppose any regulations upon it that has now come to light out in Kansas. One of the most impressive sights that I have ever witnessed was at the railroad station at Wellesley, to see returning college students as they dropped from coaches fall into the arms of others with a deluge of kisses. The smacks were heard all round the station. Old men wished they were young again. Old women sighed.

According to history, the Moors kiss each other's shoulders, South Sea Islanders and Eskimos rub noses and in old England up to the 17th century kissing was a common form of greeting anyone. Any censorship on kissing, disease germs or not, would be killed if submitted to any referendum. To any law against it we say, "Thou Shalt Not Pass."

No Smoke Nuisance in City of Future

Editor Boston American:

Every season, when the fires begin to heat buildings or dwellings, the smoke nuisance begins. Beacon Hill residents feel that the State House is a contributor to this smoke nuisance in that locality.

Chemists are going some day to convert smoke into dyes, perfumes, or even into phenacetin. We have got to have clean air in cities. Every house sends out smoke, soot and dust.

Many throat diseases come from the impure air that we are forced to breath in cities. We don't know this as we pass through many Boston streets, but the city of the future will probably burn gas fuel, piped from coal burned at the mines, or some other remedy may be forthcoming. The sides and roofs of city dwellings will then be clean and white, and the old smoke nuisance will be no more.

Seeks Book on Nerve Relaxing

Editor Boston American:

Do your readers know anything about the usefulness of relaxing as a cure for some kinds of nervous and other complaints?

They call it progressive relaxation. This acts very well upon certain types of ailments. I heard a man describe it on Huntington ave. the other evening and he said that it was the coming cure for many simple complaints.

Do you know the name of the book telling about it?

Husband Big Help to Wife's Diet

Editor Boston American:

Something was said in your people's column about dieting which reminded me of a story about a Boston women told this past week by the Rev. Dr. Dillon Bronson of Brookline.

This minister said: "I know of a husband who tried to get his wife to diet more and the only way that he could accomplish this worthy end, was by carrying his wife's false teeth in his pocket during the intervals of meals.

"He was successful and was rewarded afterwards by her."

Protests Milk Price Boost

Editor Boston American:

I am very much opposed to the boost in the price of milk. Cow's milk designed for a four stomached animal that matures in three years is much more difficult to digest than the child's natural food, chiefly because of the coarse curds. The tough curds needed to develop the four-stomached digestive apparatus of an animal that matures in three years instead of 20, are a severe tax upon children's digestion.

Milk is not suited for adults. A normal human body weighing 150 pounds contains 30 pounds of carbon and only two pounds of nitrogen. That is one reason cow's milk is not suited for adults. Deficiency of iron in the blood of adults is serious. The percentage in cow's milk is small.

Old-Age Pension Drive Initiated

Editor Boston American:

I see by the American that there is to be an Old-Age Pension drive initiated October 20 by the American Federation of Labor.

In connection with this commendable movement, there is a special class of old men that should be given special consideration. I refer to the cultured and refined downs-and-outs, who are able and willing to work, and, instead of desiring charity, ask only to be given employment sufficient to enable them to earn a modest living.

Many such people would prefer death to being objects of charity. This is a mere hint; won't you please elaborate it in one of your stirring editorials?

TWO BROTHERS REUNITED BY CAVEMAN

By BURT M. McCONNELL

Copyright 1929 King Features Synd., Inc.

Bear-Trap Lake Portage, Que., Oct. 12 (By Courier to Normandin, Quebec).—If this one-man expedition of mine into the North Woods accomplishes nothing else in the next two months, it will have justified the money spent and privations endured many times over. For, through the wide public notice it has received, it has been the means of reuniting two families who have not known the whereabouts of the other for 15 years—the brothers Perron.

Young Charlexox Perron of Lake James happens to be District Forester McKibbin's canoeman. The writer stopped overnight at the Perron maison on the way into the Washimeska river country a little over three weeks ago. The elder Perron's name crept into the dispatches, and the newspapers were read by his brother, now a resident of Montreal. Letters, the first in 15 years, followed, and now the families are united again.

When I shiver in my "open-face" tar-paper cabin tonight, I shall comfort myself with the thought that the Perrons, after being lost for almost a generation, are in touch with each other again. Such is the power of the press; had not the Montreal brother learned of Joseph Perron's address through his newspaper, they might have gone to the end of their lives without ever seeing each other again.

While the Perron problem was working itself out, the writer was honored and not a little surprised last Wednesday, the second "anniversary" of his stay in the Quebec wilderness, by a visit from the committee formed at the nearest village (35 miles distant) to see that this project of mine was carried through "on the square." This committee consists of Father Tremblay, curate of the Catholic Church at St. Thomas Dydimo, Mayor Perrault of the village, and District Forester McKibbin who represents Chief Forester Piche, at Quebec.

The committee, of course, looked critically at everything I had made—bow and arrow, fish hooks, Eskimo fish-spear (half finished); bone awls for sewing my Winter coat, now in the course of being tanned; my first pair of moccasins; the partly finished moosehide shirt; my calendar, which consists of a notched balsam sapling; my stone-lined "fireplace"; the cabin itself, the simple architecture of which caught their eyes; the spring, the mail box, and so forth.

There is no denying that a spell of loneliness bowls me over once in a while, but on the whole I am quite content.

Young Lawyer Musn't Be a 'Go-Getter'

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 21 (AP).—The young lawyer, if he accepts the ethics of the profession as set forth by the American Bar Association, must hang out his shingle and while the ink is drying on his sheepskin, sit behind his new desk and wait for his clients to come in.

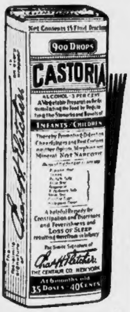
He must not go after them.

If he solicits business he positively is not ethical, the committee of professional ethics and grievances of the association says.

Thomas Francis Howe, chairman of the committee, believes "the failure of the leading law schools to make it compulsory for the young student to study ethics with his other class work is regrettable." His committee recommends that the association of American schools make the question of professional ethics a part of the curriculum.

U. S. to Probe Cotton Seed Price Fixing

Washington, Oct. 21 (AP).—Investigation by the Federal Trade Commission into an alleged combination of cotton seed crushers and oil mills to fix the price of cotton seed and cotton seed meal was ordered today by the Senate.



Children Cry for it

Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups.

Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Teeth decay:
Pyorrhea gets its start
unless you act

Remove the FILM that breeds bacteria and turns white teeth dull and dingy

TOOTH DECAY is caused by germs. Pyorrhea usually results from germs and tartar.

Germs are imprisoned in a dingy, glue-like coating on the teeth called film. There they breed by millions in every crevice in contact with the teeth and tissues.

Film clings so stubbornly ordinary ways are not successful in removing it. Use the special formula called Pepsodent. You instantly notice the difference in the way it feels. Film vanishes. Teeth become gleaming white. Yet Pepsodent acts gently. No pumice, harmful grit or crude abrasive—but a soft, creamy paste that is prescribed for the softest teeth and tenderest gums.

Hallowe'en Harvest Fete and Shakespeare Star Interest Society

E. H. Sothern to Head Junior League's Charity Bill This Week

E. H. SOTHERN, NOTED Shakespearian actor, will be the Junior League entertainer this year. Each season this select club has one particular entertainment to benefit its charities, at which some well-qualified personality is the star performer. The league is to be congratulated upon obtaining the services of this much-sought-after actor who will present stirring scenes from "Hamlet," "Lord Dundreary," "Othello" and "If I Were King." After entertaining in his own inimitable way, Sothern will give an informal discourse on the theater. Having been on the stage for 25 years, he is well qualified to speak on dramatics. Mr Sothern will appear in evening dress, alone. Once again Junior League members are invited to do duties about the theater.

BEFORE LEAVING FOR their wedding trip abroad, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Crane (Kathleen Parker Browning) are staying at the Savoy Plaza in New York for a short period.

MRS. BENJAMIN F. PITMAN of Carlton st., Brookline, is again throwing open her house for a charitable event. Halloween (Oct. 31) has been chosen for a Harvest Fete for the benefit of work of the Christopher Shop of which Mrs. Pitman is president. Besides a sale of cooked foods, jellies, preserves, flowers and fruit there will be a harvest turkey supper served, following which James A. Nelson will give an informal talk on Benito Mussolini. Mrs. Horace Morison is chairman of the executive committee of the Christopher Shop, other members being: Mesdames Ralph H. Doane, Augusta Doty, Dana Estes, Wilbur S. Grant, Norman F. Greely, James A. Nelson, Ernest M. Parsons and Eliot Spalding. Mrs. Pitman has long been prominent in the forwarding of charities and in women's politics.

THE MORNING MAIL OF both musical and social Boston contains invitations to be patronesses for the much-looked-forward-to Boston debut of the Aguilar Lute Quartet of Madrid. the Massachuetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is to be the beneficiary. Mrs. George S. West is chairman of the patroness committee, and is busy interesting its members in making the concert a brilliant success. The affair is to take place November 18 in the ballroom of the Copley Plaza.

THE ARTS AND CRAFTS second annual exhibit of work of Junior League members begins today at the League rooms. Miss Charlotte Moseley has a display of needlepoint as have also Mrs. Orrin G. Wood and Mrs. Samuel Mixter. There is, indeed, a variety of things, including a lovely painted screen done by Mrs. Caydee de Jonge, some magnificent book binding of Mrs. Johnathan Brown 3rd's, several stunning painted trays done by Mrs. Ira Rich Kent and embroidery contributed by Miss Alice Bemis and Miss Olivia Churchill. Other exhibits include some wood-carving by Mrs. Norman Dana, painted furniture done by Miss Grace Cushing, hooked rugs by Miss Aline Kilham and bookplates and Christmas cards designed by Mrs. Frederick Kingsbury. Mrs. R. F. Sturtevant is unusually adroit as she has sent in both jewelry and marionette figures. Two other exhibitors are Mrs. Edward Hamilton and Mrs. Francis Gray.

MRS. HALLAM L. MOVIUS of Beacon st. and her daughter, Miss Rose Movius, a debutante of a couple of seasons ago, are arriving home from Europe today, having landed in New York the last of the week.

Mrs. George S. West of Chestnut Hill, chairman of the patroness committee for the benefit concert for the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, is shown mailing the first invitations for the Copley-Plaza event on November 18. (Staff photo.)

THE MILTON CLUB HAS been chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Philip P. Chase of Highland st., Milton, for the presentation dance tonight of their daughter, Miss Mary P. Chase. Miss Chase is the vice-chairman of the provisional members of the Junior League. John P. Chase is heading his sister's ushering corps of 25. A dinner for about 50 at the clubhouse will precede the dance. The debutante will receive her guests in an unusually attractive gown of robin's egg blue with maline embroidery. The skirt of tulle is ornamented with flowers of pastel shades.

MID-MORNING COFFEE IS to be inaugurated by the sponsors of the Wednesday morning musicales. This will be as much of a feature and as good an opportunity for a chat with friends as an afternoon tea. This unique innovation is to precede the concerts. Various prominent society women will be hostesses at the tables and Junior League girls will usher for the performances. The proceeds are to go to the School of Occupational Therepy. Mrs. John W. Myers entertained at luncheon recently those particularly interested in this year's musicales. Mrs. H. Parker Whittington conducted the meeting to discuss plans. Another luncheon will be given when more of the guests invited will have returned to town. The first recital is to take place Dec. 4.

A SERIES OF MUSICALES, to be given by the Camp Fire Girls, at their headquarters, Commonwealth ave., will start Wednesday. The guest of honor will be Mrs. Alfred Julian Rowan, who has served as president of the Chromatic Club for 10 years. The list of patronesses who will greet Mrs. Rowan includes Mrs. Lucius Thayer, Mrs. Sumner Hollingsworth, Mrs. William Underwood, Mrs. C. H. Hood, Mrs. Helen Allen Hunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor Watson, Mrs. William Arms Fisher, Mrs. J. G. Thorp, Miss Dorothy George and Mrs. Nena Fales Peck.

MR. REGINALD BIRD OF Waveney Farm, Framingham Center, gave a house dance Saturday evening in honor of his daughter, Miss Betty Bird, and Miss Anna Clark, daughter of Mr. William O. Clark of Framingham Center. Miss Bird was clad in a long dress of ivory satin trimmed with jade green. Miss Clark's gown was of pale pink tulle. Both Mrs. Manning Emery and Mr. Nathaniel I. Bowditch gave dinners previous to the dance. John Bird was head usher and the others were William Clark, Franklin Blake, Elton Clark, Jr., Francis Cheever, Frederick Grinnell, John Hallowell, Roger Hallowell, Robert Hamlin, Waldo Howland, Kenith Junkins, Robert Leonard, Thomas Perkins, Dean Terry, Mason Smith, Jr., Marshall Stearns, William Storey, Gordon Waters, Daniel Meriman, Hugh Bancroft, Jr., Andrew Oliver, Burnham Porter.

NEW OPERA COMPANY FOR HUB

Detailed plans for the permanent foundation of the New Boston Grand Opera Co. to conduct annual seasons of opera in Boston commencing December 2, were announced to 300 music enthusiasts, including founders and members of the new organization, at a reception held at Trinity court.

Pasquale Amato, for many years leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Co. in New York, who is to be one of the guest stars of the new opera in Boston, was the guest of honor. The singer made an address outlining the great strides which opera has taken in other cities, and urging that Boston give hearty support to the present public movement.

"In Philadelphia, where there are four opera companies vying with one another for public favor, the public is getting operatic indigestion, while in Boston you have operatic starvation," he said.

ELABORATE PLANS

"Some of the happiest occasions in my career have been when I have sung in the past to your wonderful public in your beautiful opera house. I am certain that the new permanent company will have enormous success. Boston is the cultural center of America, and I think that it is splendid that a movement such as this should be inaugurated with the support of a great number of music lovers instead of relying upon the generosity of a single individual."

A stirring endorsement of the opera movement was made by James M. Curley, who was one of those present and who was called upon for an expression of ideas.

Plans for the forthcoming season, as outlined by Frederick H. Toye, general manager of the new enterprise, include star appearances by Amato, Louise Homer, Frances Alda, and a score of celebrated opera stars, in their most familiar roles. The chief works to be given include Gluck's "Orpheus," with Louise Homer, in her famous role; "Romeo and Juliette," "Manon," Mme. Butterfly," "La Tosca," "La Boheme," "Otello," "Travista," "Carmen," "Aida," "Tales of Hoffman," and "Barber of Seville."

The operas will be mounted in imposing manner, according to announcements made at the meeting. The orchestra, numbering 50 men of the Peoples' Symphony Orchestra, will be directed by Agide Jacchia and other distinguished conductors. There will be a large professional chorus of 40 singers, supplemented by picked local singers, and a trained ballet of considerable size.

FINANCING PLAN

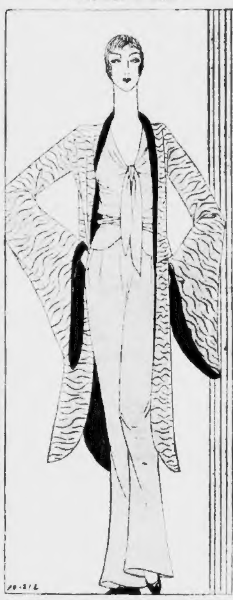
Financing of the new enterprise is being obtained by means of a public fund. The amount sought is $50,000 as security against possible deficits. The contributions to the fund are being received at the State Street Trust Co., official depository, under two headings. One group, comprising founders, consists of contributors to amounts of $100 and upwards. General public membership is $10, and both forms carry special privileges in the purchase of tickets. The entire orchestra and all boxes will be reserved for founders and members to be bought at $3 a seat, which will be the top price charged. Non-members may purchase the remaining seats at prices ranging from $1 to $3.

In the receiving line, in addition to the guest of honor, were Mme. Vinello-Johnson, prime mover and artistic director of the new company; Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson 2d, Mrs. Salisbury Tuckerman and Mrs. W. D. M. Howard, representing the organization committee, and Frederick H. Toye.

Among those present were Mrs. Horace Binney, Sig. Pio Margotti, royal Italian consul general; Courtney Guild, Miss Sarah L. Guild, Mrs. Harold H. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey E. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Minns, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Strauss, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Bryning, Miss Charlotte Hopkins, Miss Eastman, Miss Isabelle Weston, Miss Nellie L. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent V. Hubbard, Edward Ranson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson, Mme. Marie Conde, Dr. Angela Greeley, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Tomasello, Mrs. Nelson W. Howard, Mrs. Mabel Mann Jordan, Miss Harriet Wood Foster, Mr. Ary Dulfer, Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence, the Misses Murdoch, Mrs. Marie di Pesa, Mrs. F. H. Toye.

Sumptuous Pajama Ensembles Make Mannequins Look Like Figures Out of the "Arabian Nights"

(SKETCHED IN PARIS)



Noteworthy Feature of Every Wardrobe for New Season

Paris Bureau of the Boston Evening American

PARIS, FRANCE, Oct. 21—Psychologists tell us to relax, and couturieres make it easy with the aid of the very lovely pajama ensembles that are a noteworthy feature of every collection assembled for the new season.

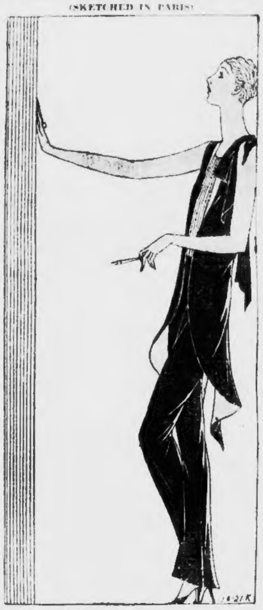
Many of these models are sumptuous to the point of magnificence and the mannequins showing these ensembles looked like figures out of the "Arabian Nights."

Others looked so ultra modern, that we thought for the moment that they were the costume that many savants tell us will be worn for ordinary day and evening wear in a few years from now. And frankly, we do not see how clothes could be much more decorative or more picturesquely practical than these lounging pajamas.

The first pajama ensemble sketched today is from Angele and consists of a swallow-tailed sleeveless coat of black satin, pajamas of the same material, and a pleated blouse of silver lame muslin over flesh chiffon. The coat is lined with the lame and a soft bow of black satin decorates the left shoulder.

The second ensemble is from Lucien Lelong who uses his favorite dove gray crepe morocain for the pajamas and blouse.

(SKETCHED IN PARIS)



THE coat which is of kneelength with very flaring sleeves is made of silver lame with a wavy modernistic design in gray thread. Gray velvet somewhat darker in tone than the crepe of the pajamas lines the jacket throughout and adds its note of richness. The blouse is worn inside the pajamas.

BOTH of these models represent the very latest and smartest news from the pajama world, and both while most decorative, are eminently wearable and should render graceful service by making leisure hours, lovely hours—something which lounging suits of glaring tones and colors do not always achieve.

Still More Millions treat colds DIRECT

More and more people every year are giving up the old, indirect way of treating colds by "dosing," and are adopting the modern, direct treatment—Vicks VapoRub.

"Dosing" is not only a round-about way to treat colds, but it also tends to upset the stomach. Being applied externally, Vicks, of course, cannot disturb the digestion. Just rubbed on, it acts direct through the skin like a plaster; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing." To keep step with the ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds, the figures in the famous Vick slogan are again being changed. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

HARVARD TEAM INTACT FOR GREEN

B. C. Adopts Forward Passing Game for Future Offense

BACKS FAILED IN RUNNING ATTACK

STILL tramping gayly along the [illegible] road Boston College returns to the Heights today after a decisive victory at Dayton [illegible] pursuit of the midseason objective, Major Cavanaugh's Fordham eleven.

The Eagles battle with Canisius next Saturday at Fenway and entertain the Duke University "Blue Devils" on the following week-end. The Fordham clash is three weeks off. But Coach Joe McKenney is overlooking Canisius and Duke and concentrating on the invasion from New York.

That the Eagle-Fordham game is going to be in the Hub is now definite. For a time is was seriously considered shifting this pastime to New York. But with Harvard out of town on November 9, and with the [illegible] game [illegible] attraction, Boston will be the most profitable site for the contest.

McKENNEY CONFIDENT

Coach McKenney is somewhat confident that his team will plough through Canisius and Duke without defeat. And Fordham should also be [illegible] when it comes to Boston for the B. C. game. If it happens that way, the game will draw the biggest crowd ever to watch B. C. in action in Boston, say 5,000 or more.

As has been said, the talons of the Eagles are being primed to claw Fordham. But they'll have two real tests before that time. Canisius and Duke are both strong as minor colleges run.

Luke Urban coaches at Canisius. He's the star end of the Boston College teams of 1919 and 1920, which Maj. Cavanaugh pushed into grid fame, and Boston College along with them. A year ago B. C. visited Canisius and won, 24-0, with a championship team. Canisius isn't as strong as a year ago and neither is B. C. It won't be a romp, for Canisius employs the Cavanaugh attack, which is always formidable. But the Eagles should win this one.

Duke, although it has Buie and Jankowski, stars for two seasons, is having a terrible year. They lost to Pittsburgh, 52-6, and to the Navy, 45-13. With the veteran Coach Jimmy DeHart has, this team should be good.

They ought to start functioning soon and B. C. can expect another hard contest. But it should be just another notch in Joe McKenney's rifle, which hasn't backfired since 1927.

CLUB IN SHAPE

Boston College arrived home last night in good condition, considering the trip and the serious opposition afforded them in Ohio. All the squad will be ready to go next Saturday, although a few of the more frail may be saved up for Fordham.

If Joe McKenney had any doubts about the best offensive weapon his team has, they were all dispelled at Dayton. It's the forward pass. Boston College's running attack is nothing more than fair. But in the air the Eagles are dangerous.

John Dixon, [illegible] Antos and Charley Murphy, [illegible] George Colbert, [illegible] Motley and Capt. Creedon, [illegible] are the reasons. Colbert is the Barry Wood of the Heights clan. He chucks passes like he throws a baseball down to second base. He has accuracy, speed and distance to his heaves. And above all he's as cool under all circumstances as a polar expedition.

Dixon, Antos and Murphy are all hungry-handed young men. They're down the field fast and can clutch the egg-plant if it is to be clutched.

The aerial game will be stressed from here in. The B. C. running attack won't be completely forgotten, but McKenney will let it drift along its usual course of progress so that his team will have the advantage of mixing some ground maneuvers with aerials for the sake of deception.

MR. BOSTON

—by—

JACK CONWAY

"I TAKE my hat off to the young men of Harvard and West Point for that football [illegible] staged at the stadium on Saturday," said Mr. Boston today. "I was tickled when the final score was 20 to 20. It would have been an injustice for either eleven to have had a victor.

Jack Conway

"The dramatic ending with Harvard tying the score in the final minutes of play, was one of the big moments of sport. It will be a long time before any football game duplicates the one at the Stadium on Saturday for the unexpected.

"The Army always has a powerful eleven, while I believe those persons who saw Harvard in action against the Cadets will admit that the Crimson is very much in the football race this season.

"Harvard came through Saturday's game without any serious injuries, which proves that they now have tougher and rougher boys at Cambridge as well as better football players. After all football isn't a pastime for a lounge lizard or a guy who doesn't want to get his hair mussed up.

"I REGRET that 'Salem Trade school' didn't have a game Saturday. I am inclined to commend these youngsters who, although obliged to pass up school in order to go to work, organized a team, practised nights in their street clothes and represented the mythical 'Salem Trade school' in gridiron clashes against some of our best schools. The kids lived up to the schoolboy rules in regard to age and as they accepted as low as $25 for a guarantee it can hardly be said they went into football for the money they might make.

"The young men who directed the affairs of 'Salem Trade school' will make good professional promoters in time. They would also qualify, with a little experience, to direct the highly commercialized game of football at some of our big colleges.

"I MET HERB TREAT, former Princeton star, on his way to Cambridge to see Harvard play the Army.

"'Who is going to win?' I asked.

"'The teams are so evenly matched that I'll let you pick the winner and then I'll take the other team,' replied Herb. The final score proved that Treat knows his football.

"CHARLEY ROSE, who was in Boston last week with Mike McTigue, tells me that all is not peaches and cream between Herr Max Schmeling and his staff of American managers. As Rose happens to be one of the numerous young men who has a 'piece' of Schmeling, he should know what he is talking about. Rose says that Schmeling now wants to fire Joe Jacobs, Bill McCarney, Pete Reilly and himself, and go back under the sole direction of Anthur Buelow, his German pilot.

"If Schmeling continues to change his mind in regard to what he wishes to do in the boxing game, somebody should apply to the courts and have a guardian appointed for the fickle German.

"I RECEIVED a wire from Jack Dempsey to the effect he has signed Tony Canzoneri to clash with Stanislaus Loayza in a ten-round bout at the Chicago Coliseum on October 30. Jack informs me he has uniformed ushers, enforces the 'No Smoking' rule, and insists that each fan get the seat called for by his ticket. Dempsey makes no mention of a possible come back, and apparently has got down to the serious business of becoming a great boxing promoter. Nobody has yet come along to fill the shoes of the late Tex Rickard. Dempsey and the others have a chance to accomplish this feat.

AERIAL GAME OF HARVARD EXCELLENT

By RALPH GILROY

Former All American Halfback at Princeton

THE Crimson coaching staff, Arnie Horween, Eddie Casey, and the rest must have enjoyed a pleasant week-end in contemplating the fine comeback which the Harvard athletes put on at the Stadium Saturday in tying up the game in the last minute of play.

There should be a lot of joy present in the Crimson ranks in realizing that an untried Harvard eleven came through the fire of big game competition with the determination and gameness characteristic of a winning machine.

Not that the Harvard forces played such brilliant ball, for there was good and bad in the Crimson play, but that Horween's men had the "stuff" in their makeup to come from behind, when even the strongest Harvard supporter had given up hope of victory.

This is the kind of stuff called "competitive spirit" of which all winning teams in any sport are built.

It is, therefore, not far fetched to say that the Crimson coaches must be encouraged by the showing of the Harvard men against the Army last Saturday.

Perhaps the most significant factor in the Army game, aside from the individual brilliance of Cagle and Murrel, was the stellar performance put on by Harvard's now famous "pony" backfield combination of Wood, Devens, Mays and Potter.

These boys kept the Horween offense moving at a fast clip, and demonstrated clearly that Harvard's future oponents will have to reckon with this combination in shaping their defenses.

WOOD WILL BE HEARD FROM

A lot of nice things have been said about Barry Wood, who does the quarterbacking for Harvard's reserve backfield, but this boy will undoubtedly win a lot of ball games for the Crimson before hanging up his shoes.

Not since Charlie Buell grabbed his sheepskin has a Harvard eleven been blessed with such a smart, snappy signal barker.

Wood chose his plays in excellent fashion against the Army and seemed to have that necessary qualification to make his men jump to their assignments.

Another very significant and rosy aspect of Saturday's game from a Crimson standpoint was the fine aerial demonstration of the Horween eleven. Not since the days of Oberlander to Sage and Oberlander to Tully at Dartmouth has a Stadium audience witnessed such a brilliant exhibition.

SUPPORTERS HAVE WISH

It goes without saying that had not Horween's charges made such effective use of this weapon of modern football, the Army eleven would have walked off with the decision.

For years Harvard supporters have been praying for just such a demonstration. And Saturday they got it. It indicates that Horween has brought the Harvard attack up to date and rounds out a well balanced offense.

The Harvard running game didn't get very far Saturday and not because the Crimson rush line wasn't striving with might and main nor that the backs weren't hitting hard, but more because a big strong Army line was too stubborn to give much ground. How those two rush lines did fight it out Saturday.

Surely, the Crimson won't engage another tougher forward wall to penetrate all season long than that Army line proved to be. Except for one or two lapses, the Harvard front line stood up well against the Cagle slants and the pile-driving Murrel.

Jack Cannell is going to lead his Dartmouth horde into the stadium this Saturday, and this battle should prove to be one of the finest. The Dartmouth forces had a field day Saturday over in New York and ran roughshod over a reputedly strong Columbia eleven. In "Al" Marsters the big "Green" eleven will show as big a threat to Crimson hopes as Army had in Chris Cagle.

AL RUNNING WILD

"Al" has been running wild against all opponents this season, and if given the proper aid by his side kicks, should rip up a lot of that Stadium turf.

From the advance dope, Dartmouth is strong in the line this year, has two fine backfields and a wealth of capable reserves. They say Jack Cannell has a reserve backfield to match Arnie Horween's "pony" outfit, so the game should be a battle of reserves as well as a battle of the regulars.

Says Georgetown Score Is Illegal; To Change Total

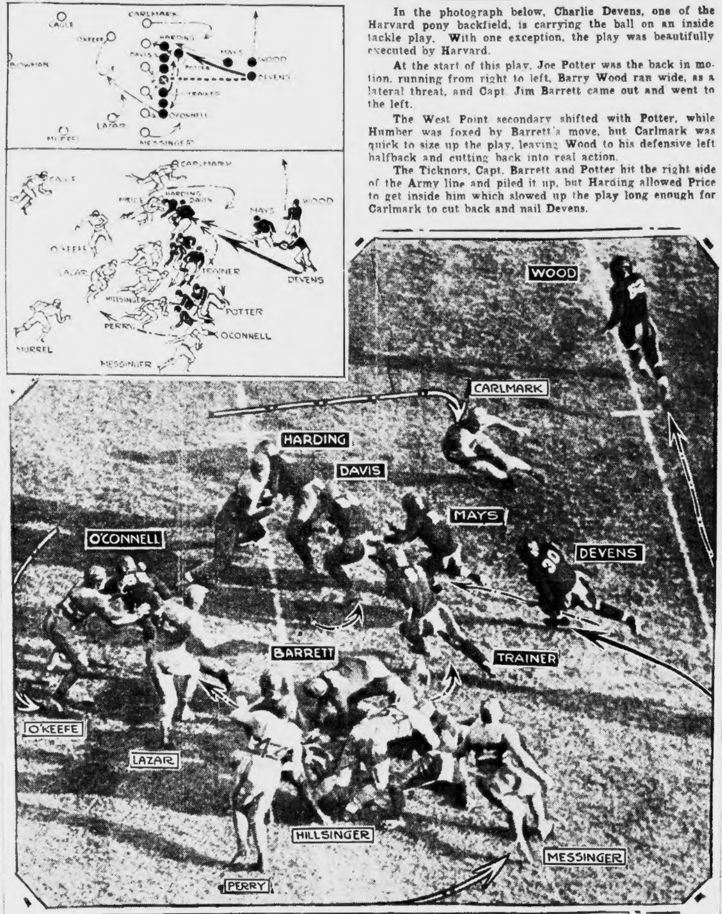
Washington, Oct. 21 (INS)—A touchdown made by Harold Wyncoop, Georgetown end in Saturday's game here with West Virginia Wesleyan, was not legal, according to Paul P. Magoffin, a member of the Eastern Association for Selection of Football Officials.

Wyncoop recovered a kickoff made by his teammate, Jim Mooney, and ran 10 yards to a touchdown.

Magoffin stated Wyncoop's touchdown was so speedily executed that many of the players failed to realize for a few moments just what had occurred.

It is probable the score will be changed from 19 to 0 to 12 to 0.

WHO SHOULD HAVE TAKEN CARLMARK?



In the photograph below, Charlie Devens, one of the Harvard pony backfield, is carrying the ball on an inside tackle play. With one exception, the play was beautifully executed by Harvard.

At the start of this play, Joe Potter was the back in motion, running from right to left, Barry Wood ran wide, as a lateral threat, and Capt. Jim Barrett came out and went to the left.

The West Point secondary shifted with Potter, while Humber was foxed by Barrett's move, but Carlmark was quick to size up the play, leaving Wood to his defensive left halfback and cutting back into real action.

The Ticknors, Capt. Barrett and Potter hit the right side of the Army line and piled it up, but Harding allowed Price to get inside him which slowed up the play long enough for Carlmark to cut back and nail Devens.

NO CRIPPLES ON HARVARD GRID SQUAD

NO injuries were reported as Coach Arnie Horween counted noses at Soldiers Field today. The Harvard squad that wrote another chapter of Crimson football history last Saturday seemed to have suffered no ill effects from the Army tilt and will be even stronger when they meet Dartmouth and Al Marsters on Saturday next.

The fact that the Harvard squad was able to come back so fast shows that they are in great physical condition, and great credit goes to Coach "Tiny" Donovan for bringing the boys to the top of their form.

The work of the squad today was light. Although the team was ready to buckle down to a long scrimmage system, Horween decided that a day of comparative rest would be more suitable.

The week's program, in fact, calls for very little hard work, and possibly only one or two scrimmages before the Crimson swaps kicks with Dartmouth next Saturday.

Whether the showing that Harvard put up against the Cadets would have any effect on the lineup this week was a very much debated question in Cambridge today.

MAY PROMOTE HARDING

There is talk of young Vic Harding's going to the A team left end regularly. The spectacular playing of the newly discovered star wingman was the subject for much comment in Harvard circles. If he is good enough to perform again as he did against the Army, he is good enough to hold the assignment regularly.

And this means that another pretty competition is going to be staged within the Stadium's ivy-covered walls, for Jim Douglas, the regular left end, is due back into harness soon, and will be after his old job.

So with Harding and Douglas racing neck and neck, and Bob Ogden by no means out of the running either, Horween can be sure that out of the three, he is bound to get a superfine wingman.

The work of the line and the regular backfield will be watched with particular care this week. Coach Arnie was somewhat put out with the poor showing that his linesmen displayed against the corkscrew spins of Cadets Cagle and Murrell.

BARRETT OFF STRIDE

A large part of the blame for the Crimson's muffing in the line assignments is due to the fact that Horween was forced to make last minute alterations in his line-up. It is assumed that shifting Barrett to guard, and Bill Ticknor to tackle threw both boys somewhat off their stride.

This is a problem which will give Horween plenty of food for thought this week, but the Cantab mentor can be relied upon to have found the answer to his difficulties before the next game time.

With everyone talking about the fine work of "Pony Backs" Barry Wood, Ed. Mays, and Charlie Devens, the regular back field men have their own troubles to look out for.

Barry Wood's personal stock went up just about 100 per cent after Saturday's fiasco, and today there are many formerly conservative Harvard fans who now can't have enough of this sensational signal barker.

A well balanced, light, and fast moving combination like this has its uses in Harvard's grid game this year. In fact, the sub backfield seems to have taken to Horween's bag of tricks with more enthusiasm than the A. team combination of carriers.

The absence of Wallie Harper made a great difference in Harvard's offensive game last Saturday and Harvard football followers are hoping against hope that the Crimson fullback will be fit to start against Dartmouth.

There is a feeling around Cambridge that Harvard is going to need every available first rate man and then some to scalp the Indian next week.

SALEM GRID STAR DYING

Wellesley, Oct. 21—In an effort to wrest victory from defeat in the last quarter of the football game between Wellesley Town Team and the Irish Athletic Club of Salem today, Capt. William Moynihan of the Irish town team made a line rush that may cost his life.

He was taken from beneath the pile-up. At the Newton Hospital is was said he was suffering from a probable broken back. The game was called off.

His name was placed on the danger list and little hope is held for his recovery. Moynihan was trying to rush the ball down the field for a touchdown which would have tied the score, then 12 to 6 in favor of Wellesley.

Moynihan plays halfback on the team. His home is at 25 School st., Salem.

Fittons Score Four Times on Whitman

The Fittons of East Boston made it six straight wins by defeating the Whitman Town team, 24 to 0, at Fort Banks yesterday. The Noddle Islanders started rolling in the second half and registered twice in the third period and once in the final quarter.

Rusty Yarnell and Madison Sayles accounted for all the scores. The former Harvard halfback made three touchdowns, two of which resulted from passes thrown by Yarnell. The first touchdown was made in the opening period when Sayles broke away for a 30-yard dash to the goal line. Yarnell ran 20 yards for the final score in the last period.

American Experts Make Fine Showing

By CONSENSUS

CONSENSUS, that demon grid prognosticator of the Boston Evening American's sport department, made a most respectable showing on Saturday last, his first time out.

He didn't came through all covered with glory like Chris Cagle, Al Marsters and some more of the boys, but his .750 performance is nothing to be sneezed at these days when the dope is wrong more often than it is correct.

He tried his luck on nine games. One of these, the Harvard-Army game, can be counted out. Not that it wasn't a game. On the contrary, it was the best game seen hereabouts for years and years. But it ended in a tie, so Consensus, by picking Harvard, was neither right nor wrong and that pick can be tossed away.

He had the right dope on six of the remaining eight contests.

He picked Yale to beat Brown, 15 to 9. The Elis finished in front, 14 to 6.

Dartmouth was the choice over Columbia, 18 to 8. The "Big Green" came through to the tune of 34 to 0. The Indians were somewhat better than Consensus predicted, but he said they would win, and they did, which is all that counts.

EAGLES COME THROUGH

He was correct, too, on the outcome of the B. C.-Dayton game, picking the Eagles, who won, 23 to 7, to triumph, 19 to 4. He was even closer to being perfect on this one than the figures show. Boston College scored actually just 19 points. The other four were given to it by Dayton via the safety route.

Fordham was the pick over Holy Cross, 18 to 4. The Cavanaugh machine won, 7 to 0. Consensus had some luck in this one, Fordham coming through in the final minute of play after being fought to a standstill by the Purple for nearly an hour.

Tufts didn't do quite as well as was expected, winning, 7 to 0. Consensus' guess was 15 to 2.

B. U. did slightly better than was looked for by trimming Worcester Polytech, 39 to 6. Consensus figured the Terriers would win, 21 to 2.

On the wrong side of the ledger were the Cornell-Princeton and Penn-California games. Both tough ones, and that is not said as an alibi.

PRINCETON FAILS

Cornell whipped Princeton, 13 to 7, while the dope had the Tigers to win, 9 to 7. Penn was down to whip California 10 to 9, but fell 12 to 7.

Wrong on each of these, Consensus, nevertheless, wasn't very far off.

Myles McSweeney, Ralph Gilroy and Joe Cashman made the best individual showing, each making but one mistake, not counting, of course, the Army game.

McSweeney and Cashman fell down on the Penn-California clash, while Gilroy was tripped up by his alma mater, Princeton, when they failed to take Cornell into camp.

SHAWKEY IN N. Y. TUESDAY

New York, Oct. 21—Bob Shawkey, new manager of the New York Yankees, who has been hunting moose in the Canadian wilderness, will return this week to begin a long winter's hunt for ball players to rebuild the team.

Col. Jacob Ruppert said Shawkey will be here Tuesday to sign a one-year contract.

Shawkey served almost fourteen seasons as a member of the Yankees' pitching staff. He was in the Navy most of 1918. In 1919, his best year, he won 19 games and lost 11, for an average of .633.

Walton Is Champion

E. Walton won the fall championship at the North Shore Golf and Tennis Club by defeating J. Connors, 3 and 2. He qualified for the final by defeating B. Coffin, 2 and 1, in the semifinals, while Connors was defeating Richards 1 up, 19 holes.

Novice in '28; Now Stars in Notre Dame Backfield

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 21 (INS)—Last year a novice at football. Tthis year already rated as one of the best fullbacks in the country.

That is the record of Joe Savoldi, Notre Dame's new fullback who, on Saturday, was the sensation of the Wisconsin-Notre Dame game with his repeated long runs.

Two of his breaks, one of 40 and the other 71 yards, scored touchdowns for the Irish.

He went out for football last year knowing nothing about the game and when the season was over had gotten no furher than the "B" squad. This fall he was given a chance in the Indiana game and there established himself.

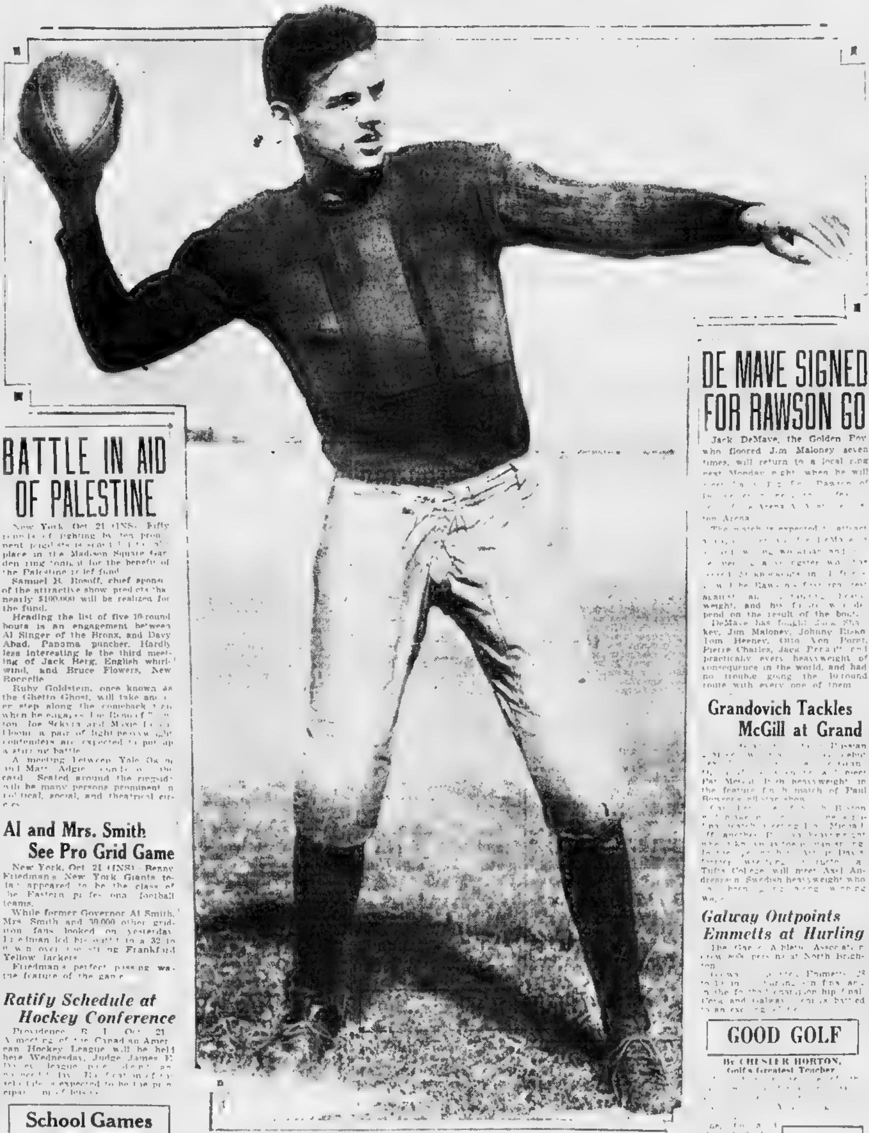
SOPH WHO SAVED THE DAY FOR CRIMSON ELEVEN



BARRY WOOD

This youngster kept Harvard on the list of undefeated elevens when he dropkicked the point following the final Harvard touchdown and gave the Crimson a tie with the Army on Saturday. Wood is a great athlete. He stars in tennis, golf, baseball, hockey and football. Barry is a big cog in the eleven which Harvard hopes to see go through the season without a setback.

West Point rose to great heights against Harvard. The Army was an inspired team. A green aggregation [illegible] one of the best Crimson elevens was the Army. And regardless of its success or failure for the remainder of the season, West Point can always point with pride to the warrior Capt. Chris Cagle commanded in the Harvard battle.

10 TEAMS UNDEFEATED

Although a number of undefeated teams met with their first reversals last Saturday, there was a noticeable [illegible] of knocked-for [illegible]

The undefeated and untied [illegible] Fordham, Notre Dame, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, [illegible] Tulane, Stanford and Southern California, while [illegible] College, Carnegie Tech, California, Washington and Jefferson, and Villanova have yet to be upset but they have been in no-decision engagements.

Columbia was traveling at a winning pace until Dartmouth took them and put a dent in the New Yorkers' pocketbooks, as was Pennsylvania and Holy Cross, until California and Fordham "took them for a ride."

Among the others who suffered their first upsets were Northwestern, a Minnesota final period victim, Nebraska, whom Pittsburgh stepped through; Virginia, Lafayette and Temple.

Not only has Dartmouth, Tufts and Fordham a [illegible] record but [illegible] have yet to have a point scored against them and the same is true of Carnegie Tech and W. & J., which teams battled to a scoreless tie last Saturday.

Yale had a narrow escape with Brown but was saved by a sophomore phenom, Albie Booth, a late starter, who entered the game with the Bulldog trailing the Bear.

The Elis are not clicking this Fall and in spite of recent denials from a reliable authority it was learned that Mal Stevens has already resigned his head coaching berth, same to take effect at the end off the season, and Adam Walsh will take over the reins next year.

SCORES ONE TOUCHDOWN

Due to the long journey from the Coast, the University of California only nosed out Pennsylvania by a single touchdown. The Golden Bears are capable of better football than they showed in Franklin Field and will return to Berkeley to battle their undefeated S. C. [illegible] and Stanford rivals for the California title.

The Dartmouth machine swept to a well deserved victory over Columbia and by so doing toss a scare into Harvard. If the Green and the Crimson came through last Saturday's games without any serious injuries, the conflict in the Stadium this week will be a classic.

[illegible] College continued [illegible] of triumph at the expense of [illegible] Eagles are coming fast and give promise of [illegible]

[illegible] and Michigan met with their second defeats of the season last week. The Tigers were vanquished by Gil Dobie's Cornell outfit, while Michigan fell before Ohio State. The Wolverines were unable to muster up their war strength because of injuries suffered a week ago in the Purdue game.

With the exception of the state university, Maine colleges enjoyed the weekend, now that Bates has reached the stage where they regard a tie as a moral victory.

Fred Brice's blue and blue wearers dropped their fourth game while Bates tied with Rhode Island State. But Bowdoin swung back into the games won column taking a fall out of Wesleyan and Colby sunk the Newport Naval Reserves.

NOTRE DAME GREAT

Tufts, Boston University, Williams, Mass. Aggies and Vermont were the other victorious New England colleges.

The upset of the Western Conference was Minnesota's win over Dick Hanley's Northwestern outfit. The Gophers won on a fourth period rally defeating the Wildcats and Illinois and Iowa battled to a 7-7 tie.

Notre Dame scored another great victory, this time over Wisconsin. The Fighting Irish are all to a fine season with wins over Indiana, Navy and Wisconsin and should be even a greater attraction when they come East to play West Point in the Yankee Stadium.

Heading the list of five 10-round bouts is an engagement between Al Singer of the Bronx, and Davy Abad, Panama puncher. Hardly less interesting is the third meeting of Jack Berg, English whirlwind, and Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle.

Ruby Goldstein, once known as the Ghetto Ghost, will take another step along the comeback trail when he engages [illegible] ton. Joe Sekyra and Maxie [illegible] a pair of light heavyweight contenders, are expected to put up a stirring battle.

Cullen Shines as Codmans Win

The Codman A. A. of Dorchester crushed the Lynn Gas A. A. in a hard fought battle at Norfolk Field, Dorchester, yesterday afternoon. The score was 20-13.

Eddie Cullen, formerly of Commerce and Bridgton Academy and Ginsberg, former captain of Dorchester High, put up a brilliant exhibition before a crowd of 2000, for the winners. Cullen ripped off a run of 45 yards for one touchdown and banged away at the line for another score, while Ginsberg made half the tackles on the line. The other Codman touchdown was made by Joe Silverman.

Gaffney, end, and Rattman, half back, accounted for the Lynn touchdowns.

The only difference in the forward half of this action is that the forward swing is at a much faster pace, and at an increasingly speeded-up pace. Still if you keep your action smooth, and by that I mean free from the application of violence of power, you will have no trouble because the increase of pace is a natural result of your action with the club. The natural action will not disturb you or be difficult as the unnatural effort, the try for emphatic power and force, that upsets things. Your rule is: Let the forward pace be as fast as you can make it and still be smooth—always you must be smooth. Strive for that, get it and be satisfied.

Kasek, due to his comparative inexperience, is not likely to play regularly this season but so far has played a part of each game and is being counted upon by Pioneer coaches to develop into a regular lineman during the next two seasons.

SPRINGFIELD GOAL OF B. U. GRIDMEN

BOSTON UNIVERSITY'S varsity eleven will begin [illegible]

[illegible] the B. U. backs [illegible] pleasing [illegible] regulars and subs [illegible] Walke [illegible] the brilliant [illegible] backfield [illegible] touchdowns [illegible] when he just missed [illegible] a lateral pass with [illegible]

[illegible] Walke, although he did not [illegible] the scoring column last Saturday, played a great game and will be counted on heavily to play an important role in the Springfield clash.

Although Walke does not flash as a ball carrier, he is the best interferer on the team, and is the key man in the Terrier attack and [illegible] success of most of the team's running plays.

WALKE DID WELL

[illegible] Walke [illegible] played an important [illegible] attack and [illegible] several times for [illegible] enemy pass [illegible] desperate [illegible] Worcester safety man [illegible] the center [illegible] loose [illegible] to dodge the [illegible] and score [illegible] of the game [illegible]

ENTIRE SQUAD O. K.

[illegible] of Ernie Tutton and [illegible] at the two ends was [illegible] of end play ever [illegible] Tutton scored two touchdowns after grabbing forward passes from Walke and was a bear on defense all afternoon. [illegible] dropped at least [illegible] receivers in their tracks and stopped Worcester backs for losses on several occasions.

[illegible] McCarthy and Goldman also shone at the wings after [illegible] two starters were withdrawn from the game. The Worcester running game gained little ground at the ends and for the most part was aimed inside the tackles.

The entire squad came through the game in fine shape and no injury of a serious nature occurred. A chalk practice consisting of a blackboard talk pointing out the [illegible] of the last game and a drill will feature today's practice. A scrimmage with the freshmen will be [illegible] tomorrow.

Bing Miller Feted . . . By Home Town Bunch

Vinton, Ia., Oct. 21 (AP). Hometown folks today welcomed the man who just a week ago made the $60,000 hit for the Philadelphia Athletics in the World Series.

Edmund J. (Bing) Miller was home to attend a banquet arranged by his schoolday neighbors. Born and reared on a farm here he first started as a pitcher on the old Vinton Leaders semi-pro club.

With his brother Eugene, who received his tosses, Bing lost only one game in the two years while playing for Vinton.

The son of Nod Miller, who in his youth was a minor league ball player, "Bing" plans to leave here after the banquet for Clinton, where tomorrow he will be feted by the Gyro Club.

JAKE ZERAMBY

Zeramby, young battler who has been hailed as the best since the days of Benny Leonard, faces a hard puncher on Friday night, at the Garden, when he tackles Sammy Fuller. Zeramby won on a foul in his bout with Fuller recently. Jake says he will K. O. Sammy this time. Sammy says the same thing. So the scrap will be good.

SASSE IS RIGHT MAN FOR WEST POINT BERTH

Contrary to reports sent out last [illegible] Major Ralph Sasse has not received his appointment as head [illegible] at West Point to succeed [illegible] Biff Jones at the end of the [illegible] season.

The Sasse story got its origin from an article written by a scribe [illegible] many others had been taken into the confidence of the West Point football authorities.

In releasing the story, the writer, [illegible] for his inability to keep [illegible] coaches in every branch of sports has opened a country [illegible] battle for the West Point [illegible]

Capt. Biff Jones is serving his first season as head coach and [illegible] that he has devoted enough of his career to West Point football and [illegible] anxious to get back with his artillery outfit, where he holds a captain's commission.

Capt. Jones has been at the Point [illegible] that he admits that he does not believe he knows a butt from [illegible] block.

HAS THE QUALIFICATIONS

Major Ralph Sasse would be a [illegible] capable head coach for the Army. He is closely identified [illegible] present system, one of the most successful ever in vogue at West Point and through his [illegible] in the local condition.

He is the unanimous choice of those in authority at the Post and the most logical successor to "Biff" Jones.

But logical successor, knowledge of present system, local condition and ability don't even rate a salute from the "Hell Cats" in the eyes of the politicians, who never fail to make their presence felt by bringing pressure to bear for some [illegible] when the head [illegible] berth at West Point [illegible]

[illegible] fed up on the [illegible] which have played such important parts in the selection of some former mentors at West Point.

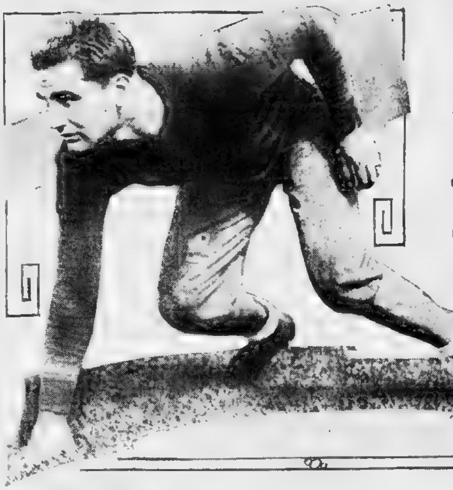
A few years back, Capt. John McEwen was anxious to resign as head coach but because a former Army player, who did not rate well in popularity, had been lined up for the job through some Washington influence, McEwen was prevailed upon to stand by until the much undesired one had resigned from the Army.

MAY GET APPOINTMENT

Major Ralph Sasse may receive [illegible] appointment but [illegible] battle. Regardless of his qualifications those with axes to grind will point to the fact that Major Sasse did not win first football letter at West Point [illegible]

[illegible]

BACK IN FORM OF 1927



Al Marsters of Dartmouth is in All-America trim again. He ran wild against Columbia, Saturday. And will worry the Harvard team a lot. The Crimson faces a very big obstacle in the Green.

SALEM WILL PLAY OUT OF STATE

THE ranks of the undefeated scholastic football elevens were thinned after Saturday's games and with stiffer competition coming on an even [illegible] of teams boasting clean records may be expected.

Medford, Malden, Salem, Waltham and B. C. high in the group of major elevens have yet to fall, while Norwood and Johnson Academy, lesser lights in the schoolboy world have not known disaster.

Medford conquered Haverhill, displaying a good aerial game and enough power in line smashes to reap sizeable gains. Spellman, as usual, and Good, gave Blue and White rooters joy. Nicholson and Jan Janian seem to improve with each contest.

EVERETT-MEDFORD WAR

A game with Everett is scheduled for the Medford clan next Saturday. This fray will have all the color and thrills incidental to past Medford-Everett melees. Everett clicked off a victory over Brookline last Saturday and is predicted to give Medford the stubbornest sort of competition.

Malden unloosed its scoring tricks against Rogers High of Newport, R. I., and was able to win after spotting the visitors two tallies. Fishman, O'Brien, Prusak and Beaman comprise the carrying quartet which has made Malden feared by all foes.

A trip to Manchester, New Hampshire next Saturday will be taken by the Malden eleven. Manchester had its win streak broken by Lowell two weeks ago but came back against Concord, New Hampshire with a vengeance on last Saturday.

BIG GAME FOR MALDEN

Mara at quarter and Randy Jones, fleet halfback, will test the Blue and Gold line as it has not been tested this season. If Malden is successful against Manchester, few teams in this section will be able to cope with the Goodreau eleven.

Salem and Lynn English played a wonderful game at Salem last Saturday, with Salem on the long end of the decision. Rand, Heffernan and L'Italien stood out for the Witch City aggregation.

Ryblicki of Salem had only one bad mark against him at quarter, his poor punt on one occasion threatening to give Lynn English an advantage.

SALEM PLAYS IN N. Y.

Salem will travel to Mount Vernon, New York, on next Saturday, and the contest with the Empire State team will not be an easy one. Mount Vernon tied for the championship of Westchester County last year.

Lynn English regrets its first defeat of the season at Salem's hands and will strive with every individual muscle to win from Waltham at Lynn next Saturday.

Greenlaw, Gould, and Simpson showed plenty of backfield wizardry against Salem. Harris and Nicosia, capable wings, are at home on the offensive or defensive.

Waltham looks to be stronger than Lynn English, an overwhelming victory over a heavy Fitchburg eleven on last Saturday giving confidence to Watch City followers. Bill Pendergast startled the crowds at this game with a 60-yard sprint for a touchdown and followed his first tally with another score. The forethought of Coach Jack Leary was seen when Pendergast was benched after the first half of the tussle.

MARSTERS TOPS GRID SCORERS

By Associated Press

A Marsters 12-point splurge against Columbia enabled the Dartmouth quarterback to lengthen his lead over the field in the race for national individual scoring honors. Marsters now has scored 13 touchdowns and 12 points after touchdown for 90 points.

In second place among the leading scorers in each of the eight major conferences or groups is Eugene McEver, Tennessee halfback, who has tallied 60 points on 10 touchdowns.

The leader in each of the eight groups as compiled by the Associated Press follows:

	G	Td	Pat	G	Pts
East—Marsters, Dartmouth, q.b.	4	13	12	0	90
Southern—McEver, Tennessee, h.b.	4	10	0	0	60
Southwest—McElreath, Baylor, h.b.	5	8	8	0	56
Pacific—Schwartz, Washington State, f.b.	4	[illegible]		0	34
Missouri Valley—King, Drake, h.b.	4	[illegible]	4	0	[illegible]
Big Ten—Glasgow, Iowa, h.b.	4	4	4	0	28

Big Six—Page, Kansas, h.b.	3	3	0	0	18

Weymouth Eleven Finds Hingham Easy

Weymouth A. C. defeated the Hingham Town Team, 18 to 0 at the Weymouth Fair Grounds. McKenna scored the first touchdown with a 30 yard run after intercepting a lateral pass while Murphy scored the second after a succession of rushes from midfield. An intercepted forward pass by Forsberg, who ran 20 yards to the goal line accounted for the final touchdown.

Kelly and Staffon on Jumbo First Team

FRESH from a hard earned victory over the strong Connecticut Aggie team, the Tufts squad will start an intensive week's work in preparation for the New Hampshire game next Saturday.

New Hampshire downed Maine 21-7 score. This coupled with the Jumbo victory over the Aggies gives Sampson something to work on this week.

The team came through the contest in good shape, there being no injuries. Two important phases of the Tufts attack were the work of Kelly, who played in the backfield in the place of the injured Gibbon, and Staffon who replaced Story at [illegible] part of the game. Kelly's work was outstanding during the entire game.

FIRST START FOR KELLY

This was Kelly's first start in a varsity contest and the former [illegible] Attleboro and Moses Brown [illegible] more than fulfilled all expectation.

On the offensive Kelly showed uncanny ability to gain ground, picking the holes and eluding tacklers with the ease and assurance of a tried veteran.

Both Kelly and Staffon will be in the first lineup in this afternoon's scrimmage with the junior varsity. Gibbons will be kept on the sidelines until Sampson feels that he can risk his star back in scrimmage.

Staffon replaced Story early in the game and will be kept in the line because of his stellar work.

Joe LeMaistre will do the punting this afternoon. The big back has been getting off some beautiful punts during the enforced absence of Jack Gibbons.

FROSH ELEVEN STRONG

Scrimmage will be the major part of the week's workouts, the junior varsity and the freshman teams lining up against the varsity during the entire week. The freshman will probably not see any action against the first team until the middle of the week and are sure to give the upper classmen a hard tussle.

The Jumbo yearlings seem already pointed to an unusually successful season and are undefeated to date, with victories over Andover, New Hampshire '33, Huntington and Lawrence Academy. The play of the frosh back and line has been better than usual, the team seeming to be unstoppable.

Two Novice Classes in St. Joe's Show

St. Joseph's T. A. S. will hold another in its series of amateur shows next Saturday night in Mechanics Building.

The novice classes last Saturday night were so thrilling that Director "Father Bill" Cuddy has decided to stage bouts for novices in the 135 and 147-pound class, and the 118, 126, 150 pounds and heavyweight divisions will be open to all comers.

The number of ladies attending the shows is becoming greater with each week, and it was announced yesterday that a special section will be reserved for ladies Saturday night with or without escorts.

CHAPTER 7
Jealousy

NEVER [illegible]

[illegible] tion of seeing Marianne [illegible] and for a moment looking [illegible] fully over toward the barn.

Stag tried to sneer. Oh, she'd [illegible] now that her officer [illegible] would she! Well, she [illegible]

[illegible] hated by the [illegible] of Yom and Soapy. [illegible] irrepressibles had [illegible] the real hurt in Stag's eyes. To their minds this was just another of the young fellow's easy conquest.

"Kind of lost out with the little Frenchie, didn't you?" inquired Soapy [illegible] after drill the next [illegible] "Wait! [illegible] up Hank [illegible] Tom Brown [illegible]"

"[illegible] news up Yom [illegible] Frenchie's a little green. Must be crazy about him. Looks to me like she's fixin' to give him one swell feed tonight. I been hangin' around the house [illegible] on the smells that come from the kitchen."

"[illegible] that too bad!" Soapy answered feelingly. "If only she'd taken a fancy to Stag here, maybe he could of got us in on the eats. [illegible] smells like pork, too. All she [illegible] her boy friend here was stew. [illegible] ain't no second [illegible]"

"I hope [illegible] are having a good time," the tortured young fellow [illegible]

"[illegible] I do believe Stag's jealous of the M.P." Soapy's eyes twinkled [illegible] tone was [illegible] "[illegible] you care, [illegible] You ain't the first buck private lost out to a louey."

He collapsed on Yom's neck in shaking triumph as Stag walked [illegible] away.

So [illegible] she was cooking dinner for Frayne. Stag thought of what that would mean.

His imagination pictured night closing down about the farmhouse. The cozy intimacy of a firelit room. A table set for two.

It went further, showed him Marianne clasped in Frayne's arms—Frayne kissing her soft lips unrebuked . . .

Stag's nails were driving in his palms now.

Despite himself, his eyes went over to the house. A plume of smoke hovered above the chimney. So, Yom hadn't just been ribbing him then! Marianne was fixing to cook dinner for that lousy lieutenant.

Stag tried to get away from it all by drifting down to the village cafe and playing the [illegible]. It was a poor substitute. As he wandered back to camp again through the graying twilight, resentment [illegible] anew.

He looked over at the house as he came into the barnyard. Through the dusk the windows glowed warmly back at him. Easy to imagine firelit cheer within . . . Warm cheer made for Frayne.

Drawn as though by a magnet the young fellow walked over. Savory smells floated out to meet him. Hunger aided in some subtle way to the jealous anger in his heart.

Stag tiptoed to the porch and looked into the kitchen through the door, left half ajar for ventilation.

The big room was empty, but it was easy to see that elaborate dinner preparations had been going on. On the top of a low oven before the fireplace was a huge wooden platter. Stag's jealous gaze devoured it. A roast pig—cooked to a turn—and about it, tastefully arranged side dishes garnished with parsley.

"Hey! What you doing?" A hoarse whisper below the porch made him jump. "Tryin' to horn in where you're not invited?"

Stag's startled eyes made out the white grins of Yom and Soapy in the dusk below.

At that same moment from the room adjoining the kitchen at one end, came the murmur of Lieutenant Frayne's voice—the soft ripple of Marianne's laugh.

Madness—exploding in Stag's brain.

"Wait a shake, fellows!" he hissed at the two indistinct forms below him. "I'll give you a Christmas present!"

In long strides he tiptoed across the kitchen, snatched up the platter with the roast and darted back to the porch.

"With the compliments of Lieutenant Frayne!" he got out between clenched teeth as he handed

STIDGER IN NEW ATTACK ON D. A. R.

Charges New "Blacklist" Has Been Issued Aimed at Ministers

Charging that a second blacklist which condemns the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman as a "pope" and accuses the American church leaders as having encouraged the German Kaiser to start the war was issued by the D. A. R. no later than a month ago, Rev. William L. Stidger delivered a new attack on the organization in a sermon in the Copley Methodist Episcopal Church.

Moreover, Dr. Stidger accused the D. A. R. of employing [illegible] Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart of Cincinnati, [illegible] general [illegible] of [illegible] at last week's meeting of the Massachusetts chapter, in Springfield, any connection with William B. Shearer, big navy propagandist.

"It is the way of the D. A. R. to employ the art of subterfuge," Dr. Stidger stated. "They did this in the famous blacklist controversy, saying that this list was issued by a sub-committee, even denying that it existed. I have a copy of that blacklist. It does exist.

"I feel I have a moral right to call attention to a little subterfuge in the [illegible] referring to Mrs. Hobart's statements of last week, for she only says that Shearer has not spoken through the D. A. R.

"What I want to know is has he been permitted to use the D. A. R. to spread propaganda against Hoover's peace policy? The National Council for the Prevention of War News Bulletin distinctly says, 'In early August Shearer delivered a [illegible] attack under the auspices of the National Security League.'

"I leave one further question to ask the D. A. R.," Dr. Stidger declared. "That is about another and a different type of blacklist worse than the first. The second blacklist was issued no later than the past month. In this new blacklist, which is being circulated by the D. A. R., Elihu Root and George W. Wickersham are by inference charged with improperly using the churches and with performing their international services for money.

"American church leaders are suspected of having encouraged the German Kaiser to start the war." Dr. Stidger continued quoting from the Federal Council Bulletin. "The federal council is charged with having first suggested the League of Nations. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman is a 'pope' and committed the crime of being born in England.

"It is an attack on some of the most prominent churchmen in America, including Bishops Freeman and Mann of the Protestant Episcopal church.

"The second blacklist," Dr. Stidger explained, "is encompassed in a pamphlet entitled 'Pastors, Politicians and Pacifists.'"

"I never heard of the list," Mrs. Nancy H. Harris, vice regent of the Massachusetts chapter of the D. A. R., declared later. Mrs. [illegible] James, State corresponding secretary, said she [illegible] heard [illegible]

Chorister Hero of Fire

The Rev. Dr. P. A. Killain and Reginald Hiltz, chorister, of Brighton Avenue Baptist Church, shown with flags and books saved by Hiltz at the risk of his life when fire swept the church.

The congregation of the Brighton Ave. Baptist Church now owe a debt of gratitude to Reginald Hiltz, the choirmaster, who braved flames and smoke to save flags, Bible and records from the church.

Hiltz, who lives on [illegible] ter., Allston, was taking a walk with his son, Reginald Jr., and came into the square made by the junction of Cambridge, North Beacon sts. and Brighton ave. He noticed smoke rising from the roof near the chimney at the front of the church.

Without waiting to investigate he ran to Cambridge and North Beacon sts. and rang in an alarm. Then he ran to the church, entered and [illegible] through the smoke-filled auditorium to where the Bible, and other valuables were kept.

He brought the Bible and the American and church flags to the lawn at the rear of the church and returned and brought out church music records, chairs and other property with the assistance of Patrolman Harry Swanson of the Brighton police.

When the first [illegible] arrived Hiltz guided the firemen to the upper section of the church where the flames were raging.

District Chief Thomas H. Andrews, arriving with the first companies, [illegible] one and three alarms.

Chief Fox set damage at $1,000 and said fire was probably caused by a defective flue.

Rev. Perry A. [illegible] after the valuables had been removed and took them to a nearby garage where they will be kept until further arrangements can be made.

Too Much in Earnest in Redskin Battle

"We're playing Indian and now when I shoot you, you must fall down," John J. Donovan, 8, of Valusia st., East Weymouth, said to his 7-year-old playmate, William Stevenson, who lives just a few doors away.

John retired behind a convenient oak tree, put his air rifle to his shoulder, drew a bead and pulled the trigger, shouting, "You're shot. Fall down." William did fall, but he had actually been shot.

The bullet struck him square in the center of the temple, buried in his flesh and rendered him semi-conscious. Panic stricken, John ran for aid and William was rushed to the office of Dr. Kenneth Hutchinson who said that the wound is not serious and that the boy is in no danger unless complications set in.

Police confiscated the air rifle which John has had for some time and which has been the weapon used in many a game of Indian without serious results. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Donovan and William's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Stevenson.

Rheumatism Pains
Stop in 7 to 10 Minutes

[illegible] MUS[illegible] [illegible] my home [illegible] REDFIELD [illegible]

I have used MUSCLETONE for rheumatism [illegible] I [illegible] recommended [illegible] MUSCLETONE to my neighbors [illegible] they have the highest [illegible] preparation [illegible] It is simply wonderful.
MR. EUGENE [illegible]
[illegible]

When a man has rheumatism so badly that it is downright agony to even move and seems suddenly to regain complete freedom from pain the chances are that he has learned the secret of MUSCLETONE.

Almost a million people now—by word of mouth recommendation—seem to have found complete relief through this new discovery of treatment by inunction. So far as the painful part of rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia, lameness of muscle, bones and joints is concerned you may forget it with the first application. Relief actually comes in 7 to 10 minutes. The photographs above were taken only 30 minutes apart. Chronic cases and those unusually severe will of course require continued treatment for a while but isn't it wonderful that the relief you seek is now so easily obtained?

MUSCLETONE is a new discovery in medical science. You no longer dose the system with violent or nauseating drugs. The treatment is applied directly to the part affected and by inunction neutralizes accumulated toxins. Yet it is perfectly harmless. You literally feel the pain leaving.

We urge only that you make this test. MUSCLETONE is now obtainable at any drug store. Buy it today. Use one half the bottle and if you are not amazed return the remaining half to the druggist and he will refund your money. The price is $1.00.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

PARKER FOR NEW AUTO LAWS AS DEATH TOLL FOR MONTH HITS 74

SAYS WARNING UNHEEDED BY DRIVERS

Motor Deaths for Week Was 30, Setting a Record in Massachusetts

[illegible] motor vehicle [illegible] today by Registrar of Motor Vehicles George A. Parker as a result of the latest [illegible] showing 30 fatalities last week and 74 for the month to date.

A maximum age limit and a set speed limit while crossing bridges are amendments which Parker advances. The registrar charged also that his warning had been flagrantly disregarded.

"The death of two aged women at the Concord railroad crossing suggested the need of limiting the maximum age limit of operators and the fatality on the bridge over the Cape Cod canal seems to call for a special speed limit for driving across bridges, such as has been adopted in other states," he said.

SETS NEW RECORD

"In spite of the warning against accidents and appeals to the public to be extra-careful during the Columbus Day week-end holiday," he continued, "our Massachusetts record of automobile fatalities this week reaches another high mark, the highest ever listed in this State during one week. The previous high record was for the first week of this month, when 27 names were put on the fatality list. It will be noted that two of last week's 30 deaths were the result of accidents that occurred several weeks ago.

"It is time the public conscience was awakened by the reading of such a record as this. With double deaths occurring in no [illegible] than seven of our cities and towns, located in every [illegible] of the state, north, [illegible] south and west, with three dead and [illegible] severely injured in railroad crossing accidents, with three more victims killed in one week by hit-and-run drivers and with more than the average percentage of pedestrian lives sacrificed some by their own negligence—can it be possible that our citizens will remain indifferent?

"As a result of these fatalities and also of nonfatal accidents I have this week suspended or revoked scores of licenses.

178 CONVICTIONS

A total of 178 persons were convicted last week for operating while under the influence of liquor, 89 more than the preceding week. Twenty were committed to jail, 14 from district courts and six from superior courts.

Four persons were convicted for the second time within six years in District courts for operating while under the influence of liquor. Three were committed to jail and one was given a jail sentence and appealed.

There were 1376 licenses and registrations suspended or revoked last week, 145 more than in the week before and 604 more than in the same period last year. Of these 172 were for driving after drinking intoxicating liquor and 884 on account of insurance cancellations.

Candidate Pleads for City College

"Because of the prejudice that now exists in Greater Boston institutions of higher learning, I am in favor of the establishment of a City College," said Atty. Nyman D. When Nature Warns of too Much Acid

MILK OF MAGNESIA brings quickest Relief

AUTHORITIES have warned us so often that nowadays almost all people know the dangers of a diet too rich in acid-producing foods. Dietary experts say the ideal menu would consist of about three-fourths fruits and vegetables—the alkaline producers—to one-fourth of those which produce acids: the meats, sweets, cereals. But knowing this, how many can avoid an occasional touch of over-acidity?

Of course, when pain and sourness about two hours after eating, heartburn, headaches, gas or nausea, warn of too much acid, we can diet our way out of the trouble. But that takes time. And there's no use suffering when Nature has provided such a quick, harmless means of relief. Milk of Magnesia. Doctors the world over are united in favor of just one form of magnesia. For over fifty years, they have prescribed Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It is an almost tasteless, milk-white liquid; magnesia in perfect suspension. It is in the form pronounced most effective by the U. S. Dispensatory. Just a spoonful in a glass of water and every trace of over-acidity soon disappears. In five minutes you are smiling, happy again. Its action is thorough, yet nothing could be more soothing to an ailing stomach.

This perfect anti-acid has also gentle laxative properties. It cleanses and sweetens the entire digestive tract without any of the disturbance common to strong cathartics. It has many important uses in any household. Complete directions, worth your reading, come with every package.

All drug stores have the 25c and 50c bottles. The genuine, prescriptional product, with 50 years' experience behind it, is always marked with the name Phillips. So look for it in buying.

SPEEDY WORK ON SCREEN

MANAGER GEORGE LABY of the Washington St. Olympia ... speed in ... Laby was able ... through ... processes and rushed by special carrier to the Olympia and delivered to Mr. Laby personally. He had everything waiting. Naturally, the audience was thrilled at announcement it was to see the big plays, the crowd and all the cheering at the Stadium. The Paramount enterprise and feature held closest attention and was heartily applauded. It will be shown as a part of the bill the rest of the week.

RUTH ETTING EVEN THRILLS STAGE FOLK

RUTH ETTING, now at the Metropolitan in person, is a vision of loveliness not only loveliness of face and figure but character and disposition as well. It may be said that her voice has been heard round the world, for this charming artist sang through 12,000 miles of space over the radio to Commander Byrd's Antarctic Expedition.

Radio fans eagerly await her broadcast during the "Majestic Theater of the Air," in which she is starred, and her records sell the world over. Her most recent personal triumph was in Ziegfeld's "Whoopee," where she sang her way to increased glory and popularity.

Ruth Etting is the creator of an individual style of singing, attributed directly to her simplicity of manner. There is nothing artificial about this talented artist, whose early training was as a student in the Academy of Fine Arts in Chicago, where she studied to be a designer and artist. She designs most of her own clothes and also does considerable composing. Some of her own works have proven to be popular with her legion of admirers.

To be admired and adored by the entire staff of a theater is the acid test of popularity for any theatrical personality. The cordiality, simplicity and sincerity effused by Miss Etting makes itself felt wherever her presence is found. Seldom do the lesser stars or a program display the interest of the spectators in the auditorium, but when Ruth's appealing voice pours forth, the little chorus girls, stage hands and artists awaiting their cues crowd in the wings to listen to her songs.

As a rule, backstage life is a matter of serious business, and usually individuals conserve their interest and attention for the business at hand. Not so when Ruth Etting is on the program. Admirers, friends, autograph seekers, song publishers' representatives, freshmen under initiation, and sundry types of people are all seeking her favor or attention.

TO THE BOSTON PUBLIC:

It has been my good fortune that my productions which I have opened in Boston have met with approval and patronage from the Boston theatregoing public.

I am fortunate now to be associated with Arch Selwyn in bringing to Boston for the first time on any American stage Chas. B. Cochran's production of Noel Coward's Operette, "BITTER-SWEET," which met with sensational success at His Majesty's Theatre in London.

In America all those who are interested in seeing a novel theatrical entertainment — in the flesh and blood, not canned—should secure seats immediately.

"BITTER-SWEET" will open at the TREMONT THEATRE Tomorrow Night, and will be presented by an entire English company, headed by Evelyn Laye, England's most charming singer and actress.

I feel safe in predicting that it will meet with tremendous success, as my productions have played heretofore to standing room only during all their Boston engagements. You will be electrified!

Grape Jelly Sparkles

WHAT is handsomer in the [illegible] than a [illegible] of jelly, clear, sparkling, transparent and [illegible]? When [illegible]

[illegible] Is the [illegible] are unmistakable qualities of good jelly and the aroma brings the beauty and fragrance of the orchard right into your own home. If your jelly is syrupy and sticky or tough and gummy it fails to meet the test for real good jelly. So if you are not entirely satisfied with your results perhaps the following hints in connection with making grape jelly will be helpful.

Iroquois Concord grapes that are not too ripe are the ideal variety for jelly making, as they contain the proper proportion of acid and pectin to make perfect jelly. Remember pectin [illegible] the [illegible] jelly making quality and [illegible] ripe fruit [illegible] over-ripe fruit the pectin has been changed by the [illegible] fruit [illegible]. Apples are rich in pectin and one-third apple juice and two-thirds grape juice makes a very satisfactory jelly.

Pick over and wash your grapes and remove the stems before putting them into a preserving kettle. Bring to a boil in order to develop the pectin, mash and boil for 30 minutes. Squeeze the grapes in a moistened cheesecloth to extract the juice and then strain the juice through a flannel jelly bag which has first been dipped in boiling water. Squeezing the pulp before [illegible] the juice drip in the jelly bag will give more juice. The grape juice may be extracted a second time [illegible] the pulp [illegible]

[illegible] to cool in the pan [illegible] sterilized glasses [illegible] the jelly [illegible] possible. The next day pour a layer of melted paraffin over the top to [illegible] the jar from the air. This will stick more securely if a small wooden stick is run around the edge of the jelly as the paraffin is poured on. Cover the glasses, label them with a small neat label and store in a cool, dark, dry place.

Freshmen Guests at B. U. Tea Party

Freshmen will drink tea as [illegible] guests of athletic [illegible] at the Boston University [illegible] of practical arts and [illegible] Friday. Lillian Puxbaum [illegible], chairman of the annual [illegible], has announced.

Others on the committee are [illegible] Neal of Fitchburg, [illegible] of Stanford, Conn., and [illegible] Campbell and Mrs. Anne M[illegible] for the faculty.

Since the opening of the Martha Lee Cooking School on October 15, 1926, 40,766 visitors have been registered. The school at [illegible] Street was opened as a [illegible] bureau for New England homemakers. Its capacity was 27 guests. In March, 1927, it was necessary to build a second school auditorium in the Hearst Building, at Winthrop sq., which would accommodate 100. This too was overcrowded to capacity [illegible] 17 months was built on the fifth floor of the Hearst Building and opened on March 19, 1928. This is the home of the present Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery and will accommodate practically 300 people, 265 seated.

Six classes in the homemaker [illegible] have been graduated [illegible] Class XII is at present in session on Wednesday afternoons. A complete course covers a 10-week period during which every step in practical home cookery is covered. Even homemakers who have kept house for many years [illegible] store.

Among the class [illegible] we have the wife of a Massachusetts Senator, seven school teachers, eight doctors' wives, a number of trained nurses, a dozen or more owners of tea rooms and restaurants, the stewardess of a [illegible] fraternity and a hospital dietitian.

The latest branch of activity in the Martha Lee Woman's Club is the Evening Cooking School for brides and business girls. This is held every Tuesday evening at 6:30 p.m. There are 260 members enrolled, with a waiting list of [illegible] already [illegible] for the next [illegible] which will open on January 15. The afternoon class [illegible] waiting list for January.

If you are unable to attend the school, don't forget that Martha Lee's daily recipes appear on the Magazine Page of this paper [illegible] Marketing [illegible] once a week and that her best advice on your cooking problems is freely yours if you will drop her a line. Address her at 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

Soap That 'Saves'

"DIFFERENT" SOAP SAVES SILKIES

WHY do silk stockings and underwear look lustrous and [illegible] new after you wash them with a new soap especially designed for washing silks and wool?

Why do sweaters and baby woolens washed with this soap feel so [illegible] fleecy?

Why do your hands feel just as if you had been applying lotion when you finish washing things out with this soap for silk?

Because it restores the natural protective oil in silk and wool and in your skin [illegible] that are needed [illegible] other soaps wash away.

You can feel the difference as well as see it. This special soap for silks does more than wash silks and woolens stainless. It actually renews them by replacing those necessary oils that mean longer life to fabrics, longer [illegible].

No wonder this marvelously different soap has already made a permanent place for itself on the bathroom shelves of countless homes.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Health Hint

MANY children are undernourished, not because they are not receiving enough food, but because they are not getting the right kind of food. Every mother should learn about food values and balanced diets. Ask your physician if in doubt.

Tomorrow: The Storm Breaks.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

COMES now a lady who's very very mad at me.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Elsie Robinson," says she, "the way you pick on women. What if women do do foolish things? Women should stick together, right or wrong. They have a hard enough time, anyway, goodness knows, without another woman picking on them and showing them up. You notice that men always stick together. You never hear one man turning against another. They will lie for each other like a band of thieves. That is what makes men so strong."

Elsie Robinson

And believe it or not that lady's speech is going to get a lot of encore. For a good percentage of Girls still firmly believe that women should "stick together, right or wrong."

But why? Once upon a time it may have been necessary. When the cards were all stacked against them, women may have needed to make common cause. But the cards are no longer stacked. Indeed, there is indignant protest that nowadays the Femmes CONTROL THE WHOLE DECK . . . AND IF ANY SEX NEEDS PROTECTION, IT IS THE BOYS'.

So, this "hard time" wheeze comes just about twenty years too late, sister. No one is kicking a girlie around these days unless she wants to be kicked. She has all the rights she wants and then some. She doesn't need anyone, male or female, to stick to her if she'll use her own spunk.

Then why not treat her like a regular human being since she insists upon that status? Why not criticize her if she needs it and show her up if showing up's in order?

Such constructive criticism isn't "picking." Rather it's the finest proof of friendship. A LOYAL WOMAN DOESN'T TELL THE REST OF HER SEX THAT THEY'RE PERFECT . . . RATHER SHE TELLS THEM HOW AND WHY TO SNAP OUT OF IT FOR THEIR OWN GOOD.

It's no compliment to treat a woman as though she were too tender to hear the truth. It's an insult and any woman with an ounce of gumption will resent it.

But many mamas still do not take kindly to criticism. They still sulk and pout and bust into big wet tears if you suggest improvements. Therein lies their weakness. They haven't yet learned to be good sports in the give and take of life, and life is going to hand them considerable razzberry until they do.

Men, on the other hand, have been in the scrimmage long enough to take upper-cuts philosophically. And you're mistaken, lady, in this theory that they stick by each other. Men have no compunction about stepping on a sappier brother. They do not go around giving each other sweet kisses just because they all wear plus fours. NO ONE IS A CRUELER CRITIC OF A MAN THAN ANOTHER MAN. But men have learned to take punishment. THAT'S why they're strong. AND WHEN WOMEN HAVE LEARNED THAT LESSON THEY'LL BE AS STRONG; PERHAPS STRONGER.

The Truth

ABOUT USING SUPERLATIVES
By ELINOR GLYN

THE second attitude of mind I desire to see you in is one of balance. Not rushing to extremes.

You will have to use will over this, because all around you will hear superlatives. Ordinary events will be described in ecstatics—and all sense of proportion will be lost.

Elinor Glyn

Try to train yourselves to use the proper words in alluding to things. For instance, the word "terrible"—it means struck with terror. You, Gracie and Maud often employ it when you really refer to a slight thing.

Think how movies—I beg pardon "Talkies"—are spoken of! In the most ridiculous over-exaggerated language. It is this habit that Europeans find crude and vulgar, and I want you to get over it.

Try to train yourselves to appreciate everything in its true proportion. Use superlatives when they are really wanted, and for other occasions use the words which are truly descriptive.

After all, girls, there are none of you so thick skinned and common as to want to remain ignorant and uncultured. My faith in you is far, far beyond that. I want to see you as time goes on, becoming trained in all the refinements of thought and living which I can suggest to you. You have three basic advantages.

One, American girls, because of the mixture of races, evolve each year more physical beauty than any other race. Two, they lead more physically comfortable lives because of the mechanical contrivances than any other race.

Three, they have the accepted "supremacy of the female" accorded to them by men—which no other race possesses. Now my desire is to guide you—all of you who believe in me—into gaining the greatest possible advantage from these national assets.

Make Child Happy

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

IT DOESN'T take a great outlay of money to make a child happy, but it does take a little thought, and the willingness to let him explore and carry out his own ideas, even though they seem silly and uninteresting to us.

I know a little boy who had a perfectly glorious time last fall, indoors and out-of-doors, with nothing but leaves.

Now surely leaves are within the means of all of us. It is just that we have perhaps never thought that they could be of any value in amusing our youngsters.

Sonny got a great deal of fun out of scuffing through the dry leaves on the sidewalk, of course. We've all done that, I presume. But that sort of an activity couldn't last very long with any degree of pleasure, so Sonny's mother suggested one day that they make a "red scrapbook." What did she mean, he wanted to know. Well, let's look for all the pretty leaves that are red in color and bring them home. So they did, and Sonny had a good time arranging them in his big scrapbook and pasting them down flat.

Sonny had modelling clay to work with and Mother suggested using the leaves in connection with this. From the wet clay Sonny made flat plaques like large pancakes. Then while they were still moist, he laid a large leaf in the center of each and carefully pressed it down until the clay had taken the imprint. Then he removed the leaf, and carefully, so as not to destroy the leaf "picture," he turned up the edges of the flat piece of clay until he had made a wide flat dish. These were put near the kitchen stove where the heat from the oven dried them well. This took about a week. Then one rainy day Sonny got out his box of paints and painted the imprint of the leaves. When he had done this to all of them, and let them dry, Mother gave him a small tin can of quick drying colorless shellac and he went over the surface inside and out. Then he let the dishes dry well again and they were given away as ashtrays for Christmas.

Nothing but autumn leaves flying in the wind, but they kept one child busy over a long period of time. There is plenty everywhere for children to work with and enjoy. It is just that sometimes we fail to see it.

"Please stop that kind of talk, Marie."

But as Marie powdered her nose and arranged her hat at the mirror in the bedroom she kept up a running commentary on her friend's absurd behavior.

"There isn't a girl in our show—leading lady included—who wouldn't have jumped at the chance of going out with Mortimer Crisswell. Say, listen." Marie swung around with a bright idea. "Let me get him on the phone and [illegible] you've change[illegible] that we'll both [illegible] Hilarity [illegible] any of the [illegible] out."

Corinna couldn't bear the pain of such a diagnosis. To divert Marie's thoughts she plunged back into mention of Mortimer, blurting out the first thing that came into her head, which was a further invitation he had given her to a party in his flat two nights from now . . .

"And you turned that down as well, you little idiot?" Marie's big eyes registered incredulity. "By golly, you're nutty. But be sure of one thing"—she leaned across the little table towards her chum—staring at her earnestly, resentfully—"while you're on your lonesome chucking away Mortimer's invitations, Malvey isn't turning down that other member of the family—what's her name?—the Denise woman! No indeed! He's worldly-wise enough! He's paying attention to his own best interests—"

"Marie, how can you talk that way—?"

"He's a sweet boy, but you and I are not the only ones that think [illegible] and I'm wise to him," persisted Marie. She added meaningly, "What's he doing tonight, I'd like to tell you how stuck he is on you . . . nor is he dating you!"

To Be Continued Tomorrow

Two Brothers, One Girl

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I went with a young man, and he introduced me to his younger brother, for whom I care very much. We all had many good times together. They treated me well, too.

About a month ago, the older brother got drunk and was talking to some girls on the street. The younger brother came up to me and showed me the older brother, talking drunkenly. That night he told me he cared for me. But he doesn't come up to the house very often—only once in two weeks. Do you think he is just trying to make the older brother jealous? I really care for the younger brother very much. Won't you please advise me what to do?

DOLLY.

IF I were you I would be just a little careful about cultivating the friendship of either or both of the brothers to whom your letters refer. After all the younger brother was not loyal to the older in betraying him to you at his worst. And the question is, having been untrue to his affection for his brother will he not prove equally faithless to you if it becomes convenient? Do you think either brother has qualities that will make him a trustworthy companion and reliable friend and sweetheart?

TO love one whom, because of a physical defect, it is deemed unwise to marry, is the unhappy fate of "Worried."

"Dear Miss Fairfax," she writes, "I am 21 years of age and am in love with a man of 30. About six years ago he was in an accident, which injured his forehead. This happened on the left side, and now a bone is out.

"He was taken to a hospital and given up for lost, but he recovered. The doctor said he might go crazy any day, but he was not sure of it. For that reason my parents object to our marriage. He asked me to elope, which I refused to do. I tried all I could to keep the real reason from him, but someone told him, which hurt his feelings very badly.

"He left soon after and stayed away all winter. He came back early in the spring and never mentioned it any more. He cares for me and I love him very much, but we dare not show it. When he is around my mother watches us very closely and sees that we are never left alone. That makes me disgusted. Please give me your advice, for which I will be very grateful.

WORRIED."

Love is so precious and so sweet that it is sad, indeed, when two who love and are in every other way suitable, are separated because of the ill-health or physical defect of one of the two. Yet the fact remains, it is folly and a menace to life as well as happiness, to marry one who has a serious incurable defect, especially if the defect is likely to endanger others.

But one thing I would do, if I were you, my dear. Talk the matter over frankly with the man who loves you and with his physician.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young fellow of 20 and am in love with a girl of 17. My mother doesn't want me to marry her. I have known her for almost seven years and I am sure she loves me.

My mother said: "If you marry her don't come back home." My father died about three years ago and I am the only one she has left. Will you tell me what to do?

M. L. P.

WAIT awhile; do not marry the young girl you love just yet. Both you and she can afford to wait since you are very young; really too young to undertake the responsibilities of married life. Your mother realizes this. There will be time to think about becoming engaged a year or so from now, provided you and your friend still care for each other. A young man with a mother to support—and I understand this is the case with you—has a really serious problem on his hands when it comes to marriage. But love usually finds a way. And if your mother has your good at heart she will wish to have you marry the right girl when the right time comes!

Work Begun In Earnest

By LUCY LOWELL

VACATIONS possess all manner of charm. From the moment of the first tentative gathering of prospectuses, timetables, maps and folders to the time of setting out completely surrounded by baggage, vacation is a lonesome thing.

And yet it sometimes seems to me that the very nicest feature about vacation—any vacation—is getting home after it is all over.

Home that looked so work-a-day, that piled the monotony of week by week living on the spirit and burdened with responsibilities and depressed with lack of romance—what a change it develops within the fortnight or two that we are at the seashore or in the mountains or rushing about foreign lands.

The shabby old wicker chair on the veranda—how restful and inviting they look as we drag o[illegible] feet up the steps, a bit depress[illegible] by the thought that holiday is ov[illegible] and no let-down to look forward for another year.

How green the lawn is and [illegible] flowers, all broken into bloom [illegible] ing our absence, how bright [illegible] welcoming! How cool and re[illegible] all the rooms, free from the [illegible] ter of tourists, the whoopee [illegible] young folks in the cottage [illegible] the beach, the confusion of [illegible] stant movement and change.

And the food—funny how [illegible] ferent things taste at home [illegible] course we didn't think so mu[illegible] the cook before we went awa[illegible] we weren't eating well then—[illegible] an appetite. At least this is [illegible] the folks who stayed at hon[illegible] Ourselves, we are rather [illegible] opinion that the grub imp[illegible] while we were gone.

And our bed—say, there isn't any other bed quite like [illegible] own, is there? None that so urg[illegible] to the deepest, peaceful, most dreamless sleep in all the world. . . .

Do You Know—

England exports more than $10,000,000 worth of sweets every year.

Nearly 50 women are managing housing estates in London.

European dancing is almost unknown among the Japanese, while drinking alcohol and smoking is prohibited by law to anyone under twenty-one.

Girls who work in Japanese mill receive on an average the equivalent of $15 a month in wages.

Women outlive men owing to several reasons, one of which being that they breathe a much greater number of times to the minute.

Stocks in London Are Lower, With Volume of Trading Light

London, Oct. 21 (AP)—Saturday's slump in Wall Street caused [illegible] nervousness at the opening of the Stock Exchange here today. Various securities in which America recently has been interested suffered sharp reactions without much stock changing hands.

Brazil Tractions and Hydos were weakest, falling 3½ points. International Nickels fell 2½ points, with other transatlantic issues and industrials, and some oils, dropping in sympathy.

MARKET VIEWS OF BROKERS

[illegible] Olyphant & Co.: It is [illegible] were overbought [illegible] becoming over-[illegible] movements often run [illegible] consequently [illegible] this liquidation [illegible] prices already are down [illegible] Money should [illegible] this week.

[illegible] & Co.: We continue to urge [illegible] even in regard to stocks which we believe are worth their selling price such as rails [illegible] and we would caution against the danger of carrying [illegible] specialties which are tending downward.

Hornblower & Weeks: Although Saturday's liquidation was general enough to carry down the whole list, it is interesting to note that with the exception of the utilities [illegible] themselves [illegible] points established the first of the month and with the completion of the [illegible] selling this morning some attempt of a technical rally [illegible] However, we would use this rally to liquidate stocks generally, as we feel later in the week the market will again be concerned about the possibilities of another bigger loan report [illegible] of the volume of new financing.

Livingston & Co.: We cannot feel safe in adopting a general bull attitude until there has been some curtailment in brokers' loans [illegible] However [illegible] country might begin to [illegible] cautious accumulating [illegible] realization of the fact that [illegible] has its danger.

Clark, Childs & Co.: We expect [illegible] important rallying movement to develop immediately.

Big Bank Merger Puts Atlanta Ahead

New York, Oct. 21.—The consolidation of Atlanta & Lowry National Bank and Fourth National Bank of Atlanta, Ga., will give Atlanta most powerful financial organization south of Philadelphia. Combined resources of these banks and subsidiaries exclusive of various affiliated banks and other financial institutions in Georgia will aggregate $151,102,157. Capital of new bank will be $5,400,000, represented by 540,000 shares of $10 par.

California's Oil Output Is Larger

Crude oil production in California in week ended October 19 averaged 854,030 barrels daily, an increase of 2950 over the previous week.

STOCKS LOWER AFTER EARLY ADVANCES

New York, Oct. 21.—Stocks were [illegible] up at the opening [illegible] support which [illegible]

Montgomery Ward started out at [illegible] but was promptly [illegible] back to 90. General Motors after a short rally to above 61 broke below 60 for the first time in its present form. At 59½, Big Motors was down 32 points from [illegible] the price which [illegible] equivalent to a shrinkage of $1,43[illegible],000,000 in the market value of its outstanding common stock.

Prices Are Easy in Curb Exchange Trading

Prices were generally easy in [illegible] New York Curb Exchange trading [illegible] Fox Theatres 21, off 2 [illegible]

Prices were lower on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Trading [illegible] points to 187 and rallied later in the day.

Continental Shares slumped 3 at 67. New Haven eased 2¼ at 124 [illegible] preferred was down 2 at 106.

Aviation Securities Corporation gained 1 at 11 and St. Mary's was up a point at 36.

The following stocks had early losses of a point or more: American & Continental, Anaconda, Calumet & Hecla, Engineers Pu[illegible], National Stores, Hathaway B[illegible], Maine Midland, Spencer Trask and United Shoe.

Aviation Companies Offer $248,200,000 in Securities

Eighty-two aviation companies offered securities with an aggregate value of $248,200,000, based on offering prices, to the public during the year ended Aug. 31, 1929, according to a statistical study of the industry prepared by Air Investors, Incorporated, one of the leading investment companies in this field. Two companies, the Aviation Corporation and United Aircraft & Transport Corporation, accounted for $55,000,000, or 22 per cent of these offerings.

Cautious Optimism on Oils Favored

A policy of "cautious optimism" in regard to oil securities is recommended in the current bulletin of the Standard Statistics Company of New York, which goes on to say: "Despite the fact that oil production is continuing at a rate in excess of even the unexpected heavy consumption, sentiment in the industry is becoming increasingly favorable toward restriction of the output and in our opinion the early future outlook for the most promising witnessed for a considerable time.

"The most important development during the recent past has been the voluntary agreement of Oklahoma operators to restrict output for the remainder of the year to an average rate of 600,000 barrels, equal to [illegible] consumptive requirements for the period. The [illegible] Act in California, on the other hand, has accomplished little as yet, enforcement of the law being delayed by litigation. For the longer term we believe our confidence in the working of the act is well grounded and, taking all forces into consideration, look forward to 1930 with considerable optimism.

"Aided by increased activity, a better price basis during the major part of the year and lower costs, earnings of the great majority of oil companies have shown decided expansion and, for the full year 1929, aggregate income for the industry will probably be some 25 per cent above the favorable 1928 level. Common stocks of most companies are quite reasonably priced on the basis of indicated earnings."

Steel Output for Britain Is Larger

Steel output in Great Britain in September was 817,000 tons, compared with 783,300 tons in August and 718,600 in September last year. Iron output was 664,600 tons, against 662,000 in August and 503,000 in September 1928.

Low Money Tonic Fails to Cure Ailing Market

Close-Up of New President; Combustion's Action; Morgan's Thrill

By B. C. Forbes

B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Oct 21—The stock market has been so sickly that even the easy-money tonic has failed as a cure.

The hip-hip-hurrah has gone from brokers' offices. They are a worried lot who now frequent customers' rooms. The attendance has thinned. Many little fellows have been wiped out; they are back attending to their own business. Women, too, have been among the sufferers and most of them are painfully poor losers, often because their speculations are hidden from their husbands.

In Wall Street nervousness has taken the place of cheerful optimism. Declines have been outnumbering advances. A flier in the market is no longer regarded as a sure and certain short cut to fortune.

The most sensational collapse has been in International Combustion, which W. C. Durant assured his friends would prove the "Radio of 1929." They loaded up and so did their friends, paying anywhere from $70 to $100 a share.

This week the company stopped the 2 per cent dividend it has been paying for seven years, and the shares dropped below $27. Thus another Durant-sponsored stock has proved a fizzle. In Wall Street they now call it "Combustion, with emphasis on the bust."

It is always interesting to know the kind of fellows who land the big jobs. Perhaps the biggest job filled this week was that of the presidency of General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

John J. Schumann, Jr., moved up from the vice-presidency, is physically and mentally a giant. Originally trained in banking, he developed extraordinary selling ability. It is he who has been mainly responsible for the very widespread distribution of the Acceptance Corporation's paper among the banks throughout the country.

Intensely democratic, his delightful personality charms wherever he goes. His associates love him. He almost rivals A. P. Sloan as an incessant worker. He is only 40. He began life as an office boy in a financial house when only 14, but assiduously attended night schools and later, university classes. His rise has been entirely self-won.

J. P. Morgan gets more kick out of being elected president of the Harvard Alumni Association than he could have derived from any financial honor under the sun. After leading an aloof life for more than half a century, Mr. Morgan, now 62, began to change his attitude towards his fellow mortals. Since his wife died he has attached more and more importance to cherishing friendships. He has become genial, more sentimental—although he woul deny the last.

The hard work of running the Morgan firm he leaves mainly to younger partners, some of whom have devloped extraordinary ability and have been responsible for the tremendous recent expansion of the firm's activities.

The bloom is off investment trust flotations. Could the truth be uncovered, it doubtless would be found that the originators of the majority of recent flotations find themselves saddled with an awkward amount of stock which didn't stay sold. One investment trust issue, created recently by a very well-known, old-established Wall St. banking firm, has been selling a dozen points below the price paid by the bankers themselves, the directors and other insiders.

The next boom—if there be a next one—probably will be in companies organized to acquire control of banks. Bank stocks have caught the public's imagination. Very far-reaching plans are brewing for acquiring control of many banks by extremely powerful interests.

A. P. Giannini, whose Bank of America this week bought another banking institution in New York, has not yet rounded out his program. I hear that ambitious plans remain to be carried out.

Two oil stocks which have been acting impressively are Standard Oil of New Jersey and Royal Dutch, both giants managed by giants. Good oil shares lok cheaper than most others.

Artloom Profits Display Increase

Artloom Corporation reports net profit for the three months ending September 30, 1929 of $175,909 as compared with $98,800 for the like period in 1928. Net profit for the nine months ending September 30, 1929 amounted to $327,380 against $200,005 for the first nine months of 1928. The third quarter and nine months profits of 1929 show respective increases of 78 per cent and 63 per cent over those of the corresponding periods in 1928.

GOLD SUPPLY IS STUDIED BY BROKERS

Since May 1, 1927, the United States has lost approximately 6 per cent of its money gold stocks but the influence on the American financial situation of so much gold in this country, as compared with the world's total supply, has continued, according to an analysis to be published tomorrow by Frazier Jelke & Company.

Between the same date and September 1, 1929, the market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange increased 121.4 per cent, while brokers' loans between May 1, 1927, and October 1, 1929, increased 155.9 per cent. During the same period the Bradstreet's and Dun's indices of commodity prices have fluctuated in a comparatively narrow area.

Few economists, the analysis continues, fully understand the complicated statistical relation between the supply of gold and prices, and even those who profess to have mastered this phase of political economy disagree as to statistical method.

So long as gold remains the basis of credit and the foundation of the country's money system, prices should be measured in terms of gold. Hence, when the supply of gold increases more rapidly than the supply of commodities, other things being equal, prices advance; and when the supply of gold declines more rapidly than the supply of commodities, prices decline.

The analysis presents no conclusion to prove or support any particular theory concerning the present influence of gold in the stock market but merely traces the movements of gold and prices in face of a decline in the world production.

OUTLOOK FOR STEEL SPOTTY

Production scheduled in Mahoning Valley shows continued irregularity in new business in flat rolled products used by the automobile trade and will average around 75 per cent this week. Sheet & Tube and Republic Steel continue active in the merchant pig iron market and Struthers furnace expects to continue active in the merchant line until the end of the year.

Strip steel plants will average between 60 per cent and 65 per cent in week of Oct. 21. Fabricators, on the other hand, stimulated by the general business momentum, are maintaining high production rates of recent months and their schedules show only moderate recession. Production by secondary interests in this district is from 10 per cent to 15 per cent higher than last year at this time.

Newton Steel Co. will begin operations in December in its new plant now under construction at Monroe, Mich., which will supply full finished sheets to the automobile trade. During the navigation season shipments will be made by water to lake ports.

At the start the new Newton Steel plant will employ 500 men, later to be increased to 1500. R. M. Lanning of Youngstown has been appointed manager.

Motor Buses Gain 44 Per Cent in Past Five Years

Steam railroad lines are now operating 2265 motor buses and 5861 trucks, according to A. J. Brosseau, vice-president of National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Motor bus transportation, he declared, has increased 44 per cent in past five years.

Sidelights of Wall Street

By JULIUS G. BERENS

Paramount Dickering With Graphophone

OFFICIALS of Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation have held several conferences recently with L. S. Sterling, managing director of Columbia Graphophone, with a view to possible consolidation of the two enterprises. It is understood that the general arrangement meets with the approval of the controlling factors in both companies, with the Morgan interests inclined to support the programme. The deal is as yet only in the preliminary stages and the actual financial details remain to be worked out. It will be recalled that Paramount's name has frequently been mentioned in connection with Radio Corporation of America and that Columbia has also figured in similar reports.

Fidelity-Phenix Insurance is understood to have a substantial profit on a large block of Corn Products Refining.

Special Meeting for Paramount

A SPECIAL meeting of Paramount Famous directors will be held today, and it is understood that a capital readjustment will be voted with the probability it will take the form of a two-for-one split of the present stock. The Columbia Graphophone deal has not reached the stage where it will come up for definite action by the Paramount board. Coincident with the stock split-up, Paramount will also issue an earnings statment disclosing a remarkable increase in net over a year ago, those close to the company declare.

Certain prominent bankers heretofore decidedly bearish have considerably altered their opinion.

The Battle of Montgomery-Ward

TWO powerful groups on opposite sides of the Montgomery-Ward picture, one bearish, the other bullish, have been battling for domination for the past few days. The battle-ground had been $100 a share, with the bears exerting every energy toward breaking this level. However, each time the price was reached large-scale buying developed, and it is understood the bankers identified with the company had been supporting the stock. The leader of the bear element is understood to be an individual who recently made his comeback through successful raids throughout the list. The bears have been considerably aided by large-scale switching by former substantial stockholders in Montgomery-Ward to other issues.

Railroad stocks continue the favorite group of the best-informed bankers.

If the rails were to sell at 15 times their annual per share income, some of the stocks would be selling from 50 to 100 points above present quotations.

Atchison Taken by Bankers

BANKERS who have been unfriendly toward the general list have been steady buyers of Atchison throughout the recent weakness. It is their contention that Atchison might reasonably be expected to resist the general selling wave because of its exceptional position with respect to earnings and prospects. With net this year likely to exceed $25 a share, its present price, the bankers state, is hardly out of line. Furthermore, the prospects are bright for pleasing action in the next few months with a stock dividend a probability.

Public Utility shares have not yet won the renewed support of banking interests.

Elk Horn Coal to Retire Bonds

SHARP advance in the stock issues of Elk Horn Coal is stated to reflect pending retirement of the company's funded debt. With this out of the way, the preferred shareholders naturally would find themselves in much better position. There was also a report that the company's properties were desired by a prominent coke and gas producing concern.

Extent of Drop in Market Is Shown

The extent of the decline is reflected in a market shrinkage of $1,283,250,000 in the 43,500,000 shares of General Motors outstanding. From its high of the year to Friday's low Steel common shows a market shrinkage of 50½ points, equal to $447,306,200 on 8,132,840 shares. General Electric's low Friday was 55½ points under the year's high. On 7,211,481 shares outstanding the shrinkage amounted to $400,237,196 on the last named. Total market shrinkage for General Motors, United States Steel and General Electric was $2,130,793,396.

Worcester Banks' Merger Approved

Stockholders of three banks have approved plan whereby Worcester County National Bank absorbs Second National Bank of Barre and North Brookfield National Bank by exchange of 1¼ shares Worcester County for one share Second National and 4-5 share of Worcester County for each share of North Brookfield National. Separate identities and personnel of merging banks will be maintained.

INVESTMENT TRUST BUYS REALTY

New York, Oct 21. Entrance of investment trust capital into the real estate investment field on a large scale, is indicated by the purchase of a large parcel of New York real estate in the heart of the downtown financial district, announced by the Manhattan-Dearborn Corporation.

After several weeks of negotiations, the Manhattan-Dearborn Corporation an investment trust managed by Lawrence Stern and Company, investment bankers of New York and Chicago has assembled under a single fee ownership the major part of the triangular block bounded by Beaver, William and Broad Streets. The price paid for the property, which is to be held for investment or developed with a tall bank and office building, is reported to have been between $6,500,000 and $7,000,000.

Officials of the corporation said that this purchase was but one of a number contemplated by this investment trust, which proposes to invest a large portion of its capital funds in centrally located business properties in New York and other large cities which offer an opportunity for enhanced values.

EARNINGS FOR 9 MONTHS UP

The Gardner-Denver Co. reports net income after all charges and taxes of $1,133,900 for the nine months ended September 30, 1929, equivalent after preferred dividends to $5.20 a share on 195,479 shares of common stock outstanding.

Net for the corresponding period of 1928 amounted to $704,619, equal after preferred dividends to $3.16 a share on the common stock. Gross income for the period totaled $2,225,770, compared with $1,674,351 for the first nine months of last year. As of September 30, 1929, the company had a surplus of $3,378,666.

The balance sheet as of September 30, 1929, shows current assets of $4,383,161 against current liabilities of $560,300, a ratio of 6.80 to 1. The company had $400,000 on loan in the call money market as of that date. Total assets were $8,182,044 against $7,474,016 at September 30, 1928.

Following is a detailed comparison of the income account for the nine months ended September 30:

Electrical Head Is C. L. Collens

The National Electrical Manufacturers' Association announces the election of Clarence L. Collens of Cleveland as president for the forthcoming year, succeeding Huntington B. Crouse.

Mr. Collens, who is president of the Reliance Electric & Engineering Co., has now served the electrical manufacturing industry as the head of every association of which he has been a member. He has been president of the Electric Power Club, the Electrical Manufacturers' Council and the Electrical Manufacturers' Club. Awarded the McGraw award for his part in bringing about the organization of NEMA three years ago, Mr. Collens has been governor of the association and vice-president of the policies division since its inception.

Five vice-president were also elected for 1929-30. They are S. L. Nicholson, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., New York; C. H. Strawbridge, Goodman Manufacturing Co., Chicago; W. E. Sprackling, Anaconda Wire & Cable Co., New York; D. R. Bullen, General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y.; Louis B. F. Raycroft, Electric Storage Battery Co., Philadelphia.

Tire Output for August Announced

Tire manufacturers in the United States produced 5,803,804 pneumatic casings during August, according to Rubber Manufacturers' Association. Total production of inner tubes is estimated at 5,846,402 and total production of solid and cushion tires at 42,818 for the month.

Total shipments during August are estimated as follows: Pneumatic casings, all classes, 7,844,748; inner tubes, 8,183,262; solid and cushion tires, 56,870.

Inventories as of August 31, 1929, are estimated at 14,225,820 for all pneumatic casings; 14,156,770 for inner tubes and 136,410 for solid and cushion tires.

The tire industry is estimated to have consumed 60,644,800 pounds of crude rubber and 21,070,370 pounds of cotton fabric during August in the manufacture of all types of pneumatic casings, inner tubes and solid cushion tires.

The Association's estimates are based on reports by manufacturers who produce approximately 75 per cent of the total for the United States.

BUSINESS OVER 1928 LEVEL

Both production and distribution activity, have been continuing well above last year's level, according to the October report of the Conference of Statisticians in Industry, operating under the auspices of the National Industrial Conference Board.

While business activity on the whole has remained on a high level, necessarily there has been some shifting in the degree of activity from one industry to another. Slight recessions in the iron and steel and automobile industries thus were balanced in part by an increase in operations in several divisions of the textile group and in coal mining, due in part, of course to seasonal influences.

Declining demands upon the steel industry from automobile manufacturers were offset to an extent by increased demands for railroad equipment. Bituminous coal production has been larger since August 1 than for the same period in any recent year with the exception of 1926.

Newspaper advertising continues to run well above last year's appropriations, indicative of optimism among dealers as regards available fall business.

While in several of the heavier industries stocks on hand are more than normal, indicating a slackening of demand in those particular commodities, this is ascribed to conservatism on part of buyers and as having obviated all danger of commodity price inflation.

SCHULTE OUT OF 3 TOBACCO COMPANIES

New York, Oct. 21 (AP)—A. Schulte and his associates have resigned from the [illegible] Tobacco, Union Cigar and Webster Eisenlohr Tobacco companies.

Jewel Tea Co. reports sales during the four weeks ending Oct. 5 of $1,999,191. This is an increase of 32 per cent over the same period last year. Sales for the last 40 weeks have been $12,067,397, an increase of 63 per cent over last year.

The output of motor vehicles in the United States during September totaled 415,332 according to factory sales. This is a decrease of 83,030 compared with the preceding month and an increase of 18 over September, 1928.

Tire manufacturers in the United States during August produced 5,805,804 pneumatic casings compared with 6,471,768 in July and 7,465,141 in August last year.

ARMORED CARS IN MERGER

Armored Service Corporation of Brooklyn, the pioneer in armored car service, announces the purchase of Cross Armored Transportation, which has been operating in the Bronx, Westchester County and Connecticut. This merger gives the Armored Service Corporation a new and productive territory and brings its total of clients above 2500, with a fleet of 50 trucks and a staff of about 200 men.

Organized in 1921 Armored Service absorbed the Masters Dispatch of Newark in 1923, and the Armored Car Company of Trenton in 1927, with the result that it now furnishes a comprehensive service extending from Philadelphia through Trenton and Newark and Greater New York, to Connecticut.

A special feature of service now offered takes complete charge of the payroll problem, beginning with transportation of funds from the bank, and ending with actual delivery to individual workers.

In commenting on the development of the armored service idea, Laurence J. Ketchum, vice-president of the company, calls attention to the fact that firms thus served not only have the protection actually afforded by armored cars and armed guards, but that such precautions on the outside imply equally careful routine on the inside, so that armored service users are practically exempt from any attempts at holdups.

SHIRT MAKERS IN MERGER

Reliance Manufacturing Company (Illinois) has completed negotiations for the acquisition of Alperin Strauss & Co., shirt manufacturers of New York city with a factory at Hazleton, Pa. The deal was closed on the basis of an exchange of stock, the details of which were not announced.

It is the intention of the Reliance Company to incorporate the concern under the name of Alperin Strauss Company and continue it under the management of Barney Strauss and Sam Manacus operating as a subsidiary. The authorized capital will be about $250,000.

The acquisition entails no new financing, however, according to Milton F. Goodman, president of Reliance Manufacturing Company, who made the announcement.

This acquisition is the second important addition to the Reliance organization this year. The company took over the Check-Herowitz Company, pajama manufacturers of New York city, in June. In the 21 plants operated by the parent company and its subsidiaries, men's work and dress shirts, women's house dresses, boys' play suits and blouses, underwear, both shorts and one-piece, and night wear are produced.

"We are seeking as wide diversification as can be obtained and will continue to expand our organization whenever possible," Mr. Goodman said. He stated that the industry as a whole has been lax in following the trend of the times toward consolidation, but predicted that the time is not far distant when leaders in the textile field will take steps toward consolidation of the various groups. "Ways will be found to finance such operations," he predicted.

Grain Loadings Displaying Gain

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Oct. 21—Since the restriction on loading grain to the Lakehead has been lifted, loadings along Canadian National lines have shown a steady increase. On one day a total of exactly 590 cars were loaded by the Canadian National Railways. Likewise, grain marketings and storage at country elevators along the company's lines showed increases.

There are 3224 grain cars in transit to the Lakehead. Seven boats have steamed east taking with them 1,619,000 bushels and six more are loading.

Six hundred and sixty-five cars are in transit to the Pacific coast, divided as follows: 318 cars for Vancouver and 317 cars for Prince Rupert. Storage at Vancouver is now 7,887,000 bushels and 542,000 bushels at Prince Rupert.

Market Has Redistributed Economic Power of U. S.

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 21—The bull market has redistributed the wealth and economic power of the country. It has not only fabulously enriched institutions and individuals who took long term bull positions in carefully selected stocks during the protracted financial joy ride, but it radically altered the relative position of big business, and has fundamentally changed the relations between outstanding business institutions and their banks.

The muddled thinking about the meaning of the great change springs from inability to distinguish between short term, cylical swings in stock prices and more permanent shifts in the economic organization of American society.

Invited to make a speech here before the conference of New York, New Jersey and Eastern Canada credit executives, under the auspices of the national Association of Credit Men, on "The Bull Market and Its Effect on Commercial Credit," I stressed the foregoing theme.

The truth is that the Federal Reserve, in seeking to repress excessive speculation in the last 18 months, has pursued a more or less dear money policy, which has hurt small independent business men and favored large, well-managed corporations. The intention of the Federal Reserve was of course not in this direction, but the result has occurred nevertheless. Little business, which is still dependent on bank credit, has had to pay through the nose for loans, whereas big business, able to sell new stock at high prices, has freed itself of dependence on the banks, has paid off loans, and has become a huge bootleg lender to brokers at interest rates ranging between 5 and 12 per cent over a period of months.

In Congress, indignation has been expressed over the alleged fact that the stock market has sucked credit from legitimate business. In its frequent warnings against the abnormal increase in the use of borrowed funds for speculative purposes, the Federal Reserve Board has by implication given aid and punishment to those who hold this view. Modern economists, such as Waddill Catchings and David Friday, radically dissent from this opinion, holding that the stock market is a channel through which business gets funds. Mr. Catchings, who discussed this subject with me earlier in the week at Quebec, insisted on this view, holding that the only leakage of credit at the market place is that required to finance daily clearances.

Another outstanding statistical economist, whose official position required the protection of anonymity, in a message to this column, says: "It is perfectly clear, I think, that speculation does not 'absorb' or 'divert' credit from business; that it is just a channel through which credit flows from business, in other words, that you can't create credit and then attempt to fix its use afterwards. It goes into the stream and goes whither there is the largest demand for it, of course.

"It is obvious that the speculative boom has been, perhaps, the most potent force in driving up the interest rate, but my own feeling is that this does not directly affect business but has only an indirect effect in eventually restricting the volume of credit. But the action of this restriction is usually with a long term of from six to 12 months."

The abnormal rise in interest rates, which has sprung from the Federal Reserve attitude toward stock speculation as well as from extraordinary speculative activity at the Stock Exchange, has knocked the bond into a cocked hat.

Many investment bankers who had held a convention in Quebec all week, are, however, predicting a turnabout in the bond market in the not too distant future. Meantime, those who finance themselves on mortgages and bonds have been hard pressed. In a sense the whole world has been starved of credit. Despite its huge gold hoards, America has shut its doors temporarily as world source of capital. The troubles of would-be borrowers have been intensified by the fact that France, the second largest repository of gold, has also been closed as a world reservoir of capital on account of the continuance of obsolete tax laws, which the Bank of France would like to have repealed so that Paris may become a great world financial center.

Wide Swings in Stocks Reflected by Convertibles

By MONROE ROBERTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 — Wide swings in prices of industrial and utility stocks the past week were the direct cause of the severe reactions in active convertibles which crowd the center of the stage in speculative bond trading. Improvement in Liberty Bonds and prime corporation issues was carried another step or two as money rates eased off, money supplies increased and important investors added to their holdings of their favorite bond issues.

The future of bond prices hinges largely on money rates, and financial experts are scanning the horizon for some indication of the turn of events in this important field. If the 5 and 6 per cent call loan rate of the present week holds for any length of time, there will be a hurried exit of bootleg money from the call market and the better grade of bonds paying 5 to 5½ and 6 per cent will have a larger patronage.

As the 10 per cent rate on call money furnished the chief magnet for the idle funds of investment trusts, corporation treasuries and rich individuals, a 5 per cent rate will promptly have the effect of making millions of dollars available to attractive bidders elsewhere.

This will be welcome news to many of the corporation heads, who are under the necessity of borrowing money through the bond market at this time. An attractive 5½ per cent bond will be acceptable to the market without carrying the tag of a stock-purchasing warrant or a convertible provision entitling the investor to a certain number of shares of stock on a given date as has been the case in the last two or three years, and investment bankers will be gratified to have good bonds again standing on their own feet.

Liberty bonds and American Treasury issues ended the week about a point above last week's closing price range, reflecting the better demand from institutional investors at a time when the supply of bonds of this class is comparatively small. The bulk of the advances in Liberty issues took place on Friday, when three government war issues rose more than half a point.

Market interest centered mostly in the Att and Itt convertible 4½s, Atchison Railroad 4½s, Phila and Reading 5½s and Air Chemical 5½s, which followed the zig-zag market course of their respective stocks. American Tel. and Tel. convertible 4½s sold about 7 points above 200 and International Tel. and Tel. convertible 5½s reacted about 10 points to 148½. Convertible railroad bonds were fairly steady, with narrow price changes.

For the first time in six months, a large industrial bond issue was floated at 5 per cent on a straight investment basis, without any of the speculative frills which have attached to the bulk of of new offerings in that period. The new issue was an offering of $32,000,000 first mortgage sinking fund 5 per cents of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, sponsored by a powerful Wall Street banking group. Total new bond issues for the week was $50,000,000, including new municipal financial projects.

Money Lack Seen for Home Building

The pouring of funds into Wall Street has brought about a serious stringency in money for home construction, which, if it continues, may jeopardize the future progress of the nation, it is stated by Gage P. Wright, New York economist and president of the Business Economic Digest. Mr. Wright ascribes this condition directly to the high money rates caused by the Federal Reserve board's policy regarding speculation.

"As a result of an artificial stringency in money, increased speculation and a high money rate have attracted to Wall Street funds which would otherwise have been loaned on real estate security. Ability to borrow conservatively on a home is a necessary factor in the growth of our civilization; therefore the tight condition of the mortgage market presents a serious problem," says Mr. Wright.

Stockholders O. K. Holyoke Merger

About 95 per cent of common and majority of preferred stockholders of C. F. Church Manufacturing Co., Holyoke, Mass., accepted plan of merging with American Radiator & Standard Sanitary Corp. on basis of 2¼ shares of American Radiator for each common share and two shares for each Church preferred share.

Pen Stock Price to Dealers Raised

Effective October 30, W. A. Sheaffer Pen Co., Fort Madison, Iowa, announces that its fixed price of $63.50 per share for stock purchased by dealers and employes will be advanced to $64.50 per share. Range of price on the New York Curb has been from $65 to 68 since announcement of the Sheaffer Dealer Stock Participation plan conceived by W. A. Sheaffer so that dealers might share in the factory profit as well as the retail store profit upon the company's merchandise.

The company has paid regular dividend of $2 and two extra dividends of 50c each per share in 1929, placing the stock on a $3 basis. Volume of business for this year has been 25 per cent greater than for the same period last year and the company's profits have been very much in excess of the percentage of sales gain. Since the organization of the company in 1913 there have been annual dividends without interruption.

THE WORLD OF FINANCE

COTTON BUYING AT MARKET IS FAVORED

C. T. Revere, writing for Munds & Winslow, urges cotton buying at the present prices.

"It would be difficult to find a better example of the workings of organized contract trading in commodity markets than is furnished by the present situation in cotton. The market is dominated purely by technical considerations relating to insurance against changes," says Mr. Revere.

"In our letter of September 28 we referred to the heavy volume of purchases by merchants in the South with especially aggressive buying of cotton running 15-16 to 11-16, inclusive. Owing to the drought in the southwestern areas which caused much premature opening and consequently brought about inferior staple, and the unfavorable weather in September and October which resulted in considerable grade damage in the South Atlantic States the supply of so-called 'character' cotton, seldom any too plentiful, has been seriously curtailed. Those now accumulating these qualities may be reasonably sure that the basis on these holdings will be substantially higher before the season is much farther advanced. The mere firmness of the basis taken in conjunction with the negligible mill demand gives some indication of the tightness of this particular situation.

"Meantime, hedge sales against merchant purchases are pouring into the market. With speculative ardor dampened by the last Bureau estimate and somewhat timorous of a further increase that may indicate a a yield a trifle above 15,000,000 bales, practically the only support has come from the buying of contracts for the account of mills. Evidently manufacturers, unwilling to make 'call' contracts on the present basis are making scale down purchases of contracts in volume in partial anticipation of fixation.

"Trade buying of this character, however, has not been sufficiently large to offset the pressure of hedge sales and the scattered liquidation that usually accompanies a sagging tendency.

"We do not think that the fundamentals of the cotton trade or the textile industry enter largely into the present situation. The ruling factors at the moment are chiefly technical—hedge sales against purchases, making a supply of contracts in excess of current absorptive power.

"We feel, however, that underlying conditions are more favorable than appear on the surface. Consumption promises to be fully as large as that of last season, and may easily exceed that showing, particularly if the proportion of low grades in the present crop should be sufficiently large to produce more than normal discounts, thus bringing the price of American low grades down to a level where they would compete with Indian cotton in European Continental markets. This should result in a substantial gain in American consumption over last season.

"We do not think the relatively small spot sales of American cotton in Liverpool indicate competition from outside growths as much as they reflect the poor selections of American cotton in that market at this time.

"We believe that current levels full discount all bearish factors in the situation except the weight of the movement which is near or possibly past its peak. We therefore feel that the risk of purchases around existing levels has been greatly minimized. In our opinion, manufacturers using cotton of better than ⅞ staple up 1 1-16 should cover themselves on the basis without further delay and should protect themselves at these prices or on a scale down by purchase of contracts."

STEEL STUDIED BY INSTITUTE

Lower profits for steel companies are looked for in 1930 by the Business Conditions Service of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, not only because of a curtailment of demand, but because of a consequent reduction of prices.

The automobile industry has been largely responsible this year for the conspicuous increase in the demand for steel, although practically all other industries have increased their purchases. It is fairly certain that the automobile industry cannot maintain the 1929 pace next year, and the other steel consuming industries are not likely to increase their purchases sufficiently to offset the prospective reduction in motor car steel consumption.

At the same time the railroads are making purchases this year. Railroad buying, however, will taper off at the end of the year. But it is quite possible that the carry-over of unfilled orders into 1930 will be heavier than at the beginning of 1929. This promises to modify to some extent the prospective recession in steel output next year.

Since the end of the war the steel industry has experienced a well defined three-year cycle. A curtailment of production occurred in 1921, in 1924 and in 1927. This trend lends additional support to the prospect of curtailment in 1930.

STOCKHOLDERS of Forhan Co. under terms of the acquisition by Zonite Products are offered $5,250,000 in cash and 175,000 shares of Zonite stock.

TICKER TALK

By THE WALL STREET SPECTATOR

Editor's Note: This report is written before the opening of the market today. The report is an effort to inform you of daily developments in active stocks. The Boston Evening American takes no responsibility for the statements of the expert who conducts this column, but gives them to you for what they are worth.

New York, Oct. 21—There isn't a stock on the board that Spectator would recommend for a trading turn today because it seems certain that the market is going to sink to lower levels before any recovery sets in. Twice the list has broken through recognized "support levels." It is a tradition that it must break these levels three times before a sharp upturn appears. The margin calls sent out Saturday will bring in a flood of forced selling this morning and the list will sag through its previous lows, paving the way for a recovery that may set in about the first of the month. A canvass of brokers and bankers reveals that nobody of importance in Wall Street looks for an upturn this month. Therefore, Spectator once again advises readers to let the market alone for the present. It's better to have some money idle than to lose your bankroll in a seemingly futile attempt to beat a bear market. And we wouldn't dare sell short with stocks at current levels.

Advice About Rallies

In some quarters you will hear predictions of heavy selling this morning, followed by a rally in the afternoon. That is easily possible due to short covering. But Spectator must warn you against buying on rallies at this time. Don't do it for there is too much danger of getting your fingers burned. The best minds in the Street agree that rallies in this market are unlikely to be sustained and that no real recovery can be expected until the bankers behind the market indicate that they are satisfied with the market's correction.

The Automobile Business

One of the bearish factors is the trade reviews showing slowing down of the automobile industry. Spectator knows several big market operators, usually "in the know," who predict that Ford eventually will force some of the most important producers of small cars out of the business. Which explains why Spectator for some time has been bearish on the motors.

Investment Trust Selling

No one with common sense doubts that the investment trusts were largely responsible for the rapid upswing of public utility and specialty stocks a few months ago. On the other hand, many usually sensible people refuse absolutely to believe that investment trusts have abandoned their long position in these issues.

Spectator can vouch for the fact that several of the strongest of these companies have not only unloaded stocks but also are short of large blocks of stocks. In brief, the investment trusts are responsible for much of the pressure on the list. Never forget that the trusts are in business to make money, and that the short side sometimes offers the better opportunities. Don't ever believe that the investment companies operate only on the long side.

That Bear Pool

Everyone knows by this time that an enormously strong bear pool has been feverishly active for the last few weeks. Gossip links the name of a noted prince of industry with the group, and judging from the identity of the brokers who poured in the heaviest selling, it would seem that the stories are true. Which is not surprising, for captains of industry are prone to play the short side when they can't make a dollar on the long side.

Rumors About Cutten

Among other bearish rumors was one to the effect that the market break had put Arthur Cutten in a pot of trouble. From interests close to the Chicago operator, Spectator learns definitely that Cutten is still holding his long position in Montgomery Ward, Carbide, Harvester, Simmons and other of his favorites for the long pull. We do not doubt for one moment that Cutten has been selling the market short, but neither do we believe that any of his pet stocks have been taken out of his strong boxes. Follow Cutten for the long pull and you won't go wrong.

Steel and the Market

Spectator has insisted for some time that the bankers behind U. S. Steel were unfriendly to the market, and that Steel would be the bellwether of the list. Steel's action last week certainly bore out this prediction, for the stock sank 21¼ points, which meant the melting away of $200,000,000 in market value. Certainly, if any stock is entitled to sell above $225, it is Steel, which is earning at the annual rate of $24 a share. Selling in the face of such earnings can mean only that the bankers are willing to see lower prices.

Oils Win Friends

Brokerage circles are remarkably friendly to the oil stocks, probably because the oils and rails are the only groups that haven't taken part in any major advance and therefore may be expected to hold firm. At any rate, we repeat what we told you a broker said the other day: "Buy some Standard of New Jersey and Royal Dutch and you'll soon think you're in a bull market."

EGG IS LEADER OVER CHICKEN

Which comes first, the chicken or the egg? The egg, says the Business Conditions Weekly of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, at least in the value of the product. And the per dollar consumption of eggs is outstripping that of poultry.

Similarly, animal products are outstripping vegetable crops for table use.

Milk, eggs and poultry appear to be gaining favor in popular taste, as compared with potatoes, corn and wheat.

Since 1924 the production of the former commodities has increased, whereas the production of the latter has decreased.

In spite of the importance of the wheat crop, which is such that markets all over the world react to news of it, the value of the hay crop in the United States is considerably greater. The five leading crops according to the Institute are cotton, oats, corn, wheat and hay. Can you rank them in order of value?

The ranking reveals that hay is a bigger crop than wheat, corn bigger than cotton. Here is the correct ranking: Corn, cotton, hay, wheat and oats. The importance of the corn and hay crops is popularly overlooked because so large a percentage is used by the growers themselves for feed.

Brookmire Sees No Cause for Alarm

Fundamentally, with inventories well in hand, goods moving freely, commodity prices stable and funds ample for commercial purposes, business must be regarded as sound, says the weekly analysis of the Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., which adds: "It is important to note that production of manufactured goods has been declining while consumption of finished articles has been increasing, as measured by carloadings and sales of retail stores.

"This would indicate that manufacturers had merely been curtailing operations temporarily until accumulated goods were disposed of and confirms our belief that the decline in general business activity, while not to be ignored, is merely an orderly correction following a period of continued expansion, and not to be regarded as the beginning of a depression."

Bendix Looks for Bettered Business

Present indications are that earlier estimates of earnings of Bendix Aviation Co. net for current year between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000, are likely to be borne out, it was stated in official quarters. While activities are running at a reduced rate due to a normal seasonal slump, it is expected November and December will see resumption of higher operations.

Textile Shipments

Shipments of pyroxylin-coated textiles in September, as reported to the Department of Commerce by 16 establishments comprising most of the industry, totaled 1,768,287 yards of light goods and 1,351,285 yards of heavy goods.

50 Active Issues in Chicago Lower

The 50 most active stocks traded on the Chicago Stock Exchange during the week ended Oct. 19 had a market value of $4,261,717,341 at the close of business Saturday, as compared with $4,950,231,469 at the close of the previous week, according to a compilation by Lage & Co., members of the New York and Chicago Stock exchanges. This represents a decrease of $688,514,128, or 16.15 per cent.

Lage & Co.'s analysis shows that 17 of these stocks were listed and traded in a year ago. These stocks had a market value of $1,032,741,461 Saturday, as compared with $591,388,165 on Oct. 20, 1928, an increase of $441,353,296, or 74.63 per cent.

Outdoor Advertising Profits Hold Up

General Outdoor Advertising Co., Inc., reports for quarter ended September 30 net of $804,296 after depreciation, interest, amortization and federal taxes, equivalent after allowing for dividend requirements on $6 preferred and participating provisions of Class A stock to 89 cents a share on 642,383 no-par shares of common, against $806,975 or 90 cents a share on common in preceding quarter and $1,082,384 or $1.32 a share on common in third quarter of 1928.

Studebaker Group in Radio Field

Studebaker interests acquired substantial holdings in Marvin Radio Tube Corp., one of largest tube manufacturers in United States. They recently acquired interest in C. B. Kennedy Corp., makers of Kennedy radio.

FISCAL YEAR FOR PACKERS REVIEWED

The fiscal year closing at the end of this month for the "Big Four" packers has not been as profitable as 1927-1928.

Unsatisfactory hog and pork prices and the recent unprecedented run of hogs are principally responsible for the less favorable showing. The year's pack of hogs was accomplished at prices slightly higher than those prevailing at present.

In the 1928 year, hogs were packed in the early months at prices about 20 per cent lower than subsequent selling prices, although in final two months of that fiscal year, September and October, heavy hog runs brought about a price decline, which materially affected packers' profits.

By-product business, on the whole, has been satisfactory this year with some principal lines such as hides and wool, not measuring up to 1928 from standpoint of profits. Beef has not shown profits to packers for many years, due to scarcity of cattle and high prices.

ARMOUR GAINS

Of the "Big Four" packers, Swift, Armour, Cudahy and Wilson, Armour & Co. registered the greatest improvement in income last year. It reported net of $11,326,425 after all charges, including depreciation and taxes, equal to $1.12 a share on 2,000,000 shares of "A" stock, compared with $538,175, after charges, in previous year, or 41 cents a share on combined preferred stocks.

Wilson & Co. also scored substantial gain in 1927-1928 fiscal year, reporting net income of $2,207,877, after charges, against $147,396 a year earlier. Swift & Co. and Cudahy Packing Co. did not show proportionate increases, the former of $14,813,181 being 21 per cent larger than in previous year, while Cudahy, with $2,567,327, showed gain of 9 per cent.

REDEEMING FEATURE

A possible redeeming feature on the horizon for the big packers is modification of consent decree entered into in 1920. Under the decree the packers are prevented from handling any food products except meat. It also requires them to divest themselves of their interest in any unrelated lines, and of their ownership in stockyards and in stock terminal railways.

A petition seeking modification of this decree was filed with Supreme Court in August by Swift and Armour. Modification is sought on ground that growth of chain store organizations the past decade has integrated a considerable portion of the food industry and completely changed former methods of marketing food. Furthermore, it is contended that the decree has not kept pace with public policy of bringing producer and consumer closer together, thus making for efficiency and economy.

Should modification of decree be granted, it is quite possible the packers will enter the retail business. Their distributing facilities, too, could be utilized more economically for distribution of other food products such as vegetables, fruits, cereals, canned goods and grocery staples.

MEAT PACKERS WIN LEAD

Chicago, Oct. 21—Meat packing is once more the largest industry in the Uited States as measured by by value of output, William Whitfield Woods of Chicago, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, today stated to members of the institute in session here at the 24th annual convention.

"The plant value of the products of the packing industry exceeded three billion dollars yearly at the time of the last census," Mr. Woods stated, adding that this figure represented the output of more than 1200 establishments throughout the United States.

Discussing teh operations of the industry during the current year, Mr. Wood stated that the production of pork and lamb, as indicated by the number of animals dressed under federal inspection, had shown an increase as compared with the previous year, but that the production of beef and veal had declined slightly. "The aggregate production of meat for the year," hes tated, "promises to be about the same as it was in 1928."

Wholesale prices of most meat cuts at the present time are somewhat lower than they were a year ago, th president of the Packers' Institute stated. "The wholesale prices of most grades of beef are slightly lower than they were last year at this time," he said.

Health Lamp Orders Keep Plant Busy

Unfilled orders for the new health lamp on books of the Hurley Machine Co., a subsidiary of Electric Household Utilities Corporation, now exceed the first 30 days of factory production. This situation will be taken care of in a few weeks, officials said today, with expansion of manufacturing facilities in the recently completed factory addition. The Hurley Machine Co. manufactures electric household appliances. Its stock is listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange.

$25,000,000 Offering

City of Detroit in three or four weeks will make $25,000,000 bond offering to take up some of heavy bank loans and short-term notes outstanding.

AT THE DIAL

By THE RADIO EDITOR

GREAT NAMES crowd close upon one another in the early hours of this evening. Celebrities of all the world do homage to Thomas A. Edison in celebration of the golden anniversary of the discovery of the incandescent electric lamp.

PRESIDENT HOOVER is expected to speak at 7:30. This is one of three radio addresses in which the President figures during the current week. On Tuesday morning at 10:30 he speaks at the dedication of a monument marking the completion of the great Ohio river lock system at Eden Park, Cincinnati. On Wednesday, between 9 and 9:30 p. m., he speaks from a boat in the middle of the Ohio river at Louisville, officially opening a new bridge. All these talks will be heard on the national networks.

ONE OF THE STRIKING features of tonight's broadcast in honor of Edison will be a talk by Prof. Albert Einstein. The speech will come to America by transatlantic telephone direct from Einstein's home in Berlin. His talk, as well as the words of President Hoover, Henry Ford and Edison, will be brought by radio to every corner of America by N.B.C. and Columbia stations.

THE FORMAL events of the evening occur in Dearborn, Mich., where Henry Ford has gathered Edison's original laboratory and working equipment as a nucleus for an Edison School of Technology which the motor manufacturer is establishing in honor of his old friend.

THE INAUGURAL PROGRAM of the Chicago Radio Show, to be held in the Coliseum during the coming week, will be heard by the audience of WNAC and the Columbia System at 8 o'clock. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the United States Senator from Illinois, will participate in the opening of the radio show. Walter Dill Scott, president of the Northwestern University, will deliver one of the opening addresses. The musical program will consist of selections played by a concert orchestra, directed by Joseph Gallicchio, conductor.

CLUB KARNAK makes its debut on WLOE this evening at 7 o'clock, with Joe Facette and his orchestra. Four times each week, the music of the Club Karnak will be broadcast through WLOE.

Joe Facette is a well-known orchestra leader, formerly of Atlantic City, where he played at the cabaret of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

MUSIC from seven different countries making up the White House orchestra program under the direction of Hugo Mariani will be broadcast through WBZ and the NBC System Monday evening, October 21, at 8:30. Here's the program.

Overture to "Euryanthe," Von Weber; The Music Box, Liadow; Entry of the Bojaren, Halvorsen; Dagger Dance, from "Natoma," Herbert; Minuet, from "Suite of English Dances," Cowen; Dance of the Wooden Shoes, Kriens; Overture to "Masaniello," Auber.

THE PRODUCTION system used by key stations of the national networks has been adopted at Westinghouse Stations WBZ-WBZA by John L. Clark, program director. The announcer is thus emancipated from all responsibility for the program except that which his title implies. Other details, such as arrangement of the orchestra sections, microphone placement and timing of program numbers are the concern of the production man or "stage manager."

BEN ALLEY, tenor, and Helen Nugent, contralto, will be heard during the Burns Panatela Country Club broadcast over WNAC and the Columbia broadcasting System at 10 o'clock. They will sing "Here in My Arms" and "L'Amour Toujours L'Amour."

Roy Ingraham's Orchestra will play dance music, including "At Twilight," "Lovable and Sweet" and "To Be With You."

"STANDIN' in the Need of Prayer," a negro spiritual, sung by Don Bernard, will feature the Cabin Nights program from WBZ and the NBC System at 10:00 o'clock. Eunice Harper, Dell Owen and Marlin Hurt, contribute current favorites and old Southern melodies. The Cotton Pickers Quartet and an orchestra under the direction of J. Herbuveaux are heard in the following program: "Roll Dem Bones," Quartet; "Poor Butterfly," Orchestra; "Standin' in the Need of Prayer," Vocal solo, Don Bernard; "Louise," from "Innocents of Paris," Piano duet; "I've Got a Robe," Quartet; "True Blue Lou," from "Dance of Life," Orchestra; "Three O'Clock in the Morning," Piano duet; "Old MacDonald," Quartet; "It's Unanimous Now," Orchestra.

U. S.-to-Europe Air Line Planned

International Zeppelin Transport Co. has been formed by National City Bank interests. Wall Street hears the company plans to start service between United States and Europe. Further information on project sponsored by another group of important New York bankers for Zeppelin on Pacific line, extending first to Hawaii and later to Orient, indicates those interested in project include Lehman Bros., Grayson M. P. Murphy & Co., Harriman Brothers & Co., and Pynchon & Co. Western Air Express, Aviation Corp., and Goodyear Zeppelin Co. are also expected to participate.

Can a radio tube feel?

Just as the pleasures of life come to us through our 5 senses, good radio reception comes through tubes that have 5 vital "sense" characteristics. Even if a tube lights, vital "senses" may be missing. CeCo has pioneered in the making of "keen-sense" tubes. Look for the CeCo label, and be sure of 30-50% more hours of "keen-sense" life.

CROWLEY QUITS FLYING MAIL FOR COLONIAL

According to an announcement made by Division Supt. Rickard W. Mackie, Nov. 1 will see a new mail pilot on the Boston to New York run for Colonial Air Transport.

Frank C. Crowley, first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps Reserve who holds many honors in the flying game, will make his last trip Oct. 31. No reason was given by Mackie for the departure of Crowley from the mail run. Frank, when asked, stated that he had not resigned. As may be expected, rumors are flying around the airport thick and fast, but as yet, no one has found the solution of the problem.

Frank is acknowledged to be one of the most thoughtful of the mail pilots who have flown this run, and who looks at the mail route each night he flies as a problem. The right answer to the problem is, of course, the safe landing of the mail at Newark Airport, the southern terminus of the route. Crowley's long years of flying, and many hours spent in the night air, have given him a sixth sense when it comes to battling through tough weather conditions.

Replacing Frank the first of next month will be Roy Ahern, a barnstorming pilot, who has hung up what looks like a record for passengers carried, having hauled 25,000 of them since the first of January.

Roy, who is credited with 4,500 hours in the air, although we don't know if this is official or not, will make a couple of trips over the run before he steps into Crowley's shoes, and then will carry on by himself.

We had a chat with Roy the other day, and he told us of his intention to fly the mail, but stated that it was just for a couple of months. He has worked hard all year, and had promised his wife to take her on a vacation trip to the west coast. The opportunity to fly the mail was presented to him, and he decided to take it for a short time.

Crowley has no idea what he will do after he makes his last mail run, but will evidently land a good flying job for some one of the companies on the airport.

Frank is the third of Colonial's pilots to leave the service of the company, the other two, Kirby Whitsett and Homer Farris, having resigned from the tri-motor run to go to South America.

Before Farris left Boston on his last trip for Colonial, we asked him to send us a resume of his life to date, and the following tells all there is to know about this boy who flew tri-motors for Colonial from the first day the line opened.

Homer V. Farris was born in London, Ky., July 21, 1896. Graduate of Louisville Military School; Western Kentucky State Normal, and Jefferson College of Law. Enlisted as a flying cadet in the air-service in 1917. Attended ground school at University of Ohio, and was graduated form the School of Military Aeronautics, Berkeley, California.

Served during the war with the Army Air Service as a flying officer, and now holds the rank of captain in the Air Corps Reserve. He is also executive officer of the 465th Pursuit Squadron.

Homer flew for various people after the war, including Adjt.-Gen. James A. Kehoe, of Kentucky. Was made a colonel on the staff of Governor Fields of Kentucky in 1925. Three years of flying for C. C. Mengel, president of the Mengel Mahogany Co.

In between times, Homer was barnstorming the entire south. Has flown for Colonial on the tri-motors as first pilot since the passenger line started, and successfully completed every trip but one. This one trip Homer flew for 3½ hours in a dense fog, finally finding a field and landing the ship safely.

Farris holds the speed record for the tri-motor line, both ways, making the trip to Boston in 77 minutes, and the New York hop in one hour and 30 minutes.

That will give you an idea of this chap who will leave his home in New York for South America, shortly after the first of the month, and will also show you why the entire gang at the airport will miss Homer.

Owing to an unfortunate accident to the motor of his speedboat, Tom Croce was unable to give his passengers a ride in the boat after taking them up in the air. The oil pressure dropped off during a spin around the harbor, and the connecting rod bearings were burned out. Tom says he will have the boat running again next week-end, so that he and his side-kick, Val Chick, may take their passengers for an additional thrill around the harbor.

Advance for Rail Shares Predicted

Gradual increases in the values of railroad stocks may be reasonably expected in the next decade, says the weekly market analysis of the Brookmire Economic Service, Inc. The Shippers' Regional Advisory Board predicts a 23 per cent increase in car-loadings for the last quarter of 1929 as compared with the similar period of 1928. In recent years, the railroads have been improving their operating efficiency and net earnings have tended to increase more rapidly than gross receipts.

Before the war, railroads paid out 75 per cent of earnings in dividends. At present they pay out only 56 per cent. A return to pre-war standards would result in increased dividends, and although the exact time for such action cannot be predicted, gradual increases over the next decade seem to be a reasonable expectation.

TOURS AND TRAVEL TOURS AND TRAVEL

THE CLEAN WAY TO CALIFORNIA
GREAT NORTHERN

Going or returning...

Either going or returning this season, make your California trip via Great Northern . . . the interesting clean way. You can see the beauties of the towering Rockies and the evergreen Cascades with complete freedom from dust or soot or cinders . . . for this great scenic stretch is only a part of the 1,200 miles of clean travel behind super-power electric and oil-burning locomotives.

And the clean pine forests; the high, snow-capped mountains, the hurrying rivers . . . no wonder seasoned travelers knowingly call the Great Northern the clean way West!

Roll of Horror

THIRTY Automobile Deaths in One Week

THE people of Massachusetts have before them another of Capt. Parker's weekly reports, as Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and the same old question persists:

What is to be DONE about it?

Thirty deaths in one week, as the result of automobile accidents on Bay State highways, establishes a NEW RECORD, the second within the month.

What is to be done about it?

The question no longer is whether it is the speeder who is most at fault, or the drinking driver, or the pedestrian, but how to check or abate the slaughter.

More traffic police? Subways under the highways at the busier crossings? Municipal garages at city limits for private cars?

Who has the answer upon which any considerable part of the motoring public will agree?

There is no other domestic question before the people of the Commonwealth so grave as this.

The Foreign Market

How the New England Manufacturer May Get in Touch With It

EVERY manufacturing organization in New England interested in any degree in foreign markets and their possibilities should have a representative on board the Federal Express on the evening of November 6th when it leaves for Washington with the New England Export Club's excursionists.

The objectives of this two-day visit to the Capital may be stated in a few words:

"To promote a better understanding of the Foreign Trade service available to American manufacturers at the Department of Commerce, and to demonstrate to New England's representatives in Congress that New England IS interested in the AGGRESSIVE promotion of foreign trade."

A committee of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce is preparing an instructive program.

Export executives desiring to take this trip are advised to get in touch with Edward O. Otis, Jr., secretary of the Export Club—a branch of the Boston Chamber of Commerce—at No. 80 Federal Street.

Layers of the Sun

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

THE ignorance of the average person regarding the earth's chief luminary is appalling.

We probably know that it is larger than the earth—because the earth revolves around the sun, but not that it is approximately 1,000,000 times the earth in volume.

We know that its brightness on a clear day is so dazzling that we cannot look at it with the naked eye.

But we probably do not know that the light received by the earth from the sun is 600,000 times that received from the full moon.

The brilliance of the sun may be realized when we reflect that the volume of the sun is more than 60,000,000 times that of the moon.

AS we look at the sun we observe a great fiery ball in the heavens. But to the astronomer the sun is made up of a series of concentric regions or layers.

We should naturally expect this, for our own earth is enveloped with what is known as the earth's atmosphere.

First, there is the innermost region—a glowing sphere of incredibly fierce heat, concerning which we know little or nothing.

It is radiating light and heat in enormous quantities at so rapid a rate that we might well conclude that the sun was gradually consuming itself.

Investigations along various lines, however, agree in compelling the conclusion that the sun will continue to illuminate and heat the earth and possibly even for hundreds of millions of years in the future.

THIS central body or nucleus of the sun is surrounded by a brilliantly luminous envelope or layer of vaporous matter. This is really what we see when we look at the sun. It is this which the astronomer calls the photosphere.

Above the photosphere is an overlying layer of glowing gases. This layer, as might be suspected, is known to be cooler than the underlying photosphere.

Its constitution may be likened to a thick veil of smokelike haze, varying in width from 500 to 1000 miles. This is known as the reversing layer.

THE most startling feature of the sun is that of "solar prominences."

Out of the Red Sea of the sun shoot great "volcanic eruptions" of glowing hydrogen and calcium vapor. These fiery tongues of flame or streamers of radiant vapor are shot outward from the sun with tremendous propulsive force.

Sometimes, even at this gigantic distance of 93,000,000 miles, the flying debris thus shot out from the sun is almost perceptible to the eye.

One of the greatest solar prominences ever observed was at least 142,000 miles in height—say 18 times the earth's diameter.

One such prominence was so vast that supposing the eight large planets of the solar system were piled one on top of the other the prominence would still tower above them.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

DEAN INGE of England is still pecking mournfully at the shell of melancholy.

The dean has been moaning off-key for many years and has earned the title of the gloomy dean.

His latest morose sub-title is that the Anglo-Saxon race in America will be extinct in two hundred years.

And the dean is so gloomy that he hopes to live to see it.

The dean could have gone a little farther with safety and predicted that we all would be extinct in the next two centuries.

However, we fear that the dean's latest nibble at the goosebone has no more foundation than floating sea-weed.

Right now, the English language is making great strides in America.

English will be the alphabet of the universe. It is still young and fresh for it has never been the language of peace conferences.

We admit that we do not talk pure English over here.

We learn it in school and forget it in college.

When a freshman is talking to a junior, only a sophomore could understand them. We approve of this system. It saves a lot of insults.

The subway guards have a patois of their own which neutralizes espionage on the part of passengers. The delicate and soulful dialogue of chauffeurs at twilight is another method of communication that is educationally mysterious.

The English tongue in London is mostly adenoids.

In America it has blisters on it and a thick coating of coloquialisms and idioms. When we speak it we punctuate it with porcelain fillings and drown it in the odor of perfumed chewing gum.

It is a very useful language for municipal welcomes, dedicating cornerstones and breaking a lease.

He who speaks the Anglo-Saxon tongue becomes an Anglo-Saxon and replaces quoits with the elite of the earth.

But you cannot stop the gloomy dean from getting out of his cradle on his wrong foot. He tats a sour prediction every day. He knows the world is going to the frankfurters and he is the boy who will supply the mustard.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

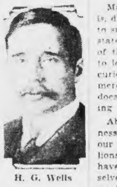
THE Greek mind had attained a fairly free, candid, and experimental attitude towards thought in Athens and Alexandria between the fifth and third centuries B. C., but the mind of the decaying Roman Empire, and still more so that of the confused centuries that followed, was obsessed by a sincere terror of the Tree of Knowledge.



H. G. Wells

The dissection of animals could no longer be thought of as a frank examination of something curiously and fascinatingly hidden; it was a process touched with a quality of monstrosity, a vile prying into entrails for base and evil ends, best done in the dark of the moon.

These feelings were not in the least humanitarian; they did not deter the medieval world from the most liberal use of rack and thumbscrew and every form of torture, nor from the infliction of death in exquisitely painful forms, but they made men recoil from the cool and deliberate investigations of the anatomist's knife.

Why should you cut up a man unless you hated him and wanted to triumph over his poor remains? That one could understand. To dissect things simply in order to see and know was to defy the powers that had hidden his own interior from man. It was presumption. It was not good honest cruelty; it was pride and impiety to do such things.

Let us not suggest that the restriction upon intelligent curiosity, the submergence of the first beginnings of scientific biology in Europe and western Asia by the Roman civilization was the coming of a new and unprecedented darkness upon the human mind.

Still less would we attach any specific blame to the spread of Christian doctrine as such. Quite outside the Christian movement, the Roman world was pervaded by a general drift toward magic and superstitious squalor. The Pagans just as much as the Christians felt the fear and fascination of things forbidden.

It was a relapse to a congenial obscurity from which man had for a brief period emerged. The great age of Greece was an exceptional release of intellectual courage in the ancient world.

Man has always been, and still is, disposed, perhaps instinctively, to suppression and panic at plain statement; it is the hardest task of the educationist to train him to look facts in the face. He is curious by nature—yes, but he is merely and furtively curious. He does not like to be caught looking or suspected of thinking.

About the body a cleanly frankness is the last achievement of our civilization. There are millions of people in the world who have never contemplated themselves unclothed in a mirror, and would not willingly do so. Many religious orders deny their votaries an entire bath.

There is a real natural and instinctive resistance to biological knowledge in the mass of mankind, and the nearer that knowledge approaches to our own minds and bodies, the intenser the resistance becomes.

The resistances to knowledge are not merely passive. It is not only that most human beings are indisposed to know and learn; they are afraid of and hostile to all that they do not know and they seek to prevent it in others. The human mind is much more tortuous and indirect than it will consciously admit; it often fails to understand its own motives.

Since the great revival of scientific work in the sixteenth century there has been a steady undercurrent of deprecation and antagonism which rises very easily to active obstruction and suppression. The self-love of the ignorant has demanded that the man of science, in play and story, should be caricatured, ridiculed, and misrepresented.

From Laputa to the Pickwick Club, British literature, for example, spits and jeers at its great sister, and to devote a life to science and the service of truth is still to renounce most of the common glories and satisfactions of life for a hard and exalted mistress.

But while the pomps and glories of every other sort of human activity fade and pass, the growth of science is a continuing and immortal thing.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

TURNING a 12 o'clock lover into a 9 o'clock husband is the greatest sleight-of-hand feat of a woman's life.

That glow of self-righteous pride which a man feels when he occasionally wipes the dishes on the maid's day out, usually lasts as long as the average permanent wave.

So far, man seems to have invented about everything the human heart can desire—except a drink that will quench the thirst as well as plain water, and something that will satisfy a woman's soul as well as love.

Woman's versatility: To be able to run a car with one hand, powder her nose with the other and take in the new fall ensemble which the woman in the other car is wearing—all at the same time.

It may annoy a man to lose his hat; it may worry him to lose his wallet; it may distress him to lose his wife, but nothing so completely bewilders andparal yzes him as to lose his key-ring.

The modern bachelor appears to be going through life with his hand on his pulse—daring any woman to make him register a thrill.

Many a girl misses her chance to make good at a big career, because while opportunity is knocking at the door she is listening to the voice of love at the window.

The Wise Lover's Philosophy: "The longest way round is the SUREST way—to a woman. Take your sentimental short cuts coming BACK."

A woman can forgive a man for almost anything except that air of "patience," with which he listens to her perfectly justifiable impeachment after one of his detours from the straight and narrow.

In these days of progressive matrimony, it's a wise woman who can keep her wedding anniversaries all straightened out in her mind.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

THERE is no casual word. We know
More surely as the swift years flow
That every syllable Time sent
Fell on our ears by sure intent,
That every impulse, every deed
Was given in answer to some need.

There is no useless dream or hope
For, ever, as we onward grope
Toward better things and clearer sight,
Each cherished vision leads to light,
Each vital longing we possessed
Has waked new powers in the breast.

There is no bondage that can bind
The spirit, keep the soul confined;
No tyranny that can deny
Love's ever-wise activity;
No casual word or thought. Why fret?
Each need will in good time be met!

Put Education in Cabinet

If President Delays Creation of Separate Department With Its Own Secretary, Congress Should Act

CREATION of a Department of Education with a secretary in the President's Cabinet was one of the first constructive tasks to which the new Administration was expected to address itself as soon as it entered power last March.

Such a department is essential if the Federal Government is to take the lead in a vigorous campaign of the several States to abolish illiteracy everywhere under the flag.

BUT AT THE END OF SIX MONTHS THE MOUNTAIN IS STILL LABORING AND FAILING TO BRING FORTH EVEN A MOUSE. The Secretary of the Interior has ordered a change of name for "The BUREAU of Education," which is a minor part of the Department of the Interior.

That bureau in the future will be officially designated as "The OFFICE of Education."

Two reasons are given for the change. The first is that the law creating this agency designated it as the office of education. The second is that the Secretary of the Interior believes that "office" better describes the nature of its work than does "bureau."

As reorganized the "OFFICE of Education" will abandon as far as possible its administrative tasks and concentrate upon fact-finding, surveys, and research in many fields of education.

This change of name and change of program may be changes for the better. But both fall far short of a comprehensive program for the promotion of education throughout the Union and the support of education which the Constitution places under the control of the several States.

Not until the Congress establishes a Department of Education, places at its head a Secretary of Education, and assigns to him a seat in the President's Cabinet, will the Federal Government begin to do its full duty by the several States and support their common warfare against illiteracy.

The newly named and newly reorganized "OFFICE of Education" will be just as handicapped in its research work as the old bureau of education until Congress appropriates the funds essential to research in all fields of education and to the distribution of the information and conclusions thus obtained for the use of the several States.

And Congress cannot be expected to authorize adequate appropriations for this purpose until education is put upon an equality with agriculture, commerce and labor. And the only way to do that is to establish a Department of Education and co-ordinate within it all Federal agencies now dealing with education.

Under the auspices of the new department would be organized the advisory council of State superintendents of education for which the pending education bill provides.

Then, and not until then, will the Congress or the country take very seriously the efforts of the Federal Government in the field of education.

Tinkering with the machinery of the existing agency, changing its name from a "bureau" to an "office," reorganizing its industrious but inadequate staff, is merely a peck away at a great problem instead of finding a solution commensurate with its importance.

If the new Administration delays much longer going to the support of the countrywide campaign to create a Department of Education and make it one of the great executive departments of the Federal Government, then the opportunity and the obligation will devolve upon the Congress to carry this cause to victory under a leadership raised up within the two houses.

But the public is getting accustomed to seeing things NOT done by the present administration.

IT WAS SAID OF TAFT THAT HE ONLY DID WHAT HE COULD DO SITTING DOWN, AND IT MAY EVENTUALLY BE SAID OF HOOVER THAT HE DID NOT EVEN DO THAT MUCH.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. M'INTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—Diary of a modern Pepys: Hurried out to race a train, and, falling down steps of my inn, swore a pox on those who laughed mockingly. Nor, save for Will Mahoney, have I ever seen a man arise from a hard fall without appearing utterly foolish.

Then to see Frazier and Emma Hunt, back from their Alberta ranch to set off to London again. Home, where came by express six huge goblets of glass from Amon Carter in Ft. Worth, the largest I ever beheld and where I shall put them is a problem.

In the evening with my wife to drive to Ray Long's in Connecticut, the first time I have seen his new estate, and Hugh and Sadie Murray there, also Hattie Belle Johnston, Eva Steinmetz, Otis Ralston, Reinald and Verna Werrenrath and I kissed all the ladies. Home late.

Fifty-seventh street is to have the largest swimming pool in America and will feature a celebrated jazz band. Among tunes I have thought up for them to play are: "Asleep in the Deep," "Shall We Gather at the River?"—and this is not turning out as funny as I thought.

In Scotland there is a New York. It is the western shore of beautiful Loch Awe, where the sky is always the smoky blue of a desert twilight. There are quite a number of Scottish New Yorkers in the Metropolis.

A cocktail diversion from Britain is called, appropriately enough, The Sparker. It consists simply of a raw egg beaten up in a glass of champagne and has long been a "pick-me-up" for English jockeys. The drink not only has a reviving glow but will not add a fraction of weight. Three of them, however, and you're fried.

Speaking of jockeys, in other days, Broadway had a retired jockey or so among the flash spenders. They rode hard out of the saddle and wound up with a benefit—and quick oblivion. Many jockeys today, however, have attained financial independence in retirement. Perhaps the most picturesque jockey along the street was Tod Sloane. He was a diminutive fashion plate, witty conversationalist and a graceful Epicurean. At the peak of his career he added to his glamour by marrying Julia Sanderson, the reigning musical comedy toast of the town.

In a glorified skyscraper they call the elevator runners: "Directors of Uplift."

And a toney inn has a sign over its chief porter's cage labeling that worthy: "Esquire of Travel."

Many chief porters as well as underlings in hotels are a prolific source of revenue for handbooks. Nearly all play the ponies. Waiters are next in enthusiasm for a game that cannot be beaten.

An overworked publicity racket in the theatrical field is to cook up "rumor engagements" among stars and broadcast them. One newspaper now has a rule the actual marriage must take place before a line, ha, ha, will be printed.

A New Yorker who never took a drink in his life carries a completely filled flask. And why is it those who do so much drinking rarely carry even an empty flask? I'm not sore—merely asking.

The park commissioner is pleased with the way the young trees in Central Park are growing. Still, after deep reflection, there isn't much else they can do.

A hardened Broadwayite with a disquieting pallor the other night described trees as "those things small town yaps hold to while going home at night."

A country boy gets little emotional reaction out of a tree. He was brought up to look upon it as something to chop down.
